SLEEPERS BOUNCED

MONTREAL (CP) — An earth tremor shook towns throughout the Laurentians north of Montreal early today, bouncing people from their beds, rattling windows and vibrating floors.

"It was like a train passing through your room," said a spokesman from the St. Agathe weather office, 70 miles northwest of Montreal.

"It lasted a short time, but the windows were rattling and the floor was shaking,' said Yvonne Leng of St. Jerome.

The tremor, which began around 3:40 a.m., lasted about 30 seconds and was felt in a wide area between St. Agathe and St. Jerome, 40 miles north of Montreal. Police in the area reported numerous phone calls about the shake-up.

A Quebec provincial police spokesman said horns went off in parked cars in St. Agathe and a basement floor was cracked in Rawdon, several miles away.

The seismological office at College Jean de Brebeuf in Montreal said the tremor registered between 3 and 3.3 on the 10-point Richter scale and was strong enough to do minor damage to buildings.

"There have already been several minor earthquakes in the Laurentians this year," said Father Maurice Buist of the school's geology department, adding that the Laurentians, the St. Lawrence Valley and the Ottawa Valley are prone to seismological disturbances.

CALLS HIMSELF A MISFIT

Wallace Resigning From B.C. Politics

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

Tory Leader Scott Wallace, a self-styled "misfit in politics," today bid an emotional farewell to the B.C. political scene.

Wallace, declaring that his "common sense, moderation and sweet reason" are not suitable to the political climate of B.C., announced he will step down as leader of the party this fall and will not seek re-election as an MLA in the next provincial election.

The feisty doctor-politician who first ran for the Social Credit party in his Oak Bay riding in 1969, cited personal reasons for not continuing his political career.

But he also made clear his disillusionment with politics in general, particularly in B.C., and voters who chose extremes.

"I tried to play it straight and to stick to the facts in the thinking that most voters are common-sense people," a subdued Wallace told a news conference this morning.

"That doesn't seem to be the answer."

Wallace's three-and-a-half-year term as party leader has been hot with battles, both philosophical and political, with the party brass.

His style of leadership, he said today, is not palatable to the federal arm of the party, and unsuccessful provincially.

"My style of leadership clearly is not leading to any increased support for the Progressive Conservative party in B.C.

"I only regret that I have not succeeded in providing the kind of leadership and charisma which attracts many new members and which are essential in building a party with the capacity to become government in this province."

The party needs more of a diplomat as leader, Wallace said, adding: "I've never been renowned as one."

Wallace has suggested in a letter to provincial party president Frank Oberle that a new leader be chosen at the party's annual meeting in Kelowna Oct. 7-10.

At that time, Wallace said, he will decide whether to step

PHILLIPS DRINKING AMNESIA MILK—NDP

Economic Development Minister Don Phillips has been taking a strange concoction called "milk of amnesia," the opposition suggested Wednesday.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver East) complained in the legislature that he has been waiting for 19 weeks for the minister to answer a question about the controversial B.C. Railway. (See other legislative stories on Page 27.)

Phillips promised an answer to the question "in due course," one of his favorite answers.

Blackout Paralyses New York

Times News Services

NEW YORK — New York City was virtually closed today, looters went to work and the biggest city in the U.S. was paralysed by a massive, lightning-triggered blackout.

Dawn brought the first light in hours for millions of residents who endured the hot summer night without power.

It was a long, humid night during which, police said, 2,000 persons were arrested for looting and 78 police officers were reported injured, including one who was shot.

Mayor Abraham Beame suggested city residents stay home until the emergency is resolved.

'It will not be possible to operate a normal day," he said.

The blackout, which shut down the largest city in the United States at 9:34 Wednesday night, continued into the daylight hours as power technicians struggled to restore electricity one section at a time.

By 10:45 a.m. more than half of Con Edison's 2.8-million residential and business customers in the metropolitan area were still without power.

Officials said they hoped to have most back in service by 2 p.m., but there was a possibility that some people might not get power for another 24 hours.

But in the heart of the city, there was barely a trickle of electricity.

Beame declared a state of emergency and called for an investigation.

"We cannot tolerate in this age of modern technology a power system that can shut down the nation's largest city," he said.

Traffic was extremely light as residents and workers apparently heeded Beame's request to stay home. Cabs and buses were operating, although no traffic signals worked.

Banks, state office buildings and off-track betting offices were closed. So were summer schools and gas station pumps.

Water was cut off in many of the city's larger buildings as electric pumps failed.

The subways were useless, most commuter railroads motionless. Wall Street was shut down, the stock market out of business for the duration.

Elevators were immobilized.

Hundreds of hotel residents slept in the lobbies rather than mount staircases to their rooms on uupper floors.

Beame said there will be no

The City Became a Jungle . . .

Times News Services

NEW YORK — On the hottest night of the summer, New York City became a jungle without lights Wednesday, crimping the lifestyle of more than eight million people.

Without electricity, New York dies quickly and the second blackout here in nearly 12 years began to do just that.

Coming out of Lincoln Tunnel into Times Square from brightly-lit New Jersay was a shock even for one who had been through the 13-hour blackout in 1965.

The New Jersey cabbie doing the driving armed himself with an eight-shot, .25-calibre revolver. "I can hit a mouse at 40 feet," he said as he drove to New York.

Going into Times Square, even in a locked taxi with an armed driver when there are no lights — except from flares, flashlights and emergency lights in a few buildings — is like entering another world.

Thousands of people milled around the streets of Times Square, staying close to the darkened buildings. The sin strip of porno shops and massage parlors, the theatre marquees touting x-rated pictures, and the rest of the seedy picture were mercifully hidden by the darkness.

But the people were there. That scared the cabbie. "I'm glad I've got my gun," he said.

When darkness hit the steel shutters and iron fences provided sequrity for some of New York's stores. However, other stores were not so fortunate.

In one small way the blackout was no different from most events here: Har-

Cycle Tryout Costly

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver youth who offered his friend the use of his powerful motorcycle for a solo tryout ride must share damages for injuries the friend suffered in a crash Mr. Justice E. Davie Fulton ruled Wednesday.

The B.C. Supreme Court judge, ruled that Gregory Monte Lawson, then 17, the owner of the 650 cubic centimetre machine, was negligent in failing to warn his friend Michael Richard Stermer, also 17, about the sudden surge of power from any substantial twist of the throttle and about the touchy nature of the tuned-up brakes.

At the same time, the judge held that Stermer was equally responsible for his own injuries by not taking responsible precautions for his own safety.

Court was told that on April 27, 1974, Lawson offered Stermer the use of his motorcycle for a trial spin, that Stermer had limited experience on small trail bikes but none on larger machines, that during the ride he lost control while applying power and crashed into a house and suffered severe injuries.

Court was told that the injured youth did not have a motorcycle licence, and also was told that in B.C. no practical test or written test. is required before a person may obtain a learner's licence.

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India's new government announced Wednesday it will conduct no further nuclear test explosions.

TRUCK KILLS BABY GIRL

PORT ALBERNI — An inquest has been ordered in the death Wednesday of a 20-month-old girl killed when run over by a truck driven by an off-duty RCMP constable.

A police spokesman said Constable Peter Werner, 20, has been visiting friends and was just driving off when the accident occurred, about 1 p.m.

The girl, whose name is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin, died instantly, the spokesman said.

Water Cut, Fish Die

CRANBROOK (CP) — Hundreds of fish have died because the city cut off their water supply and stored it upstream for domestic use, a British Columbia fisheries biologist said Wednesday.

Norm Ringstad, biologist for the fish and wildlife branch, said up to 1,000 yellow cutthroat and some rainbow trout are dead.

He said the fish use Joseph Creek as a spawning ground but, following this year's drought, the city impounded the water upstream at its new reservoir. The creek supplies most of Cranbrook's drinking water.

"We are virtually powerless to do anything about it," Ringstad said.

Only Alberta Won't Join Chicken Marketing Board

Provincial agriculture ministers, with the exception of Alberta, have agreed in principle to a national marketing board for chicken producers.

In a communique issued Wednesday following an annual agriculture minister's conference, they said they would take the proposed national broiler marketing plan to their respective cabinets and would let Ottawa know their final positions by Aug. 15.

The plan has been opposed by the Consumers Association of Canada, which says it will cost consumers about $87 million annually.

Under the program, broiler producers in each province would be allowed to set their own farm-gate prices based on cost-of-production formulae.

The broiler plan, worked out by the Canadian Broiler Council, a producer organization, would cost about $500,000 to run. Adrian Levesque, a member of the federally-appointed National Farm Market Council and a former New Brunswick agriculture minister, said operating money would come from producers.

The plan sets production for Canada at 590 million pounds for birds weighing less than four pounds slaugher weight and 58 million pounds for birls more than four pounds.

Alberta Agriculture Minister Marvin Moore said in an interview Alberta is against the program because producers are almost "100 per cent against joining."

He said the main reason is Alberta would lose almost 15 per cent of its present production and the national plan would not allow producers flexibility to "adjust to consumers' demands, particularly when these change quickly."

During the closed three-day conference, Alberta said it would not oppose the plan as long as the agency stays out of Alberta.

Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan told a news conference he could not force Alberta to join, but felt it should because the plan had been worked out with agreement by the majority.

The ministers also said that agricultural marketing boards should be exempt from the federal government's new Competition Act.

Officer Jumps, Disarms Gunman

A Victoria policeman spent a tense 15 minutes late Wednesday night talking to an armed man — later identified as a former mental patient — before he and two other officers jumped the man and seized a small arsenal.

Insp. Angus Stewart, head of the detective branch today had high praise for the trio — Constables Ivan Sikich, Charlie Brown and Det. Sgt. Ted James.

"It was a brave thing to do," Stewart said. "They showed a lot of guts."

The incident occurred at Gordon's Sporting Goods, 1031 Hillside.

John McCorisken, 24, of 1008 Hillside, appeared in provincial court today charged with breaking and entering. He was remanded to Friday for plea and released from custody on his own recognizance.

Police were called to the store at 11:14 p.m. when passer-by Kevin Anderson, of 2819 Fifth Street, noticed a window in the front door had been smashed and guns normally kept in a rack on the wall had been removed.

Anderson looked through the window and saw a man crouching near the back of the store with a rifle in his hands.

Stewart said Sikich, the first officer to arrive, went through the window and was crawling on the floor when he heard a rifle bolt click.

"He knew he was in trouble right then and there," Stewart said. "From what I gather he started talking just as fast as he could."

While about a dozen officers surrounded the building and cordoned off the street Sikich talked to the man who was holding the rifle against his own chest and spoke about committing suicide.

Sikich jumped him and managed to wrest the weapon away and James and Brown helped subdue him.

James received a cut in the struggle and was taken to Victoria General Hospital where he was treated and given six stitches. The man taken into custody was treated for leg cuts.

Stewart said the officers seized a .30-30 Winchester rifle with one shell in the breech and another in its clip, a loaded 12-gauge shotgun and a knife.

Stewart said the suspect has a history of mental illness and is a former patient at Eric Martin Institute.

He said the man appeared to have been drinking and possibly taking pills but was not intoxicated.

Mother's Aid Plunged Two Deep in Debt

Two Victoria sisters who plunged themselves deep in debt caring for their ailing mother deserve special help from the provincial government, Oak Bay MLA Scott Wallace said Wednesday.

"So many people dump their parents when they're old and sick," he told the legislature. "They (the two daughters) not only went an extra mile, they went an extra thousand miles."

The "tragic case" began in 1970 when Mrs. Elizabeth Sampson, then 65, developed a completely disabling disease, viral encephelatis.

She was discharged from the then St. Joseph's Hospital in January of 1971 requiring extended hospital care but because there were no such beds available, she was taken home by her daughters, Mrs. Aurelle Biggs and Mrs. Marianne Hanson.

They arranged round-the-clock care by registered nurses for their mother, who has remained unconscious through the years and who has required tube feeding, special equipment and medication.

Their costs soared from then until August of 1972 when the then Health Minister Dennis Cocke agreed home care costs should be paid by the province. The government picked up the bills from then until February of 1973, a total of about $10,000.

Scott Wallace said, that at that time a bed at Gorge Road Hospital became available but Mrs. Sampson could not be moved because her doctor thought a high fever and skin rash would threaten other patients.

Later the same year there were troubles admitting her because her daughters were out of town, getting jobs to pay their debts.

Their mother was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital in October of 1973 and later transferred to the Gorge, where she is now.

But her home care cost her daughters a total of $111,324, they lost their home, owe a bank $26,000 and one of them has her wages garnisheed to pay for nursing.

Health Minister Bob McClelland, who indicated he is familiar with the case, said he will review it once again.

But he noted that past governments had not ignored it. In addition to the $10,000 paid under Cocke, the health minister in the early part of 1972, Ralph Loffmark, pfomised to put Mrs. Sampson at the head of the list for an extended care bed.

McClelland added this: "Where are we to go, where are we to stop? What do we do about those who in the past have expended all of their life savings to provide this kind of care?"

WALLACE QUITS POLITICS

down immediately as MLA, necessitating a byelection or hang on until the next provincial election.

He began his political career as an Oak Bay alderman in 1967, serving on council two years before being elected to the provincial legislature as Social Credit MLA for Oak Bay in 1969.

From the start he warred publicly with party policy and quit the Socreds in August of 1971 to sit as an independent.

He joined the Conservative party in January of 1972 and was re-elected as a Conservative MLA when the NDP came to power in August of 1972. He was chosen as party leader in December of 1973.

Wallace said provincial Conservatives have been supportive of his leadership but admitted he would have appreciated more federal support.

But the time for bad feelings, he said, has long since passed.

Wallace said he has been out of medicine for so long that he must decide now whether to get back into it full time or get into something different. He indicated, however it is likely he will start up his private practice again.

Wallace, whose primary political aim has been better treatment for senior citizens and health care improvement, first ran in Oak Bay with the support of many elderly constituents.

He said today that at least recognition seems to have come that old people shouldn't be discriminated against only because they are old.

Wallace said he has absolutely no intention of running federally and will definitely not run provincially in the next election.

"I consider myself very much a misfit in politics."

Wallace is the latest in a long line of provincial Conservative leaders who have tried but failed to rejuvenate the Tories in B.C.

His predecessor was Derril Warren, who failed to get elected to the legislature in two attempts, including the 1973 South Okanagan byelection which returned Premier Bill Bennett an MLA for the first time. Warren now practices law in Kelowna.

Before Warren there was John de Wolf, an economist who was the party's only candidate in the 1969 general election. He failed to get elected.

City Brought to a Dead Stop subway or rail service until 2½ hours after power is fully restored. Consolidated Edison officials could not estimate when that would be.

The blackout was started by a raging electrical storm that swept through the New York area Wednesday night, stinging power lines and generating stations with lightning bolts. Power station after power station failed as demand for electricity continued high.

By 9:34 p.m., the blackout had cascaded across the city's five boroughs and into its northern and eastern suburbs.

"All of a sudden, New York disappeared," said a diner atop the quartter-mile high World Trade Centre. "All you could see was New Jersey."

The looting contrasted to the remarkable harmony during a similar blackout over the northeast on Nov. 9, 1965.

The first success at restoring power came just before 2 a.m., when power returned to 150,000 customers in the Jamaica area of Queens. In the next hour, 117,000 homes in Westchester County were relighted.

Both the Long Island Railroad and Conrail commuter trains that normally carry 370,000 commuters were stalled.

The tunnels into the city from Brooklyn and Queens were closed because of a lack of ventilation.

Kennedy and La Guardia airports, stripped of all but emergency power, shut down, forcing airliners to Newark, Boston and other airfields.

Amtrak's trains into the city could not function.

Night of Looting Ravages New York

On one block of 125th St., between Park and Lexington avenues, almost every store was broken into in a pattern repeated throughout the predominantly black and deteriorating neighborhood.

Food, clothing, shoes, shoe racks, magazines and other remnants of hundreds of small businesses littered the streets. People scattered in all directions, carrying loot with them.

In the darkness, shots rang out on several streets.

A burglar alarm located half a block from the harried 18th police precinct rang unanswered for three hours.

Next door, a supermarket front was smashed in and youths pushed out basket after basket of food.

Scores of police poured into the area, and many of the 2,000 arrests for looting and other blackout-related offences came here in Harlem. But the effort did not come close to solving the problem.

A number of Harlem store owners drove to their stores and shone their headlights on their windows. For many, it was too late.

On the south side of 125th Street, youths broke into a pawn shop, emptied the store contents onto the street, and fled with the most valuable items. Nearby, three fire trucks fought a blaze set in an accountant's office.

As a young boy crossed the street with a new racing cycle a girl of about nine passed him carrying a laundry bag full of new clothing.

Three young boys came behind them, pushing a shopping cart full of shoes and clothing. Down the street, three young boys struggled to lift a shopping cart full of food onto a sidewalk.

At one police station, Deputy Insp. John Barry said shortly after midnight that 20 persons were in custody there, most charged with looting. He said 10 television sets, a stereo, food and beer were recovered in those arrests.

"The last blackout (in 1965) wasn't this bad," Barry said.

Parts of Harlem were lit by fires set in garbage cans. The fires silhouetted police and young looters as they raced through the streets.

Many of the policemen, called in on short notice, were dressed informally. One wore shorts and a polo shirt along with his riot helmet.

CHEAP RIDE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eastern Airlines asked the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board today for a special $299 fare to allow unlimited travel among more than 90 cities throughout North America for 21 days when two persons travel together.

The fare would allow the travellers to go to as many of the cities served by Eastern in the United States, Canada and Latin America as they desired during the 21-day period, an Eastern spokesman said. Each would pay $299.

At least two persons would have to buy their tickets at the same time and travel together during the entire itinerary.

Job Plan For Students On the Way

VANCOUVER (CP) — Education Minister Pat McGeer said Wednesday that he is preparing some "extremely controversial" legislation designed to improve students' chances of getting jobs but refused to explain why the legislation would be controversial.

McGeer told the annual luncheon meeting of the Men's Canadian Club that he plans "radical changes in the educational system so as to give more of the students who're leaving (school) the kind of skills that will get them employment in today's job market." Legislation would be introduced "in the near future."

Much cloud prevails over the B.C. coast as well as across the central Interior and along the continental divide with periods reported elsewhere. A weakening disturbance is giving precipitation to the north coast which will occur over the outer south coast by this evening in the form of occasional drizzle or showers. Another Pacific system will bring more precipitation to the north coast and the outer south coast on Friday. Over the Interior variable amounts of sun and cloud are reported this morning with skies generally cloudy along the continental divide. An improving trend is forecast over southern B.C. today and Friday. However a few showers will spread into the central Interior and northern B.C. tonight and Friday.

3,224 Jobs Found By Welfare

The human resources ministry job finding program has placed 3,224 welfare recipients in jobs since April, Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm said today.

The minister said the Provincial Rehabilitation and Employment Program (PREP) has found a total of 10,894 jobs since it started in July, 1976.

Under the program people applying for welfare are referred to PREP in an attempt to find a job.

Vander Zalm said that at the start of the program there was a reluctance on the part of some employers who'd had bad experiences with welfare recipients to use the PREP service.

Cars of Future May Have Radar System

By HOWARD BENEDICT

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tired driver dozes momentarily as his car tops a hill at 50 miles an hour. He is wakened suddenly by a loud buzzing sound, in time to swerve around a disabled car parked on the highway a few feet ahead.

The warning was made by a small radar and microprocessor system in the front of his car designed to scan the road for possible hazards. If it senses an unavoidable collision, it automatically applies the brakes to reduce the impact speed to a survivable level.

The radar-microprocessor is one of many innovations that will be tested on research cars which the U.S. transportation department says they hope will be forerunners of safe, fuel-efficient cars of the mid-1980s.

Other features include foam-filled body structure, anti-skid brakes, tires that can run flat for several miles, air bags, high mileage, low emissions, passenger survivability in 50 m.p.h. head-on crashes and electronics to monitor problems in the car.

The department's national Highway Traffic Safety Administration recently awarded two contracts totalling $11.5 million to Calspan Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y., and Minicars Inc. of Goleta, Calif.

The companies will produce 34 lightweight, low-cost Research Safety Vehicles (RSV).

Under the RSV contracts, Calspan and Minicars will complete final design, integrate improved engines and produce 17 vehicles each for independent evaluation by the government. Crash testing will begin next year.

Calspan is developing a 2,700-pound compact car expected to average at least 29 miles on a gallon of gasoline. Minicars is building a 2,150-pound subcompact expected to get 34 miles to the gallon.

Calspan is designing a five-passenger vehicle based upon modification of the Simca 1308, to e produced in the U.S. by Chrysler in 1978. It is a five-door hatchback with a four-cylinder front traverse gasoline engine.

The front of the car is made from an energy-absorbing plastic material which will sustain no damage in collisions up to seven m.p.h. Tests show that passengers will be able to survive frontal crashes at speeds up to 50 m.p.h. and side impacts at 40 m.p.h. and that the compliant front bumper will significantly reduce injuries to pedestrians when struck at speeds up to 20 m.p.h.

Kennerly Digges, chief of the safety administration's structures research division, said that present-day vehicles provide up to 30 m.p.h. frontal protection and 15 to 20 m.p.h. side protection, provided seat belts are worn. Current bumpers offer damage protection from five m.p.h. frontal and three m.p.h. rear accidents.

220,000 FORDS FACING RECALL

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) ordered the Ford Motor Co. on Wednesday to recall 220,000 of its 1975 models because they are violating air pollution standards.

The EPA said the order affects almost all 1975 Fords with 351 cubic-inch engines. These include Gran Torinos, Elites, Granadas, Mavericks, Cougars, Montegos, Monarchs, Comets and Ranchero models.

The cars are releasing more than the allowable 3.1 grams a mile of nitrogen oxides into the air, the EPA said. It said the recall is to fix a defective valve in the exhause system and Ford will have to pay for any repairs.

Ford has 45 days to submit a recall plan or request a hearing.

The agency said 7.3 million cars have been recalled since 1973 to correct emission problems and another 11 million cars made from 1973 to 1977 are under investigation for possible recall.

Calif. Skies Searched For Clouds With Rain

LOS ANGELES (WP) — A massive cloud-seeding program aimed at coaxing a few inches of rain from California's infrequent summer storms was launched Wednesday with few illusions of success.

"There's no pretense about this," said James Welsh, chief of the California Department of Water Resources' statewide planning branch. "We're doing it on the come. There's no guarantee of anything, but it's a chance worth taking."

The agency's willingness to gamble reflects the realities of the savere drought following the driest winter in California's recorded history.

While various water-conservation measures will pull the state through the current summer, some reservoirs containing water needed for California's $2.6 billion-a-year agricultural economy are certain to go dry if the rainfall and snowpack this winter fall significantly below normal.

Oregon border 550 miles

Welsh said the department of water resources is operating on the basis of forecsts that call for the 1977-78 winter to be a repetition of last year, when statewide water runoff was only 25 per cent of normal.

If there are any clouds in the sky, the department will send up three twin-engine cloud-seeding planes over a 40,000-square-mile mountainous area extending from the Kern River near Bakersfield to the north. The planes will search for cumulus clouds in an area where the summer rainfall in normal years averages only one-half inch to four inches.

The three planes, which will seed clouds for two months, are the vanguard of a huge assault that will be made on storms in the late fall and winter by a variety of federal, state and local agencies and private utility companies. Welsh estimated the total effort would cost $750,000.

AUSTRALIA'S KERR QUITS

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Gov.-Gen. Sir John Kerr, whose unprecedented dismissal of Australia's Labor government in 1975 touched off a constitutional crisis, resigned today as Queen Elizabeth's representative.

Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser said Kerr felt his departure from office would help lay to rest the lingering residue of partisan feelings that his dismissal of Prime Minister Gough Whitlam aroused.

Whitlam, now the leader of the Opposition in Parliament, refused to comment on the resignation.

Fraser said Kerr's replacement will be Sir Zelman Cowen.

'Purge' Rumors At CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA director Stansfield Turner has forced his top deputy into early retirement and is making a "wholesale purge" of the spy agency's clandestine operations branch, informed sources said Wednesday.

The sources said dtputy director Henry Knoche, 52, already has offered his resignation to President Carter, ending 24 years in the agency.

They said Turner also is seeking early retirement from at least 20 members of the CIA's clandestine operations section, including the two top men in it — William Wells and Theodore Shackley.

While the CIA had no immediate comment on the reports, White House press secretary Jody Powell said Turner "has discussed his plans with the President (but) not with regard to every specific change."

Powell said he did not know if Carter received Knoche's letter of resignation.

Turner, testifying at a closed hearing on Capitol Hill Wednesday on another matter, avoided reporters afterward, although he had promised before the session he would answer questions.

2 Priests Charged In Death

ASCHAFFENBURG, West Germany (AP) — Two Roman Catholic priests were charged with negligent homicide Wednesday in the death of 23-year-old Anneliese Michel after she underwent exorcism a year ago, the Aschaffenburg prosecutor announced.

The dead woman's parents, Josef and Anna Michel, were also indicted on the same charge, prosecutor Karl Stenger told a news conference in this north Bavarian city. If convicted, they could get five years in jail.

The German priests, Ernst Alt and Wilhelm Renz, conducted the exorcism rites in a Church-approved attempt to free Miss Michel of demons after four years of medical treatment failed to cure her epilepsy.

The education student at the University of Wuerzburg died July 1, 1976, of undernourishment after several months of the exorcism rites conducted at her home in Klingenberg, 30 miles west of Wuerzburg.

During the rites, she refused food and medical help and her weight dropped to 70 pounds before she died at home.

Stenger said Miss Michel's death could have been prevented if medical help had been sought. He said the priests and her parents must have recognized she was dying.

Mr. Gardom's Dilemma

Since taking office 18 months ago, Attorney-General Garde Gardom has reluctantly found himself in one unpleasant situation after another. As chief law enforcement officer of B.C., what should he do about allegations of government insiders using inside information about natural gas pipelines to make money on the stock market? What should he do about persisting allegations of incompetence, mismanagement, and even fraud in B.C. Railway construction? What about allegations of bribes and threats within his own department?

For all these situations, Gardom dealt with the problem by establishing royal commissions or public inquiries of one kind and another. But now he finds himself in a situation which is perhaps the most unpleasant of all, and he can't get out of it by turning it over to a judicial inquiry or royal commission.

At issue is the question of the three Social Credit MLAs who are alleged to have accepted money from the government for work on the nororious Bawlf housing committee. Housing Minister Hugh Curtis has admitted that the three did receive money, through a combination of oversights and sloppiness. The Constitution Act would appear to make those payments illegal. The only choice that Gardom has to make is whether to begin court action against the three, action which could result in their disqualification as MLAs or whether to take no action and hope that the whole matter will die a quiet death somewhere.

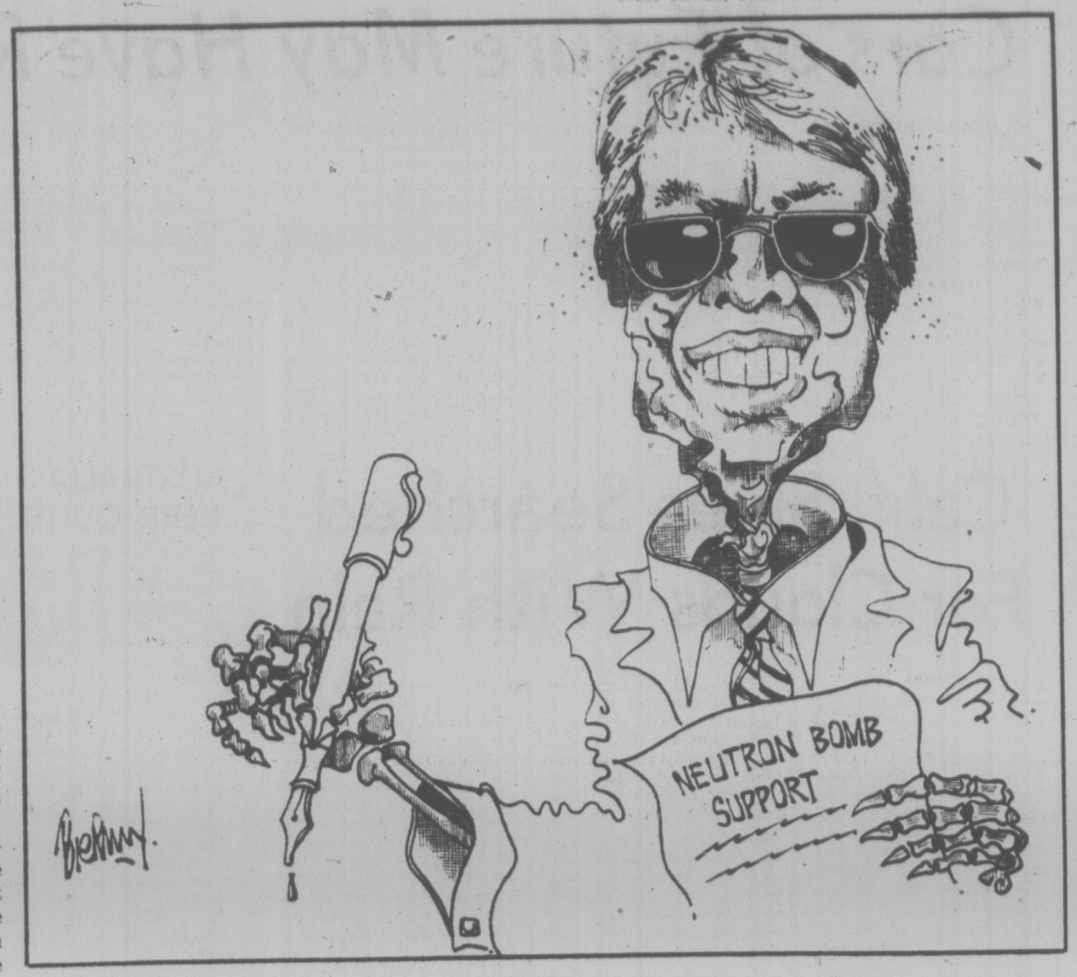
Both morally and politically, it must be an unpalatable choice for the attorney-general. Morally, it seems certain there is at least a prima facie case that the act has been breached. Thus, as chief law enforcement officer, it is Gardom's responsibility to see that appropriate action is taken.

Yet the penalties provided in the Constitution Act seem unduly severe for a breach in which, it is clear, no ill motive is involved. Not only could the MLAs involved — Sam Bawlf, George Kerster, and Jim Hewitt — lose their seats in the House, but they also could be faced with fines of as much as $40,000 each. In other cases, the attorney-general has discretion about whether charges should be laid; it would be easy for him to think he should have that discretion here.

Politically, his problem is no less serious. Could there be anything more difficult for a man to do than to begin action that might seriously damage three of his colleagues for actions they took with no ill motives?

But if Gardom chooses not to take court action, the way is wide open for any citizen of the province to begin the action — and, incidentally, perhaps to collect any fines that might be levied. If an ordinary citizen (or a political opponent) did take that action and the disqualification was upheld by a judge, Gardom would be deeply in the political soup, accused of refusing to bring valid charges against his political cohorts.

In the end, it appears the attorney-general really has no choice. In the words of the old cliche, justice must not only be done, it must be seen to be done. Painful as it will be, Gardom must begin court action against the three and trust to the wisdom and mercy of an independent judiciary to ensure that the damage done the MLAs is not out of proportion to the crime.



Gun Ghouls

Conservative MPs are rightfully indignant about Justice Minister Ron Basford's attempt to blackmail them into passing his controversial gun control bill. The beleaguered minister went before television news cameras Monday night after a shooting incident in Ottawa that left a rookie policeman dead.

He blamed the death on the recalcitrance of Conservative MPs who have stalled his gun control statute in the House of Commons. If the act was law it would have prevented such incidents.

Basford told a reporter after the shooting: "It's rather frustrating to sit in the Commons all day long where we were debating whether people should be able to collect machine-guns or not and then come out to find another in a long series of tragic incidents of either citizens or children, or in this case, fine police officers exercising their duty, being needlessly shot down."

While newsmen were interviewing the Ottawa chief of police Monday night on the scene shortly after the capture of a suspect in the shooting, Basford butted in and told the cameras that "perhaps this is what we need" to get the gun control bill enacted.

It was a callous play for publicity. Basford must have ice water in his veins if he could do that while figuratively stepping over the still-warm body of the young policeman.

Basford thinks his legislation would prevent such incidents. He is wrong. It will make the purchase of guns marginally more difficult for people, but a determined lunatic is going to get his gun regardless.

The Tories who are outraged at Basford's little lecture are guilty of equally specious reasoning when they assert that the answer is really capital punishment. The deterrent effect of legal execution for a crime is operative only under the presumption that a prospective murderer is a rational, thinking person capable of deductive reasoning.

Many, perhaps most, murderers are not. Two previous incidents in Ontario similar to the Ottawa shooting this week involved obviously deranged individuals obsessed with guns and sex.

The only way these kinds of gun crimes will be affected will be to reduce the number of guns floating around. Neither the noose nor Basford's bill will accomplish that.

Dreamy Journalism

"Here's the man with whom the news wouldn't be the news without the news—John Arnett." Apologies to Laugh-In, but that seems the most apt comment on the announcement that the provincial government is reviving B.C. Government News, under the supervision of John Arnett.

You remember the News? The only newspaper with all good news. The journal that brings you news and views and doings of the government unencumbered by snarky editorial sniping from the opposiiton benches. No bothersome outside opinions or second thoughts to get in the way.

Just the straight goods from the government straight to you. Tells you what to think of the government (nice thoughts only, please) and when to think them (twice a month, upon receipt of the News). Nothing about neutron bombs or murder. And news of the economy (forging ahead), unemployment (job-creating programs on the move) and inflation (under attack on all fronts) is always rosy.

Safe for the whole family to read. Printed on high-quality non-smudging paper. And you paid for a subscription whether you want it or not. A publisher's dream.

RICHARD GWYN

Gibberish and Paranoia

OTTAWA — To complain that any government report randomly chosen among the dozens churned out each year, lapses, at some point or other between its covers, into gibberish, is about as useful as complaining that Canadian winters are cold. Both phenomena correspond to the laws of nature.

A government report which fulfills its gibberish quotient in the fourth paragraph on its first page, is, however, a bit much. All suspense is lost.

"There are many reasons for this privacy of decision-making (by government)", reads the fourth paragraph of the Introduction to Secretary of State John Roberts' just-published report on freedom of information. "It reflects, for instance, the adversarial nature of party politics. Many of our social institutions proceed on an adversarial basis. Our court system, for example . . . "

Adversary System

Stop right there. Nonsense, when it sprouts above the ground, needs to be stamped upon firmly to make sure it doesn't take root.

Parliament is an adversarial institution: the opposition, which is both official and loyal vs. the government. So are our courts: prosecution vs. defence. This technique works well in the courts, where to each question there are always, and only, two sides (innocent/guilty), less well in parliament where questions — when, and how, to end wage and price controls for instance — can yield so many answers.

The point, the damning point, about Roberts' paper is that government itself is not an adversarial institution. The political parties in opposition, the press, and various interest groups from the Canadian Consumers' Association to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, all do take pot-shots at government. But government itself is created by the people, and its purpose is to be of and for them. Government and people are not adversaries; they are one and the same. Or should be.

The reason I've seized upon those sentences in Roberts' report is because they exemplify an attitude that pervades this government. It's an attitude of, at one and the same time, possessiveness and paranoia.

Parts of Roberts' report on information are, like the luckless curate's egg, excellent. It points out, quite correnctly, that, as demonstrated in the U.S., freedom of governmental information usually benefits large corporations (which learn what their competitors are doing) rather than the general public. It makes a good case that the courts are too expensive ($10,000 a case) and too time-consuming a mechanism for deciding whether particular documents should be made public or be kept secret. It argues — and convinces me — that cabinet ministers must be allowed the right of final veto over a decision by a court or an information commission in order to uphold our tradition of ministerial responsibility. (Almost certainly, ministers would only exercise this right under the most exceptional circumstances).

Rather than the details, it's the attitude of possessiveness about information and of paranoia of what will happen if it's let out, that matters. If you can get past the gibberish on page one you'll come, on page four, to this gem: "Advice contained in such (civil service) documents might be construed in the press and parliament as embarrassing to a Minister or be used to try to break down the unity of the governing party."

Mercy me. We are undone. The sky's falling. The unity of the governing party — a delicate synonym for the Liberals — might be fractured if those tiresome opposition MPs and sensationalist reporters (the public, I assume, is assumed to be sleeping) actually learned that Department X believed in such-and-so while Department Y believed in such-and-that. Imagine the unnerving horror, the administrative chaos, the demoralizing messiness of it all, if those on the outside actually learned that, on the inside, one part of the governing party occasionally disagrees with another part.

Unity Fractures

Any report on freedom of information which starts out by defending secrecy as necessary to protect the unity of the governing party and as justified by the adversarial nature of our political system rather than by the dictates of administrative convenience, is not, of course to be taken seriously.

At least applaud Roberts for being honest. Information legislation is being drafted in Britain and Australia, was passed this year by the legislatures of Nova Scotia and P.E.I., has been in effect in the U.S. for 11 years, and in Sweden for 200 years. Roberts is telling us that we'll get real freedom of information in Canada at about the same time as field hockey replaces ice hockey as our national winter sport.

Public Pays

The statement of Russ Leech, chairman of local 1101 BCGEU, is so typical of any union man: "We will not shy away from strikes."

Another loud mouth! This union will stick up the government for more and more and who pays for it? Not the government, but you and I, the public. I say people in public service should not be allowed to strike, be it mailmen, nurses, firemen, police or government employees. No one gains — we all lose. — M. H., Victoria.

Raw Sewage

The Concerned Citizens of B.C. will be distributing within the near future, the truth to all visitors to B.C., of the filth the citizens of B.C. must endure by a non-caring government that allows raw sewage to be dumped within our shores.

This insult is carried further by the B.C. government's campaign to smile, while our children cannot swim or play on our shores without fear of disease caused by raw sewage outfalls. For shame to promote false tourism at the expense of the citizens of B.C.

Our Capital Region Board, who are controlled by this government, condone, perpetuate this insult to the citizens, by building these huge raw sewage monuments at great public expense, causing almost bankruptcy to the citizens, without a whimper from this government.

The B.C. government, which was elected as an honest government, should hang it's head in shame for allowing this disgraceful practice to continue.

It is bad enough to endure high ferry costs doubled so that we remain virtual prisoners on this island, but not to be able to enjoy our beaches and our recreation facilities, while prisoners, is more than the citizens can endure.

Perhaps the efforts to increase smiles would be appreciated by the citizens, if we could smile first, with the privilege of clean beaches and lower ferry rates. — Frank Heinrich, President, Concerned Citizens of B.C., 3504 Happy Valley Road.

London — and Britain — today is immeasurably improved from 1950s.

Britain Better

After reading the articles by Americans James Reston and Bernard Rossiter Britain's Changing Mood and Peace, Prosperity Mark Reign of Elizabeth it came as a great shock to read the article by Max Low entitled London: Flags and Filth which covered his recent visit to Britain — the land of his birth.

Apparently Max found nothing right in Britain except the "little old pubs" and this is so much at variance with the articles by the two Americans I mentioned above. These excellent writers also forgot to mention the hardship of drinking warm beer?

Apparently it is much easier to throw dirt than to look for and find the real changes for the good in the U.K. I have been a Canadian far longer than Max Low but in my visits to the U.K., I have found a Britain far better for the ordinary man than in the days of my childhood. Surely Max cannot have visited some of our own beaches and found signs "Polluted no bathing." Surely Max has heard of our rivers polluted with mercury. Surely Max knows that we, here in Victoria, pump raw sewage into the sea. It is so easy to pull down a country during a ten-day visit but apparently the Americans found enough on the plus side to write very favorable articles on what they found and saw. Rossiter mentions that "London has become the world's capital of the performing acts." Possibly he did not visit the "little pubs" and so left them out of his report.

I do not believe articles, such as that written by Max, do any good but create a great deal of ill feeling. Surely we have enough petty back-biting already. I chose freely to become a Canadian but, in my view this does not qualify me to pull down the land of my birth. Max is a friend of mine and I am terribly disappointed. How would Max like an expatriate Canadian to write such a view of Canada after only a 10-day visit? — M. P. B. Wrixon, 301-1701 Cedar Hill X Road.

Discrimination

Although it is only a short while since the mayor of Victoria abolished penny parking meters and significantly increased the cost of parking and parking tickets on the pretext that the parking department was running at a loss, it now seems the same department is so affluent that the mayor can order it to overlook violations by out-of-province vehicles.

The mayor's decision on this matter is not only discriminatory but could well be establishing a dangerous precedent in law enforcement. As a lawyer Mayor Young should be well aware that a meter violation is an infraction of the law, and also that one of the basic requirements of any democracy and certainly the intent of the Canadian Bill of Rights is that the law shall be enforced without showing any discrimination or favor.

If His Worship's offer of immunity from prosecution for parking offences fails to attract a sufficient number of visitors to our city then perhaps he will extend his amnesty and declare the streets of Victoria open ground to those who would come here to commit other offences including speeding, impaired driving, mugging, rape, prostitution, etc. The possibilities are endless and the end result incredible.

By that time, local residents should have fled the streets of downtown, having discovered that alternate shopping facilities are only a short drive away in such places as the Hillside Mall, where the atmosphere is pleasant, the parking free and plentiful, and, best of all, where shoppers can leave their cars without being discriminated against for daring to display B.C. licence plates.

By boycotting downtown, local shoppers will not only demonstrate who really spends the money in this town, but will also make apparent what they think of an administration that consistently shows more concern for two-day tourists than it shows for taxpayers who reside here 12 months a year. — Nosey Parker.

Teaching the Truth

Each Times so far last week has carried a letter opposing aid to independent schools. The longest, Ian Bruce Kelsey's of Monday, in suggesting that B.C.'s Catholic population is not part of "the public" is both bigoted and silly. Why should Catholic parents pay for the so-called "public" school system if they rightly choose not to have their children educated in it? The education of children is above all the right and responsibility of the parents, next of the communities to which they belong — first, the faith community (the church), and only then the secular, civil society of which they form part. Shame on you, Mr. Kelsey!"

The second letter, Tuesday's epistle by N. Ballen, speaks against "the elitism of separate religions and cultures . . ." (within the Canadian mosaic), dangerous talk in an open, free and pluralistic society such as ours, in which we are encouraged, are we not, to choose our own faith and at the same time be proud of our own particular culture, be it Metis, Dene, Inuit, Ukrainian, Anglo-Saxon, French, or whatever. Ms. or Mr. Ballen, hide your head in embarrassment at your ignorance of the Canadian ideal: a freely-chosen religious and a multicultural secular society.

Silliest of all is Wednesday's pronouncement by J. W. Gilmore, who says, in effect, that it is wrong for a religious school board to dismiss teachers who cease to practise their faith. Actually, of course, the very opposite is true: it would be wrong if they didn't dismiss them; what is a Catholic school for if not to teach the truth as the people, properly informed by God and His church, see it? — Robin Terry, 524 Dallas Road.

Package Tours

On traveling to California earlier this year I picked up the Los Angeles Times weekend issue, and was interested to see a 24-page section on travel to all parts of the world on flying package tours, but was surprised not to find a single package tour for Canada, British Columbia, Vancouver or Victoria.

Now at this time of year in the southern United States, where California alone has a population in excess of 22 million people, the weather is in the 100 degree range for four months. Where would be a better vacation area than Vancouver Island with its moderate but sunny summer climate for these people. Distance is no object with air travel these days, and package tours could be arranged to fly them direct to Victoria. This would also have the added advantage of avoiding the frustration and congestion of the ferry system.

And let us not stop with the United States. The Japanese are increasingly affluent and travel-minded, and in fact when if all boils down, there is no part of the world where air travel could not operate a package tour. Also, what are we doing with eastern Canada regarding package tours?

Victoria has no other option in the immediate future than the tourist industry. Tourism requires much less capital expenditure than do other forms of industry and also shows the most immediate response to promotional expenditures.

Tourism is an industry that affects every person in Victoria and Vancouver Island. Let's all work together to bring the tourists to Vancouver Island, and once they are here let's do smile and make them welcome — our future depends on it. — Jack Lacterman, 200-764 Yates.

'The Vultures Are Still Circling the Roost'

THE NATION
An Editorial

The rustling behind the curtain of the American "intelligence community" suggests that an intense bureaucratic struggle is going on back there for control of the $6 billion monster. Admiral Stansfield Turner, the new Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, has begun a fight to put the whole works under his thumb. It would mean, if he won the engagement, that Turner would rule even the enormous roost called the Defence Intelligence Agency, whose spies in the skies and on the ground and under the seas are said to be able to listen to every word spoken on this planet. There is predictable resistance to this attempted grab, of course, on the ground that there is safety in numbers (of spy outfits) and that the horrendous mistakes of one can be corrected by the countervailing errors of another.

Bureaucratic power struggles often have their strongly comic aspects, as the participants hand-wrestle each other in ways that sometimes lack dignity, but this one is no joke. Something like the national sanity is at stake, not to say what the founders called "a decent respect to the opinions of mankind." The CIA has proven itself a dangerously irresponsible organization, and the idea that our government's knowledge of the world and its various dangers should come entirely from this one body is unthinkable, even as it is solemnly considered.

Deliberate Ignorance

Admiral Turner has made his reach for intelligence power at a peculiarly inauspicious time. Lately there has been a veritable shower of light (and dirt) on the agency. Even the clumsy Russians know how to exploit its world-wide disrepute. President Carter was forced, at his June 13 press conference, to deny, after he had "inquired deeply within the State Department and within the CIA," that the Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, arrested for treason, had ever "to our knowledge" had any connection with the CIA.

The phrase "to our knowledge" tells it all. The evident and abundantly proven truth is that presidents have as often been ignorant of the dark operational side of the CIA as they have been aware of it. Sometimes their ignorance has been deliberate, in the interest of that magisterial form of lying known as "deniability" — "get rid of X but don't tell me how." At other times the CIA has decided on its own to do its deeds without the knowledge of the president. The word for that is "rogue," meaning that the agency is stampeding out of control. We are now supposed to believe that the rampant elephant of intelligence is back in harness, obedient to supervisory boards and to the "oversight" of more vigilant Congressional committees. It would be wise not to take that tranquilizing assertion on faith.

In three areas of the world — Cuba, Chile and Korea — the harmful effects of the CIA's work have lately been exposed, and we propose to examine the facts of these operations along with their domestic consequences.

It has never been a secret that the national policy of the United States has been implacably hostile to the Cuba of Fidel Castro. That attitude has reigned in Washington at least since the successful Cuban revolutionary made his first visit to this country in 1959 and spent two hours talking to Eisenhower's vice-president,

KENNEDY
. . . doubletalk

Richard M. Nixon (who then recommended to his chief a policy of all-out opposition to Castro). What has not been so evident is the obsessive nature of that hostility and the extraordinary means the U.S. has employed to "get rid of" Castro. The Cuban leader now tells people that he was always a Communist, even before he led his little band up into the Sierra Maestra. It seems more likely that, in the beginning, he was another kind of radical or Marxist and that he now claims this original virtue because of the way he has since been forced to go — specifically because of his million-dollar-a-day dependence on the Soviet Union for everything that the American trade embargo has denied his island state.

All of this, and much more, was pulled together in a remarkable television documentary, The CIA's Secret Army, broadcast by CBS News on June 10. Much of the information in this program, with Bill Moyers as the correspondent, was known to students of the quite awful story, but television concentrated and focused its impact. The broadcast was notable for the strong conclusions it forced upon the viewer.

The main judgment from it must be that the effort to topple Castro (and replace him with what?) left the U.S. with a secret army of embittered Cuban exiles, organized and trained by the CIA, and now looking for ways to practice the terrorism it had taught them. In the new climate that President Carter is sensibly trying to create with Cuba, one that seems to be leading toward normal relations, these angry and violent men will become even more extreme in their attitudes and actions, and their targets will change. They will turn inward toward the country that has been their frustrating refuge. At the same time, the whole hemisphere will become the ground for their violent games and it will be almost impossible to check them in their mad, anti-Communist career.

Responsible

For this terrible effect of those years of "get Castro" we have mainly the Kennedys, John and Robert, to thank. Moyers builds a compelling case for the conclusion that the real CIA war against Castro began after and as a result of the failure of the Bay of Pigs. President Kennedy lacked the courage to cancel that operation (having inherited this half-grown aberration from Eisenhower) or to carry it out with full vigor, to use one of his favorite words.

Castro believed, and with good reason, as the Moyers broadcast documents, that Kennedy was determined to bring him down by whatever dreadful means, including the use of gangsters and every refinement of the assassin's art. Hence the installation of the Russian missiles — to protect Cuba against the invasion that to Castro seemed inevitable. That famous "finest hour" widely attributed to Kennedy's facing down of Khrushchev over the removal of the missiles (and poising the world on the nuclear brink) was thus the result of Kennedy's own bungled attempts, through the CIA, to eliminate Fidel Castro.

Naturally, Kennedy kept a certain distance from the grubby business of assassination. He had no need to know about zonking cigars or debarbing foot powders. But there can be no doubt that he well knew what was going on beneath the surface of "deniability." In the chilling words of Richard Bissell, the CIA operative in charge of the Bay of Pigs adventure, "a president typically says he wants to get rid of somebody." Typically. That can only mean that the murderous presidential order became a matter of routine.

In all this the CIA was the arm of the president. Its "station" in Miami, with some 2,000 agents, became the largest in the world. It trained squads and whole platoons of Cubans in the latest techniques of killing and sabotage; it filled them with the hope of a triumphant return to their island home 90 miles offshore. Where can they go from here?

The assassins we have trained and Americanized can go as guns for hire into the streets even of Washington. And they do.

In a speech on November 16, 1961, John F. Kennedy told us that "We cannot, as a free nation, compete with our adversaries in tactics of terror (and) assassination

. . . distortions

. . ." At that very time he approved the CIA's Operation Mongoose, an elaborate program of harassment and counter-revolutionary operations in Cuba which included, in Moyers' words, "assassination as a weapon of foreign policy." Under his direction, this country was trying to compete with our "adversaries," using all those tactics Kennedy pretended to disclaim.

On September 21, 1976, Orlando Letelier and Ronni Karpen Moffitt, a colleague of his, died when a bomb attached to their car was exploded as they drove along Washington's Embassy Row. Letelier had been a cabinet minister and ambassador to the U.S. in the government of Salvador Allende of Chile, which was overthrown by a military coup organized with the help of the CIA. Nine months later the killers have not been officially identified and therefore no prosecution has started.

It has been widely reported that Cuban-exile terrorists in the employ of the Chilean junta's secret police, the DINA, did this job. Members of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, where Letelier and Mrs. Moffitt worked, have made a strong case that the assassination was ordered personally by General Pinochet and executed by his agents. There is little doubt that the actual bombers were hired from within the terrorist community created by the CIA in Miami. Various reports indicate that "national security" considerations are hampering the work of the grand jury that has the Letelier-Moffitt murder before it. Two months ago The Washington Post reported that Attorney-General Bell was concerned about the slow pace of the investigation which, the paper said, is being held up by "unusually sensitive intelligence considerations" abroad.

Translated, that means that the CIA is dragging its feet in an attempt to prevent the "compromising" of some of its agents abroad, or, alternatively, that the Chileans are in a position to mine the rich vein of blackmail that the CIA's operations in that country have provided them. In either case, it is outrageous behavior and works against any serious concept of the "national security."

In addition, the CIA has "leaked" distorted bits of information from the contents of the briefcase Letelier had with him when he was blown up. Sufficiently twisted, they can be made to give the false impression that Letelier was on Castro's payroll. The fact is that this Chilean patriot and democrat received a small amount of money for his anti-dictatorship work from a daughter of the slain Allende, who is married to a Cuban and lives in Havana, where she received contributions from enemies of the junta around the world.

As treasurer of the Chilean movement against the Pinochet regime, it was her duty to send funds to Letelier, among others. After the murder or imprisonment of numbers of democratic and Socialist Chileans, Letelier became the recognized leader of resistance to the dictatorship. The briefcase leaks by the CIA have been used by reactionaries in the United States to try to make it seem that anti-Castro Cubans needed no encouragement from Santiago to kill Letelier. The anti-Castro feeling was motive enough, they argue, nonsensically. That neatly serves the purposes of the right wing within and outside the CIA.

And so the evidence is overwhelming that the CIA is obstructing justice in the Letelier-Moffitt case in the most dubious interest of the "national security," as the agency itself dares to define it. There is only one official of our government who can stop this obstruction — the president of the United States.

One of the worst legacies of the unchecked CIA is a phenomenon that could be called interpenetration. That is, our agents operate in "friendly" nations, like Chile, Iran and Korea, and the quid pro quo is that their intelligence services can freely go about their dirty business here. It is notorious that the Shah of Iran's SAVAK (formed with the help of the CIA) keeps a tight rein on Iranians in the United States, openly persecuting students from Iran who get out of line, while our police look the other way.

It is bad enough that foreign nationals on our shores should be subject to this brutal control from abroad and, of course, it is deeply insulting to the idea of national sovereignty. But it is much worse, we must think, if these foreign intelligence operations work to corrupt our government in their own interests. That is what Korea's KCIA has done, imitating with great skill the methods of its creator, our own CIA.

Humiliating Scandal

This humiliating scandal is still in the early stages of development, but already it is known that the KCIA has conducted one of the great bribe operations of our history. It concentrated on Congress, fearing that that body might curb the flow of dollars and arms to the dictatorship of South Korea. It is not known just how many of our lawmakers were on the take from the Koreans, selling the national interest for envelopes stuffed with cash, but their number has been put in the dozens.

The fact is that the CIA knew all along that the Koreans were busily corrupting Congress — and said nothing about it. It kept mum because "national security," in the CIA's view, required that we maintain our troops in Korea and lavishly support the Park dictatorship. If that anti-Communist objective required a little free-hand bribery of key Congressmen, so what? It was all for the good of the cause.

It may be self-centred of us as a nation to be more concerned about their corruption of us than about our corruption of them. National pride enters here. But is it really worse? Beyond that, is it not inevitable that corruption for the sake of national security should be a two-way street?

Our "intelligence" operations abroad have produced a community of assassins in Miami, a political murder within earshot of the White House, and the wholesale purchase of Congressional goodwill by a small ally. We are only beginning to know the evils that three decades of uninhibited CIA anti-Communist work abroad have brought upon us. The vultures are still circling the roost.

New Sexual Revolution

By JOSEPH LELYVELD
New York Times

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. — The six young women, high-school juniors and seniors, sat on deep, cushy pillows in the room where, as volunteer counselors, they lead rap sessions on contraception for the Planned Parenthood Association of Marin County. They were talking in astonished tones about the sophistication in matters sexual manifested these days by eighth and ninth graders, some of whom turn up at the Planned Parenthood clinic here for contraceptive guidance. The world was certainly changing, they agreed. Long ago — two years or three — when they were that age, the undertow and currents and eddies of sex were not nearly as powerful or immediate as they've since become.

Early Abortions

"In the eighth grade, like we didn't know what was there," said Allison, her voice tinkling with laughter at the memory of that innocent time. "I wasn't that aware of what the possibilities are. I mean, I knew, but I never thought there were possibilities for me." Now it was considerably less than extraordinary, although not quite commonplace, for an eighth grader to seek an abortion.

"I shiver when I think about it," admitted Katherine, "because I do see a lot of girls who are having sex at that age."

Adults are likely to feel the same involuntary shiver when confronted with the evidence that the time between the onset of puberty and the onset of sex is rapidly narrowing. Ten years ago the "sexual revolution" on college campuses was big news, a real shocker in some circles.

Evidence of an emerging "sexual revolution" in the high schools hasn't hit quite as hard, partly because it's harder to shock and partly because, not knowing what to think or do, we would just as soon not hear about it. Still, a national survey published this spring by two Johns Hopkins researchers reported a 30 per cent increase in teenage sexual activity in only five years. By age 16, it indicated 25 per cent of young women had been initiated into sex; by age 17, it was up to 40 per cent. And that was as of 1976 — soon to be ancient history.

No statistics exist on the sex life of teenagers in Marin County, a privileged stretch of suburbia in the drought-parched hills across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco. But if the levels of teenage sex here were shown to be half again as high or even double those reported in the national survey, only some parents would be greatly surprised. "It's like a race to see who's going to have sex first," said Susan.

And so, in a typical week, 25 or 30 teenagers turn up at the Planned Parenthood office here. Usually they are there because they suspect they may be pregnant. Often enough, their suspicions are correct. Assuming that California is the vanguard — that Marin County, on this score, represents the future for middle-class America — the connection between teenage sex and teenage pregnancy deserves some pondering. It's not just a simple matter of biology to be corrected by the application of an appropriate contraceptive at an appropriate time. Nor is it to be corrected simply by more adequate sex education in high schools or junior high schools where very little else seems to be taught, or at least learned, adequately.

The truth is that teenagers now have ready access to contraceptives here in Marin County and nationally, know more about their use and are more likely to use them effectively than has ever been the case. They are also becoming pregnant in tremendous numbers — more than one million a year (leading to some 350,000 abortions).

Is that really a paradox? Only when fundamental factors are overlooked: that teenage sex is a pastime of teenagers, and that the process of initiation they are going through involves conflicting pressures, ardent emotions and little premeditation. It is one thing for the Supreme Court to declare that laws on the sale of contraceptives cannot discriminate against teenagers.

It is one thing for their biology teacher to show them schematic models of reproductive systems. But it is something quite different for a 15-year-old girl to apply the lesson and exercise the right when she's balancing the likely disapproval of her parents against the example of her friends and her own urges.

Risks Discovery

Seeking contraceptives is tantamount to seeking sex; it is also risking discovery. Ignoring the question of contraception is a way of leaving the issue of sex open and unresolved, of retaining the right not to have any. It is a reasonable-sounding compromise, therefore, to conclude that sex is all right if it's "natural" and "spontaneous" but wrong if it's planned. "If you're into contraception, you're assuming you're going to have sex," one of the teenage counselors here said, "and that's putting yourself in a tough spot."

It's a calculated risk that's hardly new to this generation. But adult "problem-solvers," who tend to forget the bittersweet ambiguities of adolescence, imagine the risk can be eliminated. It can be, of course, but only when teenagers are prepared to accept the implications of their own sexuality. Since adults are reluctant to hurry them to that end, a pregnancy scare is generally what does it. That's called learning from experience, the need for which isn't easily eliminated in adolescence or in life.

Megan, one of the teenage counselors, was telling Susan about a friend who had gone through an abortion. "She's really been changed by getting pregnant," Megan was saying. "Like she doesn't have the casual sex she used to have, like she's much more wrapped up in caring for a person."

"That's good," said Susan, "but it's a terrible way to get there."

The earlier sex starts, obviously, the more likely pregnancy is to be used in this way as a route to adulthood. But teenage sex doesn't just start and continue on smoothly ever after. It starts and it stops. One of the most striking findings of the Johns Hopkins survey was that, although teenage sex was starting earlier, it seemed to be occurring less frequently than had been the case five years before. Of sexually experienced girls between the ages of 15 and 17, slightly more than half had experienced no sex in the four weeks before the interviews; and 20 per cent had experienced it only once.

Homes are Empty

The Marin teenagers were ready with an explanation. They had friends who reacted to the social pressure to "devirginize" themselves, as one of them put it; then having shown that they could cross that threshold, they resumed their girlhood. Were they compromised by that compromise? No, by the standards of their time and place, it seemed they were compromised no longer.

Why the pressure for earlier and earlier sex? It's just so easy, the young women said, in their middle-class environment; most homes are vacant much of the time. Mothers go to work or to their tennis clubs. Very often they are single and out on dates. Divorce is more the rule than the exception, and divorced parents, vying for the affection of their children and overly preoccupied with sex themselves, are in no position to offer strictures. In such households, the young women said, it's not uncommon now for high school couples to have sleep-over dates.

The shiver returns. It returns because of the dynamics that the teenagers themselves sense: The failure of families — families that stay together as well as families that break up — leading kids to seek new and stable relationships; those relationships leading to the creation of new families that will break up even sooner, to the birth of children who will set out in quest of new relationships even earlier.

"Some 12-year-olds you speak to are incredibly grown-up," Katherine was saying, conveying an impression she could hardly believe. "They know their bodies and they know their heads." You could say the same thing of some adults — some — but the kids would find that harder to believe. On the shores of sex, there's a lot of fog, and small-craft warnings go unheeded.

Guilty of Poison Deaths, 2 Nurses Consider Appeal

DETROIT (AP) — Defence lawyers for two nurses found guilty of poisoning hospital patients are trying to overturn the convictions but say they see few grounds for appeal.

"It was a bright and intelligent judge and he didn't make many mistakes," said defence lawyer Thomas O'Brien.

The nurses, meanwhile, said they were shocked by the verdicts and disillusioned with the U.S. justice system. The two women were convicted Wednesday on charges of poisoning patients with a muscle-relaxing drug at a veterans hospital where more than 50 persons suffered breathing failures during a two-month period in the summer of 1975.

Filipina Narcisco, 31, of Ypsilanti, and Leonora Perez, 33, of Ann Arbor, were convicted on three counts apiece of poisoning patients at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration hospital.

They also were found guilty of conspiracy. Miss Narcisco was found not guilty on one count of murder and one count of poisoning.

The nurses, free on an extension of their $75,000 bond, face possible life imprisonment.

"All of my faith is gone," Mrs. Perez said after the trial. "I know I did not get a fair trial . . . I know there was no evidence to convict us."

The prosecution contended the two women put the drug Pavulon into intravenous feeding devices, causing the victims to stop breathing.

France Buys Uranium

PARIS (Reuter) — France is buying 1,000 tons of natural uranium from South Africa in one of the biggest single contracts of its kind signed by France, officials said Wednesday.

The contract was signed by the Compagnie Generale des Matieres Nucleaires (COGEMA), a subsidiary of France's Commissariat a l'Energie Atomique, the French atomic energy authority, and the Randfontein Estates of South Africa, they said.

COGEMA declined to give any details of the contract but well-informed sources said France has also agreed to grant Randfontein a $103-million interest-free loan in three instalments extending to next July.

Loan repayments will be made from 1983, they said.

South African uranium deliveries will begin in 1980 at $27 a pound of oxide, compared with the current world price of $40, the sources said.

Secret Arms Cache in S.A.

WASHINGTON (Reutetr) Major Western countries have helped South Africa stockpile a secret arsenal of sophisticated weapons in violation of a United Nations embargo, according to congressional testimony to be released today.

The testimony said new data obtained from industrial and government sources showed that South Africa's arms stockpile was worth more than $3 billion and far exceeded all previous estimates, including those by the respected London-based International Institute for Strategic Studies.

The information, compiled by Sean Gervasi, an independent economics research associate at New York State University, was to be presented to the House of Representatives International Relations Subcommittee on Africa at a hearing today.

In a draft of his testimony, a copy of which was made available to Reuter, Gervasi said the arms deliveries to South Africa had been going on over the past decade despite an arms embargo approved in 1933. Some deliveries were continuing, he said.

The most important arms deals, which were shrouded in secrecy, were known to the Western governments and in some instances the governments were directly involved, he said.

South Africa's main arms suppliers were Britain, the United States and Italy, he said France has also sold it large quantities of arms but the French share was only a fraction of the arms trade with South Africa

Gervasi said the statistics provided so far by the International Institute for Strategic Studies underestimated South Africa's strength in military equipment.

"The new data show that the major western powers have failed altogether to heed the call made by the United Nation's Security Council in 1963," he said.

WE LIKE A CHALLENGE!
We believe Fernhill Place offers the best value in new apartment type homes in the Victoria District today. We've only 4 homes now available, so clearly others agree with us!
VALUE
to us is a combination of suite size, quality of construction, location and price. We think our suite 206, offering 1449 sq. ft. for $44,900 represents outstanding value. However only you can judge value for yourself so please see our homes and compare.

Experts Predict Dollar to Rise

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

The Canadian dollar has about reached bottom in the range of 94 to 95 cents and the next move should be upwards, according to senior foreign exchange experts.

Canadian economic conditions indicate the dollar will be stable over the summer and will begin to rise in value by fall.

The Canadian dollar began its plunge in November and was rocked again in February but has been shored up since that time. Interest rates are nearing their low point. Once it is clear these rates have stabilized or will increase, foreign investment will flow into Canada in large amounts, sending the dollar up.

Canada's trade deficit this year will be in excess of $3 billion but this represents significant improvement over the $4.3 billion deficit last year.

Indications that Canada will have a natural gas pipeline also is adding strength to the dollar.

The Quebec situation remains cloudy, however, and is puzzling to foreign investors who are used to political stability in Canada. Defeat of a separatist referendum would further encourage investment, especially in Quebec.

Meanwhile, south of the border, the U.S. dollar has slipped in relation to both the mark and the yen but the American economy is basically strong.

The drop in the U.S. dollar is a reflection of the large trade deficits.

The deficits, however, are misleading.

The U.S. is buying more than it is selling because its economy is expanding faster than its trading partners. Therefore it is buying large amounts of raw materials and other goods without having markets to purchase all the production.

As the economies of Japan and Western Europe improve, the U.S. trading pattern will strengthen.

The main concern in the U.S. at present is the possibility of a serious surge of inflation.

In Britain the pound has strengthened from its October low of $1.55 to about $1.71 due mainly to a $3.9 billion credit negotiated with International Monetary Fund.

Restrictions on domestic credit have also strengthened the currency.

The long-term outlook is for further improvement in the pound based upon the probability of obtaining large amounts of oil from the North Sea.

The present current account deficit in Britain is running at about $2 billion but there are indications this could be reduced or even erased by year's end.

The yen and mark continue to be among the world's strongest currencies.

The lira (Italy) and the franc (France continue to be among the weaker currencies of western industrialized nations.

TC PIPELINES BUYING RESERVES

CALGARY (CP) — TransCanada PipeLines has initiated a major natural gas purchasing program in Alberta to acquire additional reserves required to support deliveries of about 600 million cubic feet daily, J. W. Kerr, company chairman, said Tuesday.

In a news release, he said initial deliveries will begin no later than Nov. 1, 1980.

Deliveries could begin earlier if the company receives approval from regulatory agencies to export and import gas under pre-delivery or exchange arrangements, he said.

Pre-deliveries involve an acceleration of deliveries under existing export licenses.

Exchange arrangements would involve an increase in existing exports to the United States and the replacement of these volumes at a later date with Alaskan gas, Kerr added.

CHILEAN OIL PROGRAM

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian Superior Oil Ltd. of Calgary has announced its participation in a mineral exploration program in Chile and a petroleum exploration program in the Dominican Republic.

A company statement said in Santiago on July 7, Canadian Superior Oil, its parent company, Superior Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., and Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd. and McIntyre Mines Ltd., both of Toronto, signed an agreement with the Chilean government.

The agreement authorizes the companies to conduct exploration, prospecting and development of certain mining claims in northern Chile, known as Quebrada Blanca.

On the same date, Canadian Superior Oil and Eastern Petroleum Co. of Houston signed a contract with the government of the Dominican Republic to carry out a petroleum exploration and development program in the Enriquillo Basin in the southwestern portion of the republic.

AIB FINES FIRM

BURNABY (CP) — The Burnaby Glaco Division of Ekco Canada Ltd. has been ordered under the Anti-Inflation Act to pay $1,000 to the federal government for paying plant wages above anti-inflation guidelines.

Anti-inflation administrator Donald Tansley said two employees at the plant, which coats baking pans with an anti-sticking compound, should have their wages held to 15 and 12 per cent in the first and second years of a two-year contract negotiated in 1975.

A plant spokesman said contracts with the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union are negotiated by the company's head office in Toronto.

Bangor Punta Bid Studied

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. (CPI) is holding talks with Bangor Punta Corp., of Greenwich, Conn., which may result in a takeover of Bangor, a CPI spokesman reports.

Included in such talks is the possibility of a sale to CPI of a new convertible preference issue, subject to Bangor Punta shareholders' approval.

Bangor Punta is a diversified company which manufactures, sells and distributes recreational, leisure, sporting, law enforcement, agricultural and industrial products.

Among its subsidiaries are Smith and Wesson and Piper Aircraft.

CANCEL RAISING $70M

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Cellulose Co. Ltd. has completed arrangements to raise about $70 million through issuing unsecured promissory notes to existing bondholders, Prudential Insurance Co. of America and Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

President Ronald Gross said the issue, which matures Dec. 15, 1992, consists of $50 million U.S. at 10.5 per cent and $20 million Canadian at 11.5 per cent.

Proceeds of the issue will be used on the company's $118 million program at Prince Rupert, where the sulphite mill is being modified to the kraft pulp process, and the existing kraft mill is being improved.

...right on the back of the bottle.
Canadian law requires distillers to place a stamp on their whisky bottles showing the year the whisky was distilled.
With Schenley OFC, we go a lot further. We certify that our whisky has been aged in charred white oak casks, for a full 8 years.
We believe 8 years is the perfect aging time for whisky.
At 8 years, our whisky is not so young, that it's pale, harsh, immature.
Not so old that it's dark, strong, "woody."

Metchosin Group Appealing Esquimalt Lagoon Outfall

A Metchosin-Colwood anti-pollution group will appeal a Pollution Control Branch decision to allow a 1,200-foot sewage outfall off Esquimalt Lagoon.

Group spokesman Frank Heinrich said Wednesday the matter is now in the hands of a lawyer and the appeal will be launched within the statutory 15-day period after the permit was granted.

W. N. Venables, director of the Pollution Control Branch, announced Monday that the permit had been granted because sewage problems in a subdivision near the lagoon are causing a serious pollution and health hazard.

The proposed $350,000 outfall is designed to pump liquid sewage from a 70-house subdivision out into the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The solid waste would be trucked away, probably to the Millstream septic tank dump lagoon on Millstream Road.

The application for the outfall was made by the Capital Region District to clean up what was described as a serious health problem created by 18 to 22 faulty septic tanks.

The proposal has been strenuously opposed by environmentalists and concerned citizens groups opposed the pumping sewage into Juan de Fuca.

Heinrich said pressure will mount and a meeting is being arranged by all those objecting to the outfall for early next week.

"What they are trying to pull off down there, is unreal," he said.

He said the only reason he sees for the permit being granted is that the regional district favors development going ahead in the area.

This cannot occur until proper sewage disposal is provided.

Heinrich said he will seek a meeting with Premier Bill Bennett to express citizens' opposition to the outfall.

He also questioned why all those who were issued sheriff's notices from the regional health office ordering them to repair their septic tanks were never penalized for failing to comply.

He said orders were issued to 19 residents in March, 1976 to complete the job in two months. Four or five did so, he said, but the others did nothing and were never bothered again.

Heinrich said anyone who says outfalls will not lead to pollution in the area should check out the federal sewage outfall from the nearby Belmont Park subdivision.

"The smell is so overpowering, it will knock you over," he said, adding that there are "little bits of matter" floating around.

Meanwhile, the Albert Head Ratepayers Association has written to Venables recommending immediate cancellation of the permit.

Association secretary Shirley Wilde says in the letter that building an outfall to correct 18 to 20 faulty septic tanks "is economic insanity and complete irresponsibility . . ."

"We sympathize with the residents of the Esquimalt Lagoon, but must remind them and your department that we look after our own septic tanks and disposal fields and we respectfully request they do the same."

Mid-Air Collision Feared

The crash of two planes in northern B.C. Monday may have been the result of a mid-air collision, a spokesman for the Pacific Rescue Centre said today.

The spokesman said that because the wreckage of the two planes was found within half of mile of each other officials believe the planes might have collided.

Investigators are at the scene today attempting to reconstruct the mishap that occurred in bad weather about 80 miles southeast of Fort Nelson.

Eight persons — four in each plane — died in the crashes. The eight were part of a group of Iowa farmers on a flying tour of Western Canada and Alaska.

Academy Owners Eyeing New Site

Victoria Riding Academy operator Mrs. Don Carley said today she hopes to relocate as close to town as the current Cedar Hill Cross Road site which will be vacated Oct. 15.

She and her husband, who have operated the riding stables for some 30 years in Oak Bay, are negotiating for a new location because the cost of operation has become too high.

Annual taxes and rent mount to $11,400, which has caused the Carleys difficulty in the past few years. To assist their move Oak Bay council said the municipality is prepared to forgive taxes and rent and provide service, worth up to $5,000 for a total of about $20,000.

Mrs. Carley said they have until next spring to complete arrangements for a new site, which may involve re-erection of their barn and covered riding ring at the new place.

An effort will be made to locate east of Patricia Bay Highway so that youngsters riding bikes to the academy will have easier, safer access.

The 9.3-acre municipally-owned site will be developed for housing or other recreational use, mayor Brian Smith said. The property is zoned for apartment use, but he indicated council will not agree to high-rise development.

$1.3M From Gov't On Secondary Roads

The government will spend $1.3 million in 40 municipalities for capital works on secondary highways within the municipal boundaries, Highways Minister Alex Fraser said Wednesday.

The sum represents 50 per cent of the cost of "acceptable capital improvements on such classified routes," he said.

The municipality involved will pay the other 50 per cent.

Martin Nash . . . "a magnificent obsession"

He's Charming But He Cheats

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

The long, rainy afternoons in isolated Owen Bay on Sonora Island north of Campbell River don't leave much for a kid to do so Martin Nash turned to cards.

That was 37 years ago when Martin was a restless seven-year-old. Today he is considered one of the greatest card manipulators in the world, and still practises eight to 12 hours a day seven days a week.

And as he flashes his way around a deck of cards, all those years of patient practice show . . . uh, that is, it doesn't show.

Hence the reason behind the "Charming Cheat's" public performances and consultation with police vice squads.

Nash can't resist the temptation to show off a new trick he has mastered: a move that might prove fatal to a genuine card cheater.

"A professional cheat can't let anyone know how good he is," Nash says and grins, indictating that he can and love to.

Nash is good. To get to his level, it requires thousands of hours of practice to master jut one trick, and Nash knows dozens.

"It's an obsession admittedly," he says, "but I like to think of it as a 'magnificent obsession'," he adds, punning on the title of the famous Lloyd Dougias novel.

Rather than make a living as a professional card cheat, Nash tours North America hired by clubs and organizations to give demonstrations. He also does television shows and mall promotions.

Nash is "on call" to some 5,000 police departments around the world. In his pocket he carries a medallion emblematic of his honorary membership in the International Association of Police Chiefs — the only civilian to carry one, he says.

He also lectures college criminology classes on how to spot a card cheater.

Gambling is big business. Last year in North America gambling "handled" $600 billion, Nash says. With profits averaging 12 per cent, that's a $72 billion profit. No wonder there are cheaters.

But if you know what you are looking for, a cheater is easy to spot.

There are two main card cheating methods — marked cards and second dealing, where the dealer keeps the top card on the deck for himself — usually an ace that he sets up there — and deals the others the second card.

Even when Nash deals slowly with the observer knowing what to look for, it is difficult to spot second dealing. Fortunately not many, if any, are as good as Nash.

But a good cheater doesn't cheat every hand either.

If a good cheater is patient and waits for the right hand, he may have to cheat only once or twice in an evening of poker to make big money.

The isolated logging and mining camps are still rife with gambling, and cheaters still head for them.

During one hand, the cops made their move. Unfortunatly only two cops saw the sleight-of-hand and the other two missed it. The case was thrown out of court.

It's a good thing Nash can make a good living the way he does. If he had chosen a cheating career instead, he would have been formidable.

Most professional cheaters have one basic move, while Nash has perfected dozens.

Diamond rings flashing on each hand as he shoots his cuffs, the flamboyant Nash shuffles a couple of times, cuts the deck and deals eight hands of draw poker on the maroon velvet surface.

Player number one gets three queens, number three has four kings, Nash the dealer is sitting on four aces.

"I let those two play off each other," he says, pointing to one and three, "and then I move in."

It's truly amazing. The trick isn't in the cards, its in the shuffling. His feel for the deck is so good, he can place cards where he wants them during a fairly fast shuffle. And he can manipulate the cut of the deck so it doesn't foul up his careful "riffle stocking."

"How do you do it?" someone asks.

"Very well and very quickly," is his stock answer.

Straight gambling bores him, although he admits to spending $2 worth of nickels in the slot machines of Las Vegas.

Do the casino dealers cheat?

"No comment."

But Nash says a good poker player getting bad cards will consistantly beat a poor player getting good cards. The poor player doesn't know when to raise, when to drop out, when to bluff, so he'll still lose.

Another Nash homily: it's not true that all gamblers cheat, but is it true that no cheater ever gambles. They only bet on a sure thing.

Well, this reporter is no cheater but he'll bet on a sure thing. If you see Nash up at the Mayfair mall, you'll be impressed.

Abortions Reduce School Enrolment

Therapeutic abortions, cited as a major reason for declining school enrolment in Vancouver elementary schools, are also a factor in Victoria, planning director Jack Dalgleish said Wednesday.

A Vancouver school board report says therapeutic abortions in the past 10 years are a major factor in a one-third drop in elementary school enrolment.

Dalgleish said there are a number of reasons for the declining enrolment in Greater Victoria. The birth control pill and therapeutic abortions have some effect, although there is no way of knowing the exact extent, he said.

For several years in the 1960s and early 1970s the Grade 1 enrolment hovered around the 2,600 mark. But a drop of 1,000 to around 1,600 is expected, Dalgleish said.

And the fall-off compounds as each class goes through the system to where eventually there are 11,000 to 12,000 fewer students.

The drop has been fairly consistent over the years. In 1966, 3,464 first-graders registered. But the projected enrolment for 1982 (based on the 1976 birth rate) is only 1,625.

Young couples unable to find work are moving out of the city, and others are moving to the suburbs.

(Total school enrolment has dropped from a peak in 1972 of 30,878 students to a projected 21,659 10 years later in 1982.)

Although some officials feel 1982 will be the lowest point of the trend, Dalgleish said he can see no indicators that enrolment won't continue dropping.

A major planning report slated for September is expected to give school board officials an indication of measures they should take to compensate.

More school closures are a possibility, including for the first time a major junior or senior secondary school.

But planners couldn't take into account that some 100 newly-constructed homes in the area wouldn't be sold.

Negotiators Happy With Works Switch

By MIKE HUGHES

A joint union-management committee has now determined which public works ministry employees will be offered jobs in the B.C. Building Corp.

The committee has also worked out options for the 800 workers whose jobs will be eliminated when the Crown corporation becomes fully operational in April, 1978.

Union committee member Don Burns said Wednesday the selection process was completed Tuesday night and will be voted on by the B.C. Government Employees Union executive Aug. 1.

If the executive accepts the package, details will be made available to the public works employees, he said.

Burns said the union members of the committee are recommending aceptance of the package which he feels is a good one from the employees' point of view.

"We are very happy with the way things have gone," he said. "It's been better than we anticipated."

The committee has been meeting for about eight weeks after being set up in May to arrange the orderly transition of employees to the new corporation and protection for those whose jobs will be scrapped.

There are about 2,100 public works employees and the corporation will employ about 1,000. Another 270 will remain with the public works ministry and 800 jobs will be eliminated.

Burns said the committee has worked out options which include placement elsewhere in the public service, early retirement, severance pay or in-service training for other work.

He said the BCBC jobs will be offered to the most senior employee in a particular classification. If the employee turns it down, he or she will be given the same options as the 800 and the next most senior employee will be offered the BCBC position.

Burns said there are still about 15 BCBC positions in dispute.

At issue is whether they should be part of the selection process or simply a prerogative of the corporation to fill.

The final decision will likely have to be made by the B.C. Labor Relations Board, he said.

The union agreed that some jobs were management positions and as such could be posted and filled by people the corporation feels are the most competent.

Burns said to date no BCBC position has been filled without the knowledge and consent of the union.

He said he has had a few complaints from employees that they are not being given a fair shake in winning posted jobs at BCBC but not too many.

Burns comments differ markedly with reports from the legislature earlier this month about an atmosphere of anxiety, fear and disillusionment among public works employees.

Conservative Leader Scott Wallace told the legislature he has heard of an executive secretary in the public works ministry being turned down for a similar position with BCBC and an Alberta man being hired despite the fact qualified persons within the ministry applied for the job.

Burns said three executive secretaries will be hired for BCBC and two of them are from within the ministry. He said the woman in question still has a chance at the third position but the corporation is continuing to look for someone with more qualifications.

Charles Barber (NDP—Victoria) told the legislature a safety engineer earning $1,300 will be transferred to a clerical postion in the ministry of education.

A public works interior designer will be given the job as typist in the recreation and conservation ministry, he said.

"There are hundreds and hundreds of people in this riding, whom I represent, who believe that the minister is either unwilling or unable to honor his promise to protect their jobs," Barber said.

Board Gives Big Lift To Mobile Home Park

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

Sidney will likely have the largest mobile home park on Vancouver Island after the Capital Region joined it Wednesday in a plea to remove 62 acres from the farmland freeze.

Leisure Villa Estates Ltd. wants to develop the park for about 250 mobile homes on 33 acres south of Weiler Avenue, between Canora Avenue, the Pat Bay Highway and the town boundary.

Four other property owners are also involved in the appeal to the provincial cabinet to remove a total of 62 acres from the Agricultual Land Reserve.

At the time the reserve was established four years ago Sidney and the regional board wanted the land kept out but the B.C. Land Commission overruled them.

The owners subsequently applied to have the land removed, were turned down and it is this rejection Sidney council, supported now by the region, is appealing.

Directors were told Wednesday the property is surrounded by housing, has sewer and water services and is marginal farmland at best.

Only directors Dave Hill of Central Saanich and Eve Howden of View Royal voted against removing the land although board chairman Jim Campbell also spoke against it.

Campbell said the test directors have always applied in the past on removing land from the ALR was: is the proposed use important and is there nowhere else it can be carried out?

He said he is conviced the use is important but not that there are no other suitable sites in the district.

Hill said the issue is the land's present capacity for farming and he is afraid that society will be sorry in future if chunks of land are pared from the reserve. In this case, such a move is against the region's own official planning.

Director Jerry Tregaskis, the Sidney alderman who has led the struggle for regional support, said no one will lease the land for farming.

Tregaskis said today the mobile home park will be built under a land-use contract with Sidney if the appeal is successful and density would be slightly over seven units per acre.

There would be landscaping around the entire perimeter as well as along a stream bed on the property and the architect-designed project would include two tennis courts, a swimming pool, three shuffle board layouts, activity rooms and guest rooms, he said.

Saanich Needs Shop Centre Now, Lum Tells Bawlf

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria MLA Sam Bawlf is doing nothing to help the tourist industry and is doing the district some harm by suggesting Saanich should forget about developing a major new shopping centre, Mayor Ed Lum said today.

The mayor was commenting on a statement by Bawlf Wednesday to Victoria Chamber of Commerce that Saanich was being penny wise and pound foolish by insisting upon having a major new shopping centre.

Bawlf, who is recreation minister, said tourists come to Victoria to shop downtown and they don't want to travel to a standard suburban shopping centre to make their purchases.

Bawlf said Saanich should forget its plan and encourage the development of a third department store in downtown Victoria.

Bawlf said he realized his remark was controversial and "a bit of an intrusion." Only about 30 people out of 250 applauded the proposal.

Lum said today Bawlf made no sense because "tourists come here to relax, not to shop."

But the main issue, Lum said, is not the tourist industry but the immediate needs of the people of Greater Victoria.

"We need a major shopping centre in Saanich right now. It is overdue. Thousands of people would rather shop in the suburbs where they can get parking. When you go downtown you have to circle several blocks before you can find a space. I seldom shop downtown for that reason."

Lum said a major Saanich shopping centre would do no harm to the tourist industry and would meet an urgent need for the peninsula.

He said his personal choice for a site is Broadmead, which is rapidly becoming the population centre for the peninsula.

"This is not a new proposal. It first came before council in 1961 and was approved by council in 1966.

"My feeling is we should proceed with Broadmead and shelve the second proposal (for a shopping centre in the Tillicum area) for about 20 years."

At the chamber meeting at The Empress attended by Victoria Mayor Mike Young and several Victoria aldermen, Bawlf said:

"People are not going to be attracted here to drive through an empty city centre to a typical suburban shopping centre for stimulation.

"Tourism and retail and restaurant services go hand-in-hand. A sophisticated shopping and dining milieu is essential to our tourism. And our hotels and services for the tourist are not going to survive without the trade of suburban Victorians to supplement their income.

"So I want to tell you that I am deeply concerned at the mounting pressure for the addition of more major shopping centres in our suburbs. This, in my view, would be a disaster," he said.

"If the services of one or both of our downtown department stores are permitted to be duplicated in the suburbs, along with dozens of national retailers, the blow to our main retail and tourist service centre would be staggering.

MARTIN WARNS PRESS: 'NO ROOM ON THE BUS'

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees manager Billy Martin has threatened to bar certain New York sports writers from the team bus, plane and clubhouse, it was reported Wednesday. "I know this is a strong stand to take," Martin said of this threat to bar writers, "and I'm not saying I will. But the first thing is for the Yankees to win. I know you guys have a job to do, but so do I. And your job hurts mine. I have to do something.

TIMBERMEN POST UPSET OVER ADANACS

Burrards Put Down 'Rocks

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Vancouver Burrards pulled a bush-league trick before Wednesday night's Western Lacrosse Association game with Victoria Shamrocks at Memorial Arena, but they weren't any bushers when it came to playing the game.

Burrards paraded suspended player Ward Sanderson on the floor for the pre-game practice drill before he was ordered off by WLA commissioner Roy Burton. They then took all the Shamrocks had to offer in the game that followed and were the better club in a tough, hard-fought battle, 12-11.

The victory moved Burrards five points ahead of the Shamrocks in the battle for first place with the Shamrocks having two games in hand, both of which will be used up this week.

The Irish play in New Westminster tonight and in Coquitlam, Saturday.

They must win at least one of these games to retain a chance of taking over the league lead before the end of the season as they still have two games remaining with Burrards, one here and one in Vancouver.

It wasn't that the Rocks didn't play well or have their opportunities. They did. Three times they came from behind in the first period to be all square at 3-3 at the period's end. Twice they had three-goal leads and that's when they couldn't stand the prosperity.

They let up, got careless, or both.

After Ivan Thompson for the Rocks and Ron Pinder for Burrards had traded goals early in the second period, Ron MacNeil and Terry Sanderson scored to give the Rocks the lead at 6-4, the first time in the game there had been a two-goal spread.

Dave Tasker, who was to get three goals, got one back for Burrards; and when Dave Lowdon on a break-through and Sanderson with his fourth scored before the end of the second period, it seemed the Rocks were on their way to their first win of the year over the visitors.

They had an 8-5 lead and momentum. And things were just as rosy after Joe Marello scored his first of two for Burrards and Norm Baker replied for the Rocks. Now it was 9-6.

But noticeably, the tough checking that had held the Rocks in stead earlier, suddenly started to desert them, and Burrards took over.

They completely outhustled the Rocks from then on and were tigers on loose balls.

At one stage of the third period, Burrards got four consecutive loose balls after shots on goal and kept control for over a minute and a half.

During this later stage, an old Shamrock nemesis, but young in years, Rico Bellusci, found time to score two goals, both on long shots that beat Shamrock goalkeeper Larry Smeltzer cleanly.

Marello, a rookie, got his second, Steve Matheson another and Tasker his third and his 44th of the year to tie the score at 10-10 after Mike Beaulac had given the Rocks a 10-9 edge.

Dave Thomson, with his second, gave the Rocks the lea again at 14:47. But little over a minute later, Bellusci bounced his second past Smeltzer and the score was tied at 12.

Pinder, with his second, put it away for keeps at 19:30.

Burrards used two rookies, Dan Perrault and Terry Bingley, both of Burnaby Cablevision. Bingley got one goal and two assists and Perrault one assist. Doug Hayes scored the other Burrard goal.

Burrards outshot the Rocks 16-10 in the first period and if it hadn't been for Smeltzer then, they might have put it to the Rocks earlier.

After that, the Rocks had no-one to blame but themselves.

Charn Dhillon had two assists for the Rocks and now has 599 points, lifetime.

Alexander Gets Five

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Timbermen took advantage of Coquitlam penalties to build up an early lead, then held on to defeat the Adanacs 16-12 in a Western Lacrosse Association game before 274 fans Wednesday.

Nanaimo led 7-5 at the end of the first period and 11-6 at the end of the second.

Barnes Breathes Life Into Alouettes' Attack

OTTAWA (CP) — Joe Barnes says he likes to run and the Montreal quarterback showed he is adept at it while guiding the Alouettes to a 27-17 win over Ottawa Rough Riders in an Eastern Football Conference game Wednesday night.

Barnes, making his first start at quarterback in two seasons with the Als, showed 25,280 Ottawa fans why New York Jets of the National Football League wanted him as a running back.

He picked up 106 yards on eight carries including a five-yard touchdown run and, when the Riders defence finally regrouped to slow him down, he set his running backs John O'Leary and Andy Hopkins to work. They responded with 83-yard and 65-yard efforts.

After receiving the game ball from his team-mates in the dressing room, Barnes said he was instructed to run if he couldn't find his receivers open.

But head coach Marv Levy seemed to accept Barnes' quick departures from the passing pocket and said he "did a superb job in the long scoring drives."

The drives, 52 yards in 20 plays in the second quarter, and 75 yards in 10 plays in the fourth, produced a three-yard scoring plunge by Hopkins and Barnes's touchdown. Both drives were kept alive by timely Ottawa penalties.

Barnes also passed seven yards to tight end Peter Dalla Riva for a touchdown. Don Sweet converted the three touchdowns and kicked field goals of 37 yards and 29 yards.

Mike Murphy, on a two-yard plunge, and Larry Cates on a five-yard pass from quarterback Tom Clements, scored touchdowns for Ottawa. Gerry Organ converted both and kicked a 32-yard field goal.

The Riders running game was dismal but Clements clicked on 18 of 29 passes for 299 yards.

He had two passing touchdowns called back because of penalties—a 75-yard pass-and-run play to tight end Tony Gabriel and a pass to wide receiver Jeff Avery deep in the Montreal end zone in the dying moments of the game.

The Riders took the offensive in the third quarter and seemed to be gaining momentum as the Als faltered, mainly because Barnes was having trouble completing passes. However Levy resisted temptations to replace Barnes who snuffed out the Riders with the 75-yard scoring drive.

But if Montreal had trouble passing, Ottawa had more trouble mounting a ground game getting only 88 yards on the ground, half of it from Murphy, the Canadian rookie.

WHA STILL WAITING FOR NHL'S SIGNAL

TORONTO (CP) — Three weeks ago, it was expected that the National Hockey League's board of governors would have a definitive stand on accommodation of World Hockey Association teams in an expanded NHL following their scheduled meetings Wednesday.

But the NHL-WHA situation is still unclear after an announcement by John A. Ziegler, the NHL's president-elect, that the NHL's expansion fact-finding committee still has a great deal of work to do before any definitive move is made.

"This was a waste of time for the players," noted Alan Eagleson, executive director of the NHL Players' Association, after his group met with the owners for one hour.

"The owners are not in a position to decide on a merger, expansion or an accommodation, or whatever they want to call it," added Eagleson.

"The owners are less interested in merger now than they were three weeks ago. In Chicago, it was a 17-to-1 vote for. Now maybe it's 10 to 8.

"The players are not unanimous on expansion either. But the players are different from the owners."

There was a general feeling after the governors met in Chicago late last month that final plans for accommodating the WHA clubs would be presented at this meeting and negotiations would begin on a new collective bargaining agreement.

"We had hoped by this time to have the necessary documents, the applications and all of the work that would be necessary to consider going through with the proposal on expansion," said Ziegler, who takes over the NHL presidency late next month.

"Because of the breadth and length of the legalities and the work that had to be done, we were not in a position to process applications. As a matter of fact, they are just now being finalized to be delivered.

"We were not in a position to discuss with the players, on a meaningful basis, the question of any amendments to the collective bargaining agreement in the event of an expansion."

The news of the non-decision came as no shock to John Dacres, president of the WHA's Quebec Nordiques, although Rudy Pilous, general manager of Winnipeg Jets, admitted he was disappointed.

"We still haven't applied yet, mainly because we don't know what they want in the application," Pilous said.

"I didn't expect anything to be decided," said Dacres. "I don't see anything alarming in that."

The NHL's expansion fact-finding committee, which ends its mandate a week from today, met briefly after Ziegler's announcement Wednesday and will continue to meet.

Meanwhile, the league announced a new Stanley Cup playoff format for the 1977-78 season.

Under the new format, the top two clubs in each division will qualify for the playoffs, along with the next four clubs with the highest point totals over-all, regardless of division.

The first-place finishers will each get a bye from the best-of-three preliminary rounds as was the case during the last three seasons.

For the last three years, the top three finishers in each division qualified for the playoffs.

Canucks Sign Bannerman

Victoria Cougar graduate Murray Bannerman, signed by Vancouver Canucks this week, has been promised time and opportunity to make good in the National Hockey League.

A fourth-round draft choice, the 21-year-old Bannerman signed a three-year contract. Financial details were not revealed.

Perhaps more important, however, is the promise from Vancouver general manager Jake Milford that Bannerman "will have an excellent opportunity to make it" in professional ranks.

Goaltending has been something of a problem spot for Vancouver. By action and by words, Milford is satisfied with the work of veteran Cesare Maniago but seems less impressed with the backup support offered the Canucks last season.

Curt Ridley, a rookie last season, was Maniago's main backup while Bruce Bullock and Dan Brady stood by in the minor league wings. Milford said Wednesday the contracts of both Brady and Bullock will not be renewed. In addition, Milford feels "Ridley . . . didn't help the team too much."

For that reason, Canucks placed heavy emphasis on goaltenders in the recent amateur draft. In addition to Bannerman, Glen Hanlon of Brandon Wheat Kings was picked in the third round and Canucks added former New Westminster Bruin Blaine Peterson to the Vancouver negotiation list.

Canucks are still negotiating with Hanlon but Milford made it obvious the NHL club has high hopes for its draft choices. Vancouver's priorities are first but Milford also pointed out that Canucks are committed to supply goaltenders to Tulsa Oilers of the Central League and to Fort Wayne in the International League.

"It takes longer for goalkeepers to develop," said Milford, "so we're willing to wait."

But if Bannerman plays as well as he did for the Cougars in two seasons, Milford won't have to wait too long.

Classic Comes to UVic but Tom Leaves

District notes and quotes . . .

The University of Victoria caught one and lost one this week.

The "catch" is the announcement that UVic will be the host for the inaugural Pacific Rim Basketball Classic on Dec. 2-4.

Vikings' coach Ken Shields predicts the eight-team men's tournament will be the premier intercollegiate event in British Columbia.

In addition to the Vikings and Victoria's "new" senior "A" team, Data Tech (the former Scorpions), the Classic has attracted Manitoba Bisons, Calgary Dinosaurs, UBC Thunderbirds, St. Martin's College Saints of Olympia, Wash., Oregon College of Education Wolves and Winnipeg Wesmen.

The loss suffered by UVic's basketball program is Ken Hatcher. He has resigned as coach of the junior varsity team.

Hatcher cites a recent increase in his family as well as increased academic responsibilities as the reasons for his resignation.

Shields already has launched a hunt for a replacement.

UVic's Sue Oliver is manager of the team that also includes Joan Carruthers, Mary Cavin, Nancy Littley and Bev Sealey. Provincial coach Ann McKenna will handle the team.

Another five Island players have been selected to the national team that will play a series of matches against Scotland. The Scottish team winds up its Canadian tour by playing the national team at UVic on July 23.

Jan Crook, Mairi Anne Longmore, Diane Whittingham and Lesley Williams, all of Victoria, are national team members along with Lynn Beecroft of Duncan.

Two Victoria players — 16-year-old Jennifer Bland and 12-year-old Kelly Davies — are among the 18-strong B.C. team competing in three Northwest tennis tournaments, this month.

The three tournaments are the Oregon junior, which started this week in Portland; the Pacific Northwest and Washington State junior events.

Larry Patterson was the big winner of the Victoria Motor Sports Car Club's recent Concourse D'Elgance competition. Patterson won the street-car and off-road competitions as well as over-all honors. Bill Thow won the club car competition while Paul Whitmore topped the competition class.

Consistency was the key as Gorge Vale captured the Pepsi-Cola Trophy and the district junior team golf championship Wednesday.

Five of the six Gorge players didn't vary more than four strokes in their two-round match at Glen Meadows (Tuesday) and Gorge (Wednesday). Only the low four of the six scores count.

Gorge scored 629 to beat out favored Uplands by six strokes. Cedar Hill finished third with 643, followed by Colwood (653), Glen Meadows (680) and Victoria (702).

Uplands' Jim Rutledge, the B.C. junior champion, was the individual leader with 76-76—152, one stroke better than Dave Howe of Gorge Vale, 77-76—153. Scott Holroyd of Gorge Vale was third with 75-79—154.

Few 'Casualties' So Far In Times Island Tennis

max low

One mild upset.

That's all we have at the end of another round in the fourth annual Victoria Times Public Parks tennis tournament.

The massive men's singles field in the summer-long tourney has been whittled from 110 entrants to 32 and the only casualty among the "favored" players is young Joe Hammond.

A very impressive winner last year of the mixed doubles title with partner Laurie Blay, Joe is a hard hitter and was expected to do well in this year's singles event but went out in the second round after a 10-8 thriller with Kerry Chan.

Joe and Laurie are back together, though, and have a good chance of repeating their success in the mixed event.

There were no other second-round upsets.

Favorites in the women's singles were just as convincing.

Defending champion Peggy Glegg ousted Kathy Meredith, Junior girls' runner-up last year, 6-0, 6-1; and Elvira Kapus, Hungarian-born Times champion two years ago, crushed Karen Fleischer, 9-0.

They have reached the women's quarter-finals along with Chris Brown (who showed tremendous stamina to fight back for a 0-6, 6-4, 6-0 win over Janice Blay), Sylvia Scott, last year's junior champion Kathy Graham, Marge Grainger, Marg Mainwaring and Erin Bowers.

The girls' singles event is through to the quarter-finals, also, but there are still 16 players in the boys' singles and 16 pairs in the mixed doubles.

Players in the women's and girls' singles events have until Thursday, July 28, to complete their matches but all third-round games in the other three events must be completed and the results back in to the Times by July 21.

The tourney will end with the semi-finals of all five events at Henderson Park on Saturday, Aug. 20, followed by the finals the next day.

Man To Beat Is Phillips

Larry Phillips of Springfield, Mo., plans to add a little more cash to the $2,945 he has won so far on the International Drivers Challenge for super-stocks when the series resumes tonight at Western Speedway.

Phillips won the opening race of the seven-race series Saturday at Yakima and added another victory in the third race Tuesday at Western. He also finished runner-up in the second race Sunday at Portland.

The series continues Friday at Langley, Saturday at Skagit Speedway near Mount Vernon, Wash., and winds up Sunday at Spanaway Speedway near Tacoma.

Joe Ruttman of Pomona, Calif., who has set track records in all three races, and Ron Eaton of Tacoma, who is running second in over-all point standings, figure to be the top challengers to Phillips.

But Victorians Roy Haslam and Roy Smith, who are running third and fourth, respectively, are in good positions to come up with an upset.

The 39 cars that timed in Tuesday should all be back for time trials at 7 tonight. Racing begins at 8 and winds up with a 75-lap feature race.

TOP TEN

Racers Slip Into Oblivion

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The penniless Indianapolis Racers, their general manager in Canada and most of their World Hockey Association office staff already laid off, began closing operations Wednesday.

As the National Hockey League considered applications for membership from other WHA clubs at a meetig in Toronto, the Racers slipped into oblivion, victims of a financial burden.

Brewers Keep Yankees Down

By The Canadian Press

For New York Yankees, it was a case of too little too late Wednesday night.

The Yankees, in a three-way dogfight for first place in the East Division of baseball's American League, dropped 1½ games off the pace Wednesday as Milwaukee Brewers withstood two late home runs by Mickey Rivers to edge New York 9-8.

Meanwhile, Boston Red Sox remained one-half game up on second-place Baltimore Orioles with a 9-7 win over Cleveland Indians. The Orioles kept pace with a 4-3 decision against Texas Rangers.

In other AL games, Toronto Blue Jays beat Chicago 5-3 in the nightcap of a doubleheader after the White Sox had eaken the opener, 6-3. Kansas City Royals downed Detroit Tigers 6-4, Minnesota Twins tripped California Angels 6-3, and Seattle Mariners dumped Oakland A's 3-1.

Larry Hisle's three-run homer in the eighth inning provided Minnesota with its margin of victory. Butch Wynegar and Lyman Bostock had reached base with two-out singles in the eighth before Hisle hit his 20th homer of the season off Angels reliever Wayne Simpson.

Rod Carew went 1-for-4 for Minnesota and saw his major league leading batting average drop to .391.

Ruth Tournament Saturday

LAKE COWICHAN — Six teams will be participating in the double-loss elimination Vancouver Island Senior Babe Ruth baseball championship tournament starting here Saturday.

Victoria Firefighters, Triangle, Mid-Island, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Comox Valley will be battling it out for the Island crown and a berth in the four-team British Columbia playoff in Kelowna, July 31-Aug. 1.

In opening games, Victoria Firefighters and Mid-Island clash at 12 noon, Triangle tackles Comox Valley at 3 p.m. and the Firefighters-Mid-Island winner takes on Port Alberni at 6 p.m.

Play resumes Sunday at 12 noon with the Triangle-Comox winner facing Nanaimo and further games are scheduled for 3 and 6 p.m.

Play continues at 6:15 each night through Thursday or Friday, if necessary.

Games Postponed

DAWSON CREEK — Rain forced postponement of the third games in the B.C. junior and senior Little League girls' softball championships here Wednesday.

SQUIRE, MOEN IN FORM

Mike Squire and Garnet Moen came up with some deadly batting Wednesday to lead Gorge Hotel to a 13-5 decision over Kubicek A's in a Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League game at Lambrick Park.

Squire connected for three hits, including a three-run homer in the third inning, and drove in a total of four runs while Moen also had three hits and batted in two runs.

The win, helped by five opposition errors, pushed Gorge two games ahead of second-place Greaves Movers.

Esquimalt In Final

Esquimalt exploded for six runs in the fifth inning and went on to beat Saanich 10-6 Wednesday while gaining a berth in the final of the Greater Victoria Babe Ruth baseball championship tournament for 15-year-olds at Reynolds Park.

Dave Sitar bashed out three singles and Greg Orton hit two more to support winning-pitcher Dave O-Brian, who also hit two singles and drove in a run.

Gordon Head and Layritz meet in a losers' bracket game at 6 tonight with the winner facing Saanich at the same time Friday.

The final is scheduled for 1 p.m. (6 p.m., if necessary) Saturday.

Tanana Won't Play

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) Frank Tanana, the American League's winningest pitcher with 12 victories and the possible starter in the all-star game, has been advised to pitch again until July 21, California Angels have announced.

Hampton Wins On Nat Errors

Hampton took advantage of three straight errors in the third inning to score twice without getting a hit en route to a 4-2 win over National in the Area One portion of the Greater Victoria Little League baseball playoffs Wednesday at Hillside Park.

In the Area Two tourney at Holywood Park, Beacon Hill scored the winning run on an error in the fifth to edge Sidney 4-3 and Triangle put on an impressive display of pitching and hitting while bouncing Oak Bay 12-0 in the Area Three tourney at Lambrick Park.

Doug Schaufele pitched a four-hitter and struck out nine batters to help Hampton to victory and drove in one run in the first inning on a single.

Dallas Backhouse hurled a two-hitter and struck out 11 to aid the Beacon Hill decision.

Triangle's cause was helped by Joseph Morrison's two-hit pitching and nine strikeouts as well as a 14-hit barrage.

Gabriel Will Report

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Veteran quarterback Roman Gabriel, in the option year of a one-year contract, will report to Philadelphia Eagles' National Football League training camp next Monday, coach Dick Vermeil said. There has been confusion over Gabriel's status since he failed to show up with the rookies last Monday.

Mitchell, Morse, Froelich, the Outlaw, Ryan and Palardy will participate in supporting bouts, starting at 8 p.m.

SPECIAL guest of B.C. Jockey Club during Monday's race Vancouver will be Bill Shoecard at Exhibition Park in maker. World's leading jockey with over 7,000 victories, the 46-year-old "Shoe" is expected to accept several mounts on Monday's card.

Walt Enjoys Big Night

Walt Burrows went five-for-five and Pete Songhurst added four hits to spark Victoria Bates to an 18-1 victory over Labatt's Breweries in a benefit slow-pitch softball exhibition at Royal Athletic Park Wednesday.

Proceeds from the game were turned over to the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for handicapped children.

Victoria Athletics also got their bats working Wednesday, banging out 11 hits, including a home run by Bob Bugslag, to defeat Colony Inn Royals 7-3 in a Stuffy McGinnis Men's League encounter at Central Park.

Athletics now have won three of four meetings with Colony Inn. The latest victory moved the A's to within four points of league-leading Sooke.

Bates are acheduled to play Seattle Goldies in a four-game series at Royal Athletic Park this weekend. Saturday night's doubleheader starts at 7 p.m. and Sunday's action begins at 1 p.m.

Athletics' entry in the Senior Women's League also went on a hitting spree. They hammered out 23 hits and took advantage of 13 errors to crush Ingraham Hotel 34-5 at Hyacinth Park.

Penny Retieff and Karen Jones each had four hits for Athletics.

In another game, Lori Barlow, Tammi Painter and Cindy Smith each had two hits to lead CRESC Angels to a 3-1 upset over the leading GSV Combos. Kathy Wilkinson checked Combos on four hits.

Singles by Ray Adams and John Cocciloni and two errors provided the runs Castle Properties needed in the third inning as the club edged Remco Office Systems 2-1 in a Heywood Men's League game. The two hits were the only ones Castle managed off losing pitcher Bob Risdale.

Cellar-dwelling Tsawout upset KOA Kampgrounds 8-3 in Sidney Men's League action at Sanscha Park.

Victoria Athletics defeated Mayfair Insurance 7-0 and Strathcona Hotel clipped Cliff MacKay 7-3 in the opening games of best-of-three semi-finals in the Macdonald Men's League.

CIL EXTERIOR LATEX
IT STRETCHES
SO IT WON'T CRACK, BLISTER OR PEEL

The wood in your house actually stretches as it absorbs moisture during the winter and early spring.

Aaaah! And CIL's Acrylic Latex Lo-Sheen stretches with it. When it dries in the summer your house shrinks back to a little less than it's original size.

As might be expected, CIL's Latex Lo-Sheen shrinks, too.

Which leads us to the unexpected. An exterior latex that resists cracking, blistering and peeling better than most oil-based paints you can buy.

But best of all, that's not all. Besides stretching and shrinking, Lo-Sheen breathes. Actually allows moisture to escape that would be normally trapped underneath oil-based paints.

One more reason it resists cracking, blistering and peeling and resists fading, too.

CIL's Acrylic Latex Lo-Sheen is for siding, brick and masonry. And CIL's Exterior Gloss Latex is for doors, windows, trim and siding.

Don't forget, they're both easier to apply than oil-based paints and clean-up is simpler, too.

So without stretching the imagination, you can see why this is the exterior paint for you.

AGASSIZ PRISON BIG ENOUGH

VANCOUVER (CP) — The maximum-security prison needs for British Columbia and the Prairie region can be met for the immediate future by a new institution now under construction in Agassiz in the Fraser Valley, a Canadian Penitentiary Service spokesman said Wednesday.

He said a federal prison planned for Lillooet won't be needed immediately because the Agassiz institution, which will hold 192 prisoners, will be large enough to take care of both present and projected needs.

Medium-security requirements will be met with an institution planned for Kamloops, which will hold 252 prisoners, the spokesman said.

"Im May, prison population forecasts indicated that these two institutions will be sufficient to meet current needs, therefore it is not presently indicated that there will be an early beginning of construction in Lillooet," he said.

He was commenting following earlier reports that there would be a five-year moratorium on building a federal penitentiary in the small interior village of Lillooet.

Meanwhile, the announcement of a five-year delay is contradictory to what Solicitor-General Francis Fox told the community last December, Lillooet Mayor Joe Rickard said Wednesday.

Rickard said Fox promised work would start this month on the maximum-security institution proposed for this opper Fraser Canyon village.

Rickard said the village needs the prison to increase the industrial tax base and has already begun working on assembling land for the project and housing for staff members.

BCR Derailment Tab $2M

VANCOUVER (CP) — The cost of derailments on British Columbia Railway's (BCR) system during 1976 was $2.7 million, saydocuments filed with the royal commission inquiring into BCR's affairs.

Detailed statistics on derailments are contained in written answers to questions raised by the commission during the public hearings, now are being assessed by the commission's staff prior to the resumption of hearings in September.

The documents also indicate that railway lost 261,798 man days because of strikes between 1965 and 1976.

The worst record for derailments, in terms of mishaps versus mileage, occurred on the 243-mile extension between Fort St. John and Fort Nelson, the muskeg section on which plywood was substituted for ballast.

Records examined at the commission's office indicate that the extension, which handles only one train each day, recorded 39 derailments in 1976 at a total cost of $788,732.

The Peace River and Omineca Divisions include about 786 miles of operational track north of Prince George, including lines to Fort St. James, Takla and Lovell in the northwest and Chetwynd, Dawson Creek and Fort St. John in the northeast. During 1976, the Peace River and Omineca divisions recorded 29 derailments and the costs of the mishaps totalled $674,011.

The Cariboo Division, which includes the 462 miles of track between North Vancouver and Prince George, serves the towns of Lillooet, Williams Lake and Quesnel. During 1976, the Cariboo Division recorded 58 derailments at a total cost of $1.1 million.

3 Die in Copters

SEOUL (UPI) — A U.S. Marine helicopter crashed about 145 miles southwest of Seoul and an army chopper sent to rescue survivors also plunged to earth, killing a total of three American servicemen and injuring nine.

Trial Set for Machine On Okanagan Lake Weeds

KELOWNA (CP) — The provincial government has agree to try out a new machine on the Eurasian milfoil weeds in the Okanagan Lakes system.

A contract was drawn up Tuesday between the government Kelowna inventor Fordon Jennens which calls for a trial run of his machine on a 25-acre patch of the weed. If successful, a further 300 acres of the weed will be eradicated.

"Work will start as patent rights have been cleared," Jennens said Wednesday.

The government contract specifies payment for the number of acres successfully removed by the machine and says the 25-acre area must be cleared by Dec. 31, 1977. An extension of the deadline is allowed if delays occur which are not the fault of Jennens.

The limit was one factor delaying the three-month-long negotiations between the government and Jennens.

The 25-acre test will probably take place in the north arm of Lake Okanagan where the weeds are most severe, while the 300-acre site will probably occur in the Kelowna area, said Jennens.

The government had earlier been accused of failing to properly assess proposals for mechanical clearing of Eurasian milfoil by diving engineer Wes Maggs of Burnaby.

Karl Marsden, provincial biologist, said that an acre could be cleared in five minutes for $50 using chemical methods, while mechanical methods took three weeks and cost from $2,000 to $3,000 an acre.

Wadcutter Bullets Okayed For Vancouver Policemen

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council gave its approval for the use of the controversial semi-wadcutter ammunition by the Vancouver police force Tuesday when it left the decision up to the B.C. Police Commission.

The commission earlier recommended that the ammunition become standard issue for municipal police forces throughout the province.

Council was told the commission does not consider the semi-wadcutter a "dum-dum" bullet. The ammunition would also reduce the chance of ricocheting bullets because they would not pass through target bodies, aldermen were told.

$58,000 Facelift

The Prince Rupert court house will get a $58,000 facelift this summer.

Public Works Minister Alex Fraser announced Tuesday that L and M Painting and Decorating Ltd. of Burnaby, has been awarded the contract to sandblast and waterproof exterior masonary on the three-storey structure.

Talks to Resume

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Don Specht, vice-president of Bethlehem Copper Mines of Ashcroft said Wednesday that contract negotiations between the company and the Canadian Association of Industrial, Mechanical and Allied Workers, Local 8 will resume July 25.

2 Escape Crash

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two persons escaped serious injury Wednesday after their light plane crashed near Westham Island on the South Arm of the Fraser River. Search and rescue officials said they were pulled from the water minutes after the crash by people aboard a nearby pleasure craft.

Jobless Up—Union

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union officials say that recent closure of two fish-processing plants has left many persons unemployed, but several industry managers say jobs are available.

Jack Nichol, president of the United Fish and Allied Workers Union, said Wednesday that the closures of the Queen Charlotte and Bingham fisheries plants have cost nearly 100 permanent and 900 seasonal jobs.

Officials at several Vancouver area fisheries plants said, however, they have already hired at least 20 of ehe affected skilled workers.

Fit for Trial

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Anthony Keith Hillman, 22, charged with second-degree murder in the strangulation death of Matthew James Smith, 6, was found fit Wednesday to stand trial. Preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 26.

The boy, from Burnaby, had been a house guest at the home of Hillman's parents where Hillman also resided.

Murder Charged

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Wynn William O'Brien, wanted for a murder here three years ago, will be returned from the United States to face the charge, says an RCMP spokesman.

Baby Boy Beluga

VANCOUVER (CP) — It's a boy!

Kavna, a beluga whale at the Vancouver Aquarium, gave birth Wednesday night to a son measuring about four feet long and weighing between 75 and 100 pounds.

Aquarium curator Gil Hewlett said that although beluga births are a rarity in captivity — only two have been recorded — the whole thing was a piece of cake for the 1,250-pound mother.

The whale went into labor at 6:30 p.m., gave birth at 9:50 p.m. and 40 minutes later mother and son were frolicking around in the aquarium tank, much to the delight of more than 30 persons who assembled to watch the delivery.

VRB Ignored Gov't Policy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm said Wednesday that the Vancouver Resources Board is being dissolved because it "has not done what the provincial government expects it to do."

Vander Zalm said that cost-savings and program efficiencies were the main reason for abolishing the board when he introduced such legislation in June.

"The board has not been following through with various policy approaches from Victoria," he said Wednesday.

"The board did not go along with the job finder program . . . they sought officers with backgrounds in social work as opposed to persons with proven ability to seek out opportunities, the type we asked for in Victoria," he said.

"We have had our differences, but it's only a minority of people making all the fuss about the VRB."

Meanwhile, Ron Fenwick, chairman of the resources board, says steps taken by the government in preparation for takeover of the VRB are hampering the board's operation.

"Already the red tape is encircling operations in Vancouver, and the legislation has not yet passed," said Fenwick.

Eye-Gouged Woman Dies From Injuries

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A 64-year-old Kitchener woman who had her eyes gouged out and suffered serious head injuries in an attack June 24 died today in hospital.

A post-mortem examination will be conducted to determine the exact cause of death.

William Moir, 24, of Kitchener, charged with attempted murder in connection with the attack, is in Oak Ridges mental hospital in Penetanguishene for psychiatric observation and treatment.

Public Announcement

Ottawa, July 5, 1977

AMENDMENT TO THE CRTC RULES OF PROCEDURE

Following its Public Announcement of March 10, 1977, the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission, on the recommendation of the Executive Committee and pursuant to section 21 of the Broadcasting Act, hereby amends its Rules of Procedure, effective June 28, 1977, as follows:

1. Applications will be made public and scheduled for a public hearing at least 50 days (instead of 35) before the hearing.
2. Four announcements (instead of two) will be made by the licensee outlining its application.
3. Only one copy of any intervention will be required by the Commission.
4. Interventions will have to be filed at least 20 days (instead of 15) before the commencement of the public hearing.
5. Documents will be deemed to have been served on the 4th day (instead of the 3rd) following the day of mailing if sent by registered mail.

Copies of this Public Announcement are available at the CRTC office, 100 Metcalfe Street, Room 1601, Ottawa, Ontario, the Vancouver Regional Office, Room 1860, Daon Building, 1050 West Pender Street, Vancouver, British Columbia, and the Montreal Regional Office, Suite 2114, 800 Victoria Place, Montreal, Quebec.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A 25-year-old man who gave himself up to Victoria city police over the weekend was denied bail Wednesday in provincial court on a charge of robbery with violence.

Ronald Piette, no fixed address, was charged in connection with an incident last January in Halifax involving a taxi driver who was attacked and robbed of $89.

Crown counsel Nicholas Lang asked Judge Fred Green to remand Piette until next Tuesday to await the transfer of the charge from Nova Scotia. Green turned down an application for release in the interim despite the argument that Piette voluntarily surrendered to police.

Bail was also denied a 31-year-old Victoria man charged with the Wednesday morning break-in of a drug store.

John Nelson Fleming, 163 Olive, was charged with breaking and entering after Victoria city police arrested him near Owl Drugs, 742 Fort Street. Fleming was also charged with possession of stolen property.

He was remanded in custody until next Wednesday for election of trial method.

Green ordered a presentence report for a 29-year-old woman who pleaded guilty to theft over $200 and three counts of false pretences.

Michele Elaine Baker, 3868 Shelbourne, was remanded until Aug. 12 for sentence.

Court was told she was a secretary and bookkeeper for Charman Pacific Realty, 608 Broughton, and that, between April 1 and June 28 of this year, she took more than $2,000 in cash from the company's vault. Evidence submitted by the realty firm indicated there was $3,146.21 missing.

Lang also said that the woman issued three cheques, which totalled $131.28, which came back marked not sufficient funds.

An 18-year-old who police said was travelling at better than 100 miles an hour on his motorcycle was fined $350 after pleading guilty to dangerous driving.

Jay Anthony Mattingsley, 1119 Princess, pleaded guilty but could offer no reason for his action when asked by the judge why he did it.

Lang said that Mattingsley was checked by radar at about 10:45 p.m. July 2 and was clocked at 54 miles an hour at that time. When police tried to stop him at a red light at Douglas and Bay streets, court was told, he made an illegal left turn against the light and the chase began. Officers said they were travelling at 100 and losing ground on Bay Street.

Police radioed ahead and another unit finally stopped Mattingsley along Quadra, Lang said.

Green took a dim view of an 18-year-old who was caught with marijuana in his possession while doing weekend community service work at the Metchosin prison camp.

Jarvis Clarence Evans, 959 Balmoral, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and court was told he was caught with about a quarter-ounce of marijuana June 17.

Evans was given a suspended sentence and placed on eight months' probation March 18 for theft over $200, and part of the conditions of his probation was to perform some community service work.

Court was also told by Crown counsel William Southward that Evans was fined $50 April 6 for causing a disturbance.

Poverty Village Beer Man Has Become a Millionaire

WINNIPEG (CP) — Those involved in selling liquor in Labrador are no better than heroin pushers because alcohol literally is destroying the lives of native people and settlers, a researcher said Wednesday.

Alan Pallett said the situation has got to the point that the Eskimo proprietor of a beer store in the Labrador village of Hopedale was able to buy a cabin cruiser on the money he got from returning empty beer bottles. The community has 160 people of drinking age.

Pallett works for the International Grenfell Association, which runs northern hospitals for the Newfoundland government.

He said most of the people of Hopedale are on some sort of social assistance — such as welfare or unemployment insurance.

But, he said the proprietor of the beer store openly acknowledges that he has become a millionaire, and government statistics show enough alcohol was sold in the community last year to keep every man, woman and child drunk every day of the year.

Pallett, who presented a paper on the situation at the 12th annual conference of the Canadian Foundation on Alcohol and Drug Dependencies (CFADD), said the Newfoundland government must begin to control the availability of alcohol.

He said between 1974 and 1976 beer consumption alone in Labrador soared to 600,000 gallons from 250,000 gallons. There are about 30,000 people in Labrador, he said.

Pallett said because the federal government has to force the Newfoundland government to take a hard look at its alcohol policies.

He said because the federal government foots a large portion of the bill for the consequences of alcohol — related problems seen in the health, police, judicial and the penitentiary systems, the Newfoundland government has been largely left off the hook.

Pallett said in the short run a massive publicity campoign is needed to counteract alcohol advertising, educating the Labrador people about the problems alcohol can bring.

"I'm not saying no more drinking, I'm only saying let's start to push moderation." Pallett, who has been involved in alcohol treatment programs in Labrador for more than two years, says such programs have a hard time getting money from the province because many politicians have a vested interest in alcohol.

METHADONE BACKLASH CITED BY DOCTOR

WINNIPEG (CP) — Methadone maintenance treatment for drug addicts is experiencing a crisis which may prove beneficial in the long run, the Canadian Addictions Foundation was told Wednesday.

Dr. Nady el-Guebaly, head of psychiatry at St. Boniface Hospital in Winnipeg, said the treatment was launched experimentally in 1965 in the United States and was considered a panacea by the early 1970s.

He said the treatment now is experiencing "a disenchanted backlash . . . being unable to live up to the initial expectation."

Dr. el-Guebaly said when politicians and others seized on methadone as the answer to the heroin addict's problems, there was a movement that put about 80,000 addicts on methadone programs in North America.

But by 1976, reports showed "dwindling populations of consumers, decreased retention rates, lower over-all effectiveness and some insurmountable shortcomings," the physician said.

Build Ships Not Planes: McKinnon

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Barney Danson and Allan McKinnon, the Progressive Conservative defence critic, are in almost total disagreement on how and when the next major military expenditure should be made.

McKinnon, MP for Victoria, says the government should change its spending priorities to concentrate more on new ships than on new planes.

He says government plans to acquire a new fighter plane — for more than $2 billion — are questionable after recent decisions by the U.S. indicating manned bombers are on the way out.

He said in an interview that the government does not know why it wants the new aircraft but that it does know it must replace aging navy destroyers.

Danson said he does not agree that the manned bomber is no longer a threat to North America. He cited the Soviet Union's long-range backfire bomber.

At any rate, North American defence aircraft also are needed for control of Canadian air space, he said. Soviets were always probing the fringes of that space with civilian as well as military aircraft. Without interceptors they would start chinking away at Canadian sovereignty.

IMMIGRANT SPONSOR BONDING SUGGESTED

OTTAWA (CP) — People or organizations who pledge assistance to immigrants who otherwise might not be allowed to enter Canada may have to post bond with the government under a provision approved Wednesday by the Commons immigration committee.

Jack Manion, deputy minister of immigration, said the provision is needed to enforce commitments made by those who offer lodging or other assistance to immigrants who are admitted conditionally.

Refugees not covered by official refugee status but admitted on compassionate grounds would be among the classes covered by the provision, contained in an amendment to the government's overhaul of the Immigration Act.

Manion said people or groups who undertake to assist immigrants have to be held accountable. Such undertakings now are not legally enforceable.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto-Greenwood) said the requirement to post cash bonds or arrange security through a bonding company would pose an added burden on churches and other benevolent organizations helping immigrants enter the country.

He said it is unbecoming for the government to fleece those carrying out a humanitarian task.

$2B Carrot Dangled To Gov't by Grumman

WASHINGTON (CP) — Grumman Corp. officials said today they are preparing a proposal for the Canadian government that would bring Canada $1 billion to $2 billion in new manufacturing business.

The huge investment package would partially offset the even larger cost involved if Canada decides to buy Grumman's F-14 Tomcat to replace its aging jet fighters. The investment would be conditional on Canadian purchase of the F-14.

In interviews and at a news conference, Grumman officials said they believe the F-14 and its ultra-sophisticated Phoenix missile system is the best combat aircraft among those being considered by Canada.

Their stated goal is to satisfy the Canadian government that the expensive airplane is also Canada's best choice on economic grounds and particularly to meet competition in this regard from the McDonnell-Douglas F-15 Eagle. McDonnell-Douglas has a Canadian plant that might be given more work if Canada chooses the Eagle.

Grumman president Joseph Gavin said his company will propose arrangements under which 80 per cent of the F-14 purchase cost would return to Canada in other forms.

Sandy Jones, vice-president for public affairs, explained that the new business for Canada would be not just military work, but also civilian products. Grumman is involved in making solar heating devices, emergency vehicles, yachts and light civilian aircraft.

Jones said the proposed Canadian manufacturing would be not only subcontract work for U.S. manufacturers, but largely production of complete goods so that the Canadian plants would not be "wards of the United States."

The Grumman proposal has to be completed within six months to meet the Canadian defence department's deadline.

The aircraft purchase would be the biggest such contract made by Canada in peacetime. The defence department is looking for a multi-purpose aircraft that can replace the CF-101 Voodoo interceptor and CF-104 and CF-5 ground-support aircraft.

Grumman officials said Canada is interested in 120 to 140 aircraft. The purchase could range from $1.5 billion to $2.7 billion, depending on quantity and cost basis.

N-SALE NOT SET, JAMIESON CLAIMS

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson, accused by opposition critics of changing Canadian nuclear policy, stressed on Wednesday that Canada has not yet agreed to resume uranium shipments to West Germany and the rest of Europe.

Faced with a barrage of Progressive Conservative questions in the Commons following optimistic statements by West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt Tuesday, the minister said Canada has only agreed to put a new proposition before negotiators.

Meanwhile, one of the Conservatives, Flora MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands), accused the government of an "absolute sellout" in even contemplating resuming shipments to Europe without retaining a power of veto.

He said Prime Minister Trudeau had agreed to consider nuclear shipments on an interim and limited basis during an international study—about two years — into nuclear reprocessing and fast-breeder reactors, both of which are controversial and supported by Europeans.

Jamieson told Clark, Miss MacDonald, James Gillies Don Mills and Allan Laurence — Northumberland - Durham: — Canada has not changed its policy but only agreed to put the question of interim shipments to Canadian and European Economic Community (EEC) negotiators who are seeking a nuclear safeguard agreement.

—Negotiations could be concluded in two or three months, which is longer than the prediction of Schmidt that there could be a successful conclusion by the end of the summer.

—Interim shipments, which would provide for "consultation" on the use of Canadian material by Europeans, could only be started after a number of elements had been decided. These include the fact that Canadian material could not be trans-shipped through Germany for use by France in nuclear weapons.

Schreyer Call Clears The Air

WINNIPEG (CP) — An exchange of telephone calls between the offices of Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Ed Schreyer may have cleared the federal-provincial air over whether the Manitoba premier broke a confidence.

Rene Chartier, an aide to Schreyer, said that as a result of the calls, he believes the prime minister's office is satisfied that there has been no breach of confidence.

Trudeau's office made an initial call and the premier's office Called Ottawa several times; chartier said.

Trudeau was out of Ottawa Wednesday and Schreyer is on a canoe trip in northern Manitoba.

Some reports from Ottawa Tuesday said that in an exchange with federal NDP leader Ed Broadbent Trudeau "angrily" suggested Schreyer had broken a confidence by releasing contents of a letter containing information on a new federal job creation program.

WORKERS WANT TO LEAVE

MONTREAL (CP) — About 1,000 Air Canada employees are trying to convince the airline to move its headquarters and major overhaul facility out of Quebec.

"We're trying to protect our rights as Canadians and as Air Canada employees within Quebec and within the company itself," said Pat Carey, president of the Canadian Aviation Fellowship, the 1,000-member employee association set up six months ago.

"We've asked the company to decentralize out of Quebec and we'll keep on asking," Carey said Wednesday.

He said membership in the group includes workers in maintenance and customer service as well as flight attendants, pilots, office workers and some in management.

But the list is confidential to protect members from management reprisals, he added.

Trustees Defiant

MONTREAL (CP) — Although it risks losing $1 million in subsidies, the city's Lakeshore School Board says it will defy the PQ government's revised language legislation by providing English-language schooling to the 1,100 pupils it registered last March.

"Let the government be damned," board chairman Gerald Hopkins said. "We are not going to sit here and let the PQ or any other government destroy a perfectly good school system."

The government has threatened to cut subsidies to the Lakeshore and Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal if those boards continue to disregard regulation requirements linked with the language bill.

Report Pushes French Rights . . . Even Outside of Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — A special report prepared for the secretary of state department concurs with recommendations of French-speaking groups outside Quebec that the federal government must accelerate action to prevent their assimilation into the English-speaking majority.

Among the recommendations in the report written by Ottawa sociologist Rene-Jean Ravault is a suggestion that a permanent federal body be established "to contribute in the most effective way possible to the development of the French-speaking communities outside Quebec."

The federal government earlier announced formation of a temporary interdepartmental study group to investigate complaints from the Federation des Francophones Hors Quebec (French-Canadians outside Quebec) that a lack of educational, cultural and governmental services in French would soon result in French being spoken only in Quebec.

The federation has been especially critical of the secretary of state's division for language minority groups because of alleged inactivity in protecting the language rights of the one million French-Canadians outside Quebec.

The Canadian Press obtained a copy of the report although it was not designed for public consumption.

Many of Ravault's suggestions to reverse the tide of assimilation also concur with recent pronouncements of Prime Minister Trudeau, who says English-Canadians must be more accommodating towards their French-Canadian neighbors.

For Trudeau, a willingness by English-Canadians to move over and share political and economic power with French-Canadians is essential to national unity.

Ravault, a professor at St. Paul University, says the federal government must intervene more in provincial affairs to ensure that adequate facilities, especially schools, are provided to French-speaking communities.

Ravault lamented in the 500-page report that assimilation of French-Canadians is augmented by the continuing disappearance of French-language newspapers and broadcast outlets.

French-language news media often die because local English-Canadian businessmen restrict their advertising to English-language media, he said.

Ravault suggested that English-language news media should show a greater awareness of the French-Canadians in their midst.

PEPIN LONE QUEBECER

OTTAWA (FP) — The task force on Canadian unity is still without a Quebec commissioner as it begins its work of promoting national togetherness.

The absence of the Quebec delegate was highly conspicuous Wednesday as co-chairmen Jean-Luc Pepin and John Robarts introduced commissioners from all the other regions.

That leaves Pepin as the only francophone and the only fluently bilingual member of a panel that must have a credible Quebec commissioner if it is to have much impact on francophone opinionn.

Kennedy Probe Resumes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyers for Irish nationalist Jim Kennedy said they were shocked Wednesday to learn that an immigration inquiry probing Kennedy's status will resume today at the Lower Mainland Regional Correctional Centre.

Lawyer John Taylor said the move represents a major change in pace by the authorities since they adjourned the inquiry Tuesday for an indefinite period. The adjournment came because of Kennedy's refusal to attend and because of Taylor's request for a postponement until after a July 19 federal court hearing to determine whether the immigration department has treated Kennedy fairly.

Kennedy has been held since May 27 as immigration authorities check supsicions that he is IRA activist Joseph McCann and to determine whether he should be deported.

Meanwhile, MP Bill Clarke (PC — Vancouver - Burrard) said Wednesday he intends to make a "concerted effort" in the House of Commons today to determine why Kennedy has been held while no charge has been laid against him. Clarke said an additional concern is that a permit allowing Kennedy's wife to stay in Canada expires July 28.

Meanwhile, an RCMP criminal intelligence officer said the force is not aware of any gun-running between Canada and Northern Ireland.

Lew Dempsey described as "ancient history" reports of arms shipments between Toronto and Ulster, noting that the last known gun-running activity occurred more than two years ago.

He said the RCMP has "absolutely no evidence whatsoever" of any gun-running from the Vancouver area.

CITY MAY FORCE DESIGN CHANGE

Victoria city council may be able to force the developers of the controversial Rohani Building to change the design.

Amendments to the Municipal Act now being considered by the legislature will give municipalities control over building design in certain areas for the first time, Ald. Bob Wright said Tuesday.

The city would be able to create special development areas where it would have control over design, perhaps as early as the end of this year, he said.

If work does not start on the Rohani building right away, and if the city is permitted to declare the 700-block Fort a special development area, there is a chance council could force Assiz Rohani to change the design of his building.

But Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis has made it clear he won't tolerate abuse of the legislation. It's likely the minister wouldn't agree to the establishment of a special area if the sole purpose was to prevent construction of a building.

Wright said areas that might be included under the system would include the Inner Harbor, Old Town and the legislative precinct.

Look Hard For This Oil Spill

Supertanker fear has made Victoria area residents super oil-spill conscious.

The underground oil tank at an Oak Bay home sprung a leak and some of the heating oil found its way into a surface drain which took it down to the Oak Bay foreshore on Tuesday.

Then the switchboard at the Oak Bay police station began to light up with reports of an oil spill in the harbor.

But police spokesman said only a slight bit of scum got carried down. "If you looked carefully at the right angle, you codld see the (oil) rainbow on the surface."

Eats and Eats, But He Never Gains an Ounce

TORONTO (CP) — Brad Delaney of Toronto should be the envy of calorie-counting weight-watchers everywhere.

The 20-year-old carpenter has a rare metabolism that enables him to keep on eating without putting on an ounce of flab.

"Brad's appetite is simply phenomenal," say his boss Harry Cherry.

"There may be guys in this city who can eat more at one meal, but I doubt if there is anyone who gets through more food in one day," he said.

Delaney, who is 5-foot 10 and weighs 175 pounds, said recently he spends at least half his pay on food.

On a typical day he starts with a breakfast of orange juice, bacon and three eggs, four sausages, three or four waffles, toast and a quart of milk.

Lunch — his big meal — is completed in three phases.

"I bring five or six sandwiches with me from home. Then I have a second course from the mobile canteen that calls here (at work). Usually it is roast beef with all the trimmings, followed by a couple of apple pies.

"If I'm still hungry — and most days I am — I walk over to Swiss Chalet and eat a whole chicken. There are times when even this doesn't satisfy me and I'll call in at Harvey's for a couple of hamburgers."

By four in the afternoon he is often feeling a little hungry. Two more apple pies and a few apples help him through to family meal time at home.

But first a pre-dinner snack of a couple of sandwiches and a glass of milk. Then he has a couple of helpings of the evening meal, three slices of bread and three portions of dessert.

Around 10 p.m. he calls it a day with a pizza, a hamburger or a submarine sandwich followed by a glass of milk.

Apart from his metabolism, Delaney said he believes a reason he avoids getting fat from such intake is that he works hard and works out even harder.

Weightlifting, swimming and karate, he said, keep him in tip-top condition and burn up the surplus calories.

VITAMIN A FOODS OFFER INFECTION PROTECTION

Nutrition Buyline

QUESTION: What vitamin A rich foods are good buys?

ANSWER: Squash, carrots, spinach, broccoli, and when in season, cantaloupe, peaches and apricots are good buys which provide vitamin A. Dairy products, egg yolks and liver are also good vitamin A sources but may be more expensive. Everyone needs a serving of a vitamin A rich food at least every other day because it is important for normal growth, good vision, healthy skin and resistance to infection.

ANSWER: One tablespooon of peanut butter contains about four grams of protein. This means that peanut butter is approximately 25 per cent protein. To obtain the same amount of protein that is contained in a three-ounce hamburger patty, it would be necessary to eat five tablespoons of peanut butter. This much peanut butter contains about 250 calories more than the hamburger patty and is a factor to consider if you are watching your energy intake.

QUESTION: What kinds of cereals are the most nourishing as well as the most economical?

ANSWER: Whole grain, uncooked cereals are lower in cost and provide more protein, vitamins and minerals than the more expensive, highly refined, pre-sweetened cereals. Rolled oat cereal is usually the most economical whole grain cereal.

LOW CHOLESTEROL MAYONNAISE

2 medium egg whites
½ tsp. sugar
½ tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. garlic powder
¼ tsp. pepper (preferably white)
1 c. vegetable oil
2 tbsp. white (spirit) vinegar

In beater bowl beat the whites with the sugar, mustard, salt, garlic powder and pepper until quite foamy. Slowly begin to add ½ cup oil while beating on "high" in finest possible stream. You must add oil slowly or the mixture will not emulsify. Now add 1 tablespoon of the vinegar, beating. Continue adding oil, beating on "high" until oil is used, then beat in last tablespoon vinegar. Turn into covered jar and keep refrigerated. This mayonnaise thickens more on chilling and is excellent whether our cholesterol level is too high or not.

Thirst Quenchers for Dieters

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Summer is our thirsty season — the time when we drink more and eat less, because we're exercising more, we're perspiring more, and a hearty meal on a hot day just doesn't seem appealing. For this reason, summer's a great time to lose weight — provided you realize that what you drink can make or break your diet.

During any season, you should consume six to eight cups of fluids a day. But when it's hot and humid, it's not unusual to drink twice that much, especially if you are physically active and your body needs to replace fluids lost through perspiration. So what you drink obviously is a big part of your day's caloric intake — part that is often overlooked, especially by those who insist that they "never eat a thing, but still can't lose weight."

When a person is thirsty, he tends to gulp down large quantities of whatever happens to be handy. If this is good old-fashioned water, he will quench his thirst without consuming a single calorie. But if it's cola or a sweetened fruit drink, an alcoholic beverage or a sugary concoction made from a powdered mix, he can consume several hundred calories without even realizing it.

Here's a guide to sensible summer drinking plus some thirst quenchers that are calorie-saving and nutritious.

WATER. This is the only beverage that does not contain a single calorie, but it doesn't rank very high on the average American's list of favorite drinks. To encourage your family to drink water instead of sodas or other empty-calorie drinks, try renting a water cooler or set a spigoted insulated water jug on the kitchen counter. Bottled water often tastes better than tap water does, and when you're not using the jug for water, you can fill it with diluted fruit juice, iced mint tea or homemade (low-sugar) lemon or limeade.

JUICES. Juices are better thirst-quenchers than sodas are, and they're low in calories and high in nutrition. Unsweetened grapefruit and tomato juices have only 70 and 50 calories per cup respectively — and they satisfy thirst because neither leaves a sweet aftertaste. Pure orange juice contains about 110 calories per cup. If it is the canned, sweetened variety, however, it has 135 calories. Juices can also be diluted; you could use five or six cans of water instead of three in mixing frozen orange juice.

Lemonade and limeade made from frozen concentrates are high in calories — 885 per 6-ounce can — but if you make your own, you can reduce the calories by cutting or eliminating the amount of sugar. The juice of one lemon contains about 50 calories, and each tablespoon of sugar adds another 50. But if you use mint and just a scant teaspoon of sugar, you will have a refreshing drink that is loaded with vitamin C and contains only 70 calories — less than half of what you'd get in a 12-ounce bottle of regular cola.

Blends of fruits juices are also good for wooing youngsters (and adults) away from soda pop and high-sugar powdered drink mixes. Try instead a small amount of cranberry juice added to unsweetened pineapple, grape or orange juice, and diluted with club soda. It will give youngsters a bubbly drink that is far more nutritious than soda is.

COLD SOUPS. A summer meal can be build around a refreshing cold soup, such as a gazpacho loaded with fresh chopped vegetables or a soup made with buttermilk, shrimp, chopped cucumbers and scallions. Condensed consomme blended with yogurt and served at once or chilled until jellied is a low-calorie (106 per cup serving) and nutritious first course to a summer dinner. It's also an ideal pick-me-up snack.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES. Many people tend to forget the calories in alcoholic drinks, but a jigger (one and a half ounces) of any 86 proof liquor (gin, rum, Scotch, vodka, etc.) contains about 110 calories, and all mixes, except water or club soda, add still more. An 8-ounce glass of quinine water, for instance, has 88 calories, and bitter orange or lemon adds 125. Twelve ounces of beer contain about 170 calories, compared to about 75 in a four-ounce glass of red wine. And cocktails made with sweet liqueurs, such as brandy Alexanders or grasshoppers, contain 300 or more calories.

All this is not meant to discourage you from consuming plenty of fluids during hot summer days. Indeed, it's important to your health that you get enough fluids to drink. But if you're watching your weight, don't forget that calories come in liquid form, too. And if you select low-calorie but highly nutritious drinks, you can come up with your own sensible "drinking man's diet!"

Tattoo A Bummer

DEAR ABBY: When Lenny came home from a convention trip, I thought he acted kind of funny. It was two weeks before I found out why. It seems a bunch of the guys went out one night and got tattooed. Well, Lenny had a pair of red lips tattooed on his behind. (He said he asked for a rose, but the artist gave him the lips.)

Lenny says he is sorry, and he wears a large band-aid over it so it won't make me mad everytime I see it. Is there any way to get that tattoo off his behind?

LENNY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. Lenny should see a dermatologist (skin specialist).

DEAR ABBY: My mother is the moodiest person on earth. She can wake up feeling fine, and then if anyone does one thing wrong, she's mad for the day. I am 16 years old, and I am sick and tired of her actions. So are my brothers and sisters.

I realize that some women have a difficult time when they reach 40, but enough is enough. Can you please give me some advice on how to get along with her? (Thank you.)

SHERI

DEAR SHERI: Yes. Just for one day, refrain from doing any of the things you know will irritate her. And try to do all the things you know will please her, such as: cleaning your room; limiting your telephone conversations; keeping the radio and TV low; desisting from complaints about what you don't have or can't do; remaining silent when you'd like to talk back or argue; and keeping the peace with your brothers and sisters. You will then find that living with mother is so much more enjoyable, you'll think you're in the wrong house. (You're welcome.)

DEAR ABBY: My children are just average, but they are good kids. I have no outstanding beauties among my daughters, and while they do have friends, none of them is wildly popular. My sons are average students, just fair in sports, but none of them ever made the team.

A relative of mine has outstanding children. They are popular, good looking and get lots of honors — and he doesn't let me forget it for a moment. What can I say when he collars me and brags on and on about his kids?

SLOW BURN

DEAR SLOW: Nothing. Just because a jackass brays doesn't mean you have to answer him.

DEAR ABBY: I clipped and saved the above from your column because I felt exactly the way CONTENT felt, and I applauded your answer.

I am a woman in my 50s, married 25 years, and I have a happy home and family life with my husband and three college-age children.

Knowing that a 36-year-old woman also felt that sex isn't worth the trouble gave me a great deal of comfort. So much emphasis is placed on sex these days that one gets the feeling that it is the ultimate in a relationship, and that love, understanding and affection are not enough.

How about running a survey, Abby? It would be interesting to find out how many women (and men) feel that sex is not really worth the trouble. Let's hear it from . . . THE AFFECTIONATE SILENT MAJORITY

DEAR SILENT: Were I to ask my readers for responses to the question of how men and women feel about the importance of sex, the results would not be conclusive because: (A) those who readily volunteer information about their sex lives tend to be exhibitionists and therefore not typical; (b) I suspect that people lie about their sex lives more than any other subject.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WRONG SIDE OF THE TRACKS." If after all these years her parents refuse to accept you, quit trying. It would be easier to move the tracks.

Booklet Explains Rape Reality

Author Lesley Watson

It's off the press! . . . the common sense booklet toward an understanding of rape that the Greater Victoria School Board gave high marks to recently and passed for reading by its Grades 9 to 12 students.

Eight thousand copies were run off in the first printing. That's all Victoria Rape Relief Society could handle with the small Local Initiatives Program grant it held for this purpose.

"Actually we need 12,000 copies to cover the Greater Victoria high schools," says Lesley Watson, one of five authors of the booklet, "and now the Saanich School Board giving consent to it going into their schools mean we will need many more."

On top of that there are requests for copies coming in to the Rape Relief Centre by letter, telephone and in person. "These we are also trying to fill."

Hopefully she sees individuals and organizations concerned over the increasing incidence of rape, coming forward with help to print more copies.

"Donations are certainly needed . . . we are respectfully asking . . . somehow, some way, we must find means to run off those booklets."

There has been favorable re-action from everyone who has read it.

"We tried very hard to present exactly what we wanted to say without spoiling the credibility or appearing to talk down to those we hope to reach," Lesley says.

Every word was gone over several times. Sentences were discussed, written and re-written.

Result? "We have something easily understood without going to a lawyer, a doctor or a policeman to find out what it actually means."

The booklet is divided into six parts, with an introduction as opener and a reference section at the end.

In between you have myths and realities, self defence, what to do if raped and what are rape centres.

Under sub-heads you find what do you really know about rape, understanding the plot, popular misconceptions about rape and the reality of rape and assault.

Different kinds of attackers are described and different ways and different places in which the crime is committed.

Medical, emotional and legal concerns are set out, also hospital procedures and the correct form of reporting the crime.

Idea for this long-needed booklet came a year ago when Lesley Watson arrived here from Nova Scotia and joined the Rape Relief Centre as a volunteer.

Because of her own experiences as a high school student back in Halifax and later, through problems she encountered and solutions found while working at the Women's Centre there, she was determined to go into the schools and talk to students in words they could understand.

In between these assignments Lesley took on the task of co-ordinating a tremendous amount of material on rape that, because of lack of time and staff, was scattered through many files at the Rape Relief Centre.

"Finally I had a comprehensive collection showing what had been done and what needed to be done," she tells you.

In that collection there were booklets, pamphlets and written material "but nothing really for the high schools here."

With this in mind, the Rape Relief Centre applied for a LIP grant to prepare such a booklet.

"That was last November," Lesley recalls. "The grant came through in January and we immediately started to work . . . Jeanne Bealy, Liz Cullen, Ginger Gilcrease, Rowena Hunnisett and myself."

Each one of these young women took a section of the booklet to write. They consulted police, hospital emergency services, a woman lawyer and some high school students . . . and they worked around the clock.

When the booklet was ready they showed it to the Greater Victoria School Board with a request that it be approved for its high schools.

After careful study the school board did approve distribution to boys and girls in grades 8 and 9, with parental consent and to any boy or girl in Grades 10, 11 and 12, who wished to read it.

Boys! Yes, indeed, Lesley says. "Boys need to know the facts as well as girls and there are sections in the booklet just as educational for them as for girls."

Here she pointed to a subhead titled What Men Can Do To Prevent Rape and added "it has always been assumed that rape is a girl-woman problem, but really it is a social problem."

She also quoted from the booklet's introduction that reads: "Rape is a crime of violence in our society. It remains shrouded in secrecy, provoked by our feelings of fear, guilt and inadequate concepts of sexual roles.

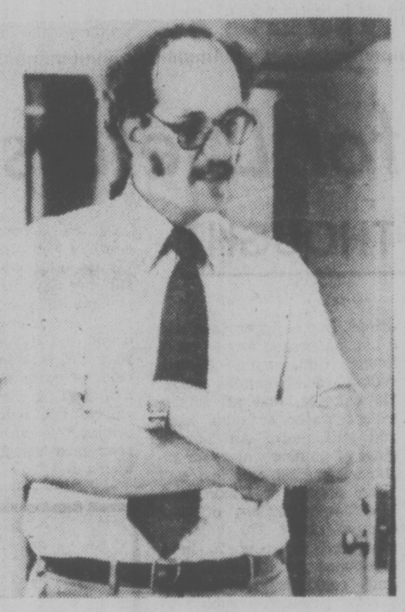
"To discuss rape, our approach must be co-operative and must have the understanding and goodwill of all men as well as women."

It is toward this goal that the handbook has been written.

Donations to help print more of these booklets will be accepted at the Rape Relief Centre on Cook Street or may be given direct to a Rape Booklet account in the Bank of British Columbia at Douglas and Johnson Street.

Any amount, small or large, will be most gratefully received, Lesley says.

Weighty Problem Ends After Stomach Surgery



CHIVERS . . . seven years later

MONTREAL (CP) — Bill Chivers can stand with both feet in one leg of a pair of pants which fitted him seven years ago.

The 28-year-old Montreal insurance agent lost 175 pounds in about a year, and he did it without any special diet or exercise program.

The large weight loss was achieved when Chivers — a hefty 425-pounder at the time — underwent an intestinal bypass operation which cut the absorptive surface of his bowel to 20 inches from 20 feet.

Now weighing in at 260 pounds, the six-foot, three-inch Montrealer says he is "healthier than I ever was" and has "absolutely no regrets" that he had the sometimes hazardous operation performed by surgeons at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

"I was a fat boy ever since I can remember," Chivers recalled in an interview.

"I always used to dream that somewhere there would come a good fairy who would tell me how to lose weight without going on a diet."

A Royal Victoria surgeon warned him that a few people had died of the surgery and told Chivers to think it over for a month.

But Chivers, a self-confessed addict to sweet, fried and other fattening foods, decided to go through with the operation.

After 2½ weeks of tests, including psychological tests, Chivers underwent the relatively uncomplicated surgery, which is reversible in case of severe complications.

Chivers' surgeon, who asked to remain anonymous for fear of being flooded by inquiries, said only one of the 80-odd patients who have had the operation at the Royal Victoria has died but stressed the importance of selecting patients with the utmost care.

"Intestinal bypass operations are not for everyone," the surgeon said. "They are not people who are candidates for Weight Watchers."

The Royal Victoria requires patients to be at least 100 pounds overweight and under 50 years old.

They should be free from psychiatric problems and should preferably have succeeded in their vocation despite their obesity.

Patients with addictions to substances other than fattening food, such as alcohol, are refused because of possible liver complications.

Close and regular checkups for months after the operation are an important key to its success. The Royal Victoria staff believe better supervision and a quicker reversal procedure might have prevented some of the deaths following the operation in other Canadian hospitals.

Chivers who recalls the operation's aftermath as "painful for a while," lost about 10 pounds a month for more than a year.

Six months after the initial surgery he had another operation to close a hole left for drainage. A third operation was performed a year later to remove the slack skin where his belly had been.

Diarrhea is one unpleasant effect of the bypass operation. The patient has 20 to 30 bowel movements a day at first, decreasing to three to six daily after a year.

But it has been worth it for Chivers, who says his new appearance and sense of well-being has made his work as a life-insurance agent easier.

He still has no girl-friend — a major complaint from his 425-pound days. "But now it isn't because I'm fat. Instead of no hope of ever having one, there is hope."

DEEP PEACH PIE

3½ pounds fresh peaches
Lemon juice
¼ cup all-purpose flour
1 cup light brown sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ teaspoon almond extract
Pastry for 9-inch pie crust
1 egg yolk, beaten
2 teaspoons water
1 teaspoon sugar

Peel and slice peaches; sprinkle with lemon juice. Mix flour, brown sugar, and melted butter or margarine; combine with sliced peaches and almond extract. Place in 9-inch round, 2½-inch deep greased oven-proof bowl or casserole dish. Top with pastry; brush with egg yolk and water mixture; sprinkle with the 1 teaspoon sugar. Bake at 375 degree F. for 45 minutes, or until golden. Serve warm with pouring cream, whipped cream, sour cream, or ice-cream. Serves 8.

VARIATION:

Cook peach mixture in saucepan over low heat until thickened, stirring often. Ladle into individual serving dishes when cooled. Top each dish with whipped cream; then top each with a baked 3½-inch circle of pastry.

No Diet Can Reverse a Hernia

your health

By LESTER COLEMAN, M.D.

Is there any special diet that can cure hiatus hernia? — MR. A.M., N.J.

DEAR MR. M.: There is no diet that can change or cure a hiatus hernia. Once this anatomical change has occurred, it can no longer be reversed.

A hiatus hernia, also known as a "diaphragmatic" hernia, is a weakening and bulging of the wall of the esophagus, the tube through which food passes from the mouth to the stomach.

The weakened site is at the point where the esophagus passes through a normal hole in the diaphragm to join up with the stomach. It's a condition that's frequently seen in middle-aged people, particularly those that are overweight.

Diets are directed at making the hiatus hernia patient comfortable, even though the diet does not affect the hernia itself. The most important part of the diet is to avoid overloading the stomach at meal times. Instead, smaller quantities of food at more frequent intervals will prevent the distressing sensation of bloating and fullness.

Try to avoid fried, fatty foods. Liquor and wine should be taken in extreme moderation. Antacids, taken about half an hour after eating, can reduce the heartburn.

Not all cases of hiatus hernia are identical. Each individual case must be carefully evaluated for the special attention it may need.

Our 6-year-old son reads some words backwards. Words like "was" he reads as "saw". Will he outgrow this? — MRS. W.H., Va.

DEAR MRS. H.: I would not wait for this condition to be remedied by time. It would be much wiser to consult an eye specialist to first find out if there is any eye condition that needs correcting. He will then undoubtedly refer you to one of a group of specialists who are particularly interested in a condition known as "dyslexia."

This is a broad term which includes reading and writing disorders. There are many excellent tests which, in addition to neurological and psychological examinations, can pinpoint the reason for your son's image reversal.

With proper re-education and training devices many of these problems can be corrected. Far too many children who are considered slow learners or poor students are often found to be suffering from an overlooked variation of dyslexia.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're about to get our first puppy, and I'm hearing about all this training-to-paper business. It seems to me that's just a lot of extra work. First you train them to newspaper in the house, then you have to turn around and train them not to use a newspaper, but to use the great outdoors. What's the sense. Why shouldn't I start right out training my puppy to go out in the first place and save all this messing around with the paper business—M.-G.

DEAR M.G.: Paper-training puppies makes sense if the youngster hasn't had his vaccinations yet, or at least not completed them, and you don't want to expose him to other dogs, or if the weather is too miserable for him to be exposed to it — or if you're unable to maintain an adequately regular schedule so you can reasonably expect him to be quickly trained to go outdoors and be able to "hold out" indoors in between times.

The 64-page New Metropolitan Cook Book offers sample menus and recipes. These were worked out to help prevent some of the health problems which are the result of our sedentary way of life, such as overweight and excessive cholesterol in the blood. This is why the menus in this booklet call for skim milk instead of whole milk and why the number of eggs has been reduced in some of the recipes.

In addition to nutritional advice, the booklet offers a wide choice of breakfast, lunch and dinner recipes as well as desserts. You will learn, for example, that nonfat dry milk is as nourishing as fresh skim milk, that it costs only about one-third as much as fresh milk, that it costs only about one-third as much as fresh milk and that it can be stored for several months in a dry, cool place.

When discussing lunch, the authors of this booklet recommend a light lunch followed by a walk before you return to your place of work

Among the wholesome dinner dishes the booklet features are braised chicken, veal scallopini, lamb shish-kebab, Irish stew and an array of fish and seafood dishes. You will also find recipes for tasty vegetables and for light desserts such as lemon jelly roll, applesauce cake, chocolate angel cake, lemon chiffon pie, fruit whip and orange milk sherbet.

BY LYNN and JOEL RAPP

DEAR LYNN and JOEL: What exactly is vermiculite that you have mentioned in your column? Do plants grow in it rather than soil? We enjoy your column. — S. J., Miami, Fla.

Dear S. J.: Vermiculite is a mineral belonging to the mica family (mineral silicates) which has rapidly grown in acceptance as a rooting medium. When vermiculite ore is heated to about 2,000 degrees F. in processing, the moisture in it turns to steam, popping the granules to many times their original size. This produces countless tiny air cells which provide additional air — and water-holding capacity, which is an aid to germination and the development of dense root systems.

Vermiculite can hold water in amounts several times its own weight. Even when thoroughly wet, ample air circulates around plant roots, helping to avoid damping off.

Vermiculite can be used in storing bulbs and as a base for flower arrangements. It can be used to lighten and aerate heavy soils, but it's not recommended as a growing medium.

Dish Need Not Remain in Desuetude

craig claiborne

There are a few dishes — often elegant — that enjoy a certain celebrity in fine restaurants and then seem to fall into regrettable desuetude (how nice to use that word again). We thought of this one recent Sunday morning while preparing eggs en cocotte (rarely seen on restaurant menus these days) for a brunch in our home.

They are easy to make in ramekins, just as stylish as an omelet or a souffle and marvelously tasteful. Usually, they have a well-seasoned base of some sort — chicken livers in madeira sauce, a tomato sauce; or perhaps creamed chicken — to cite only a few.

The eggs are baked for about 10 minutes until the whites have become firm while the yolks remain liquid or "runny." Remember that the eggs will continue to cook from the retained heat of the ramekins when they are removed from the oven. Usually, one baked egg per guest serves as an appetizer; two always for a main course.

The ramekins, or cocottes used in all the recipes here should be about one and one half inches deep and two inches in diameter. In a pinch, small Pyrex glass cups can be used.

The traditional method of serving dishes in ramekins is to cover a small plate with a small napkin, then place the ramekin on the napkin. Serve with salad forks and small spoons.

LES OEUFS EN COCOTTE AUX TOMATES

(Eggs in ramekins with tomato sauce)

5 tablespoons (approximately) butter
⅔ cup finely chopped onion
1 cup drained canned tomatoes, preferably imported Italian plum tomatoes (it may take about two cups to yield one cup drained)
1 teaspoon finely chopped rosemary
Salt and freshly ground pepper
Tabasco sauce
12 eggs
Chopped parsley for garnish

1. Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

2. Heat two tablespoons butter in a saucepan and add the onions. Cook, stirring, until onions are wilted, about two minutes.

3. Add the tomatoes, rosemary, salt and pepper to taste. Simmer about eight minutes and add a dash of Tabasco. Swirl in two tablespoons of butter and season to taste with salt and pepper.

4. Lightly grease with remaining butter 12 ramekins or cocottes. Sprinkle the bottoms lightly with salt and pepper.

5. Spoon about two tablespoons, or slightly less of the tomato sauce in the bottom of each ramekin, but reserve a small portion to use as a garnish.

6. Break one egg into each ramekin and sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Arrange the ramekins in a baking dish and pour boiling water around them. This will keep them from baking too rapidly. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. When cooked, the whites should be firm and the yolks liquid or just starting to firm. Do not overcook.

7. Spoon a little of the remaining tomato sauce on top of each serving. Sprinkle each serving with chopped parsley. Serve two eggs to each guest along with French bread or buttered toast.

Yield: Six servings.

AUX FOIES DE VOLAILLES

(Eggs in ramekins with chicken livers)

½ pound chicken livers (4 to 6 livers)
Salt and freshly ground pepper
3 tablespoons peanut, vegetable or corn oil
3 to 4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons finely chopped shallots
4 tablespoons madeira or marsala wine
⅔ cup brown sauce or canned brown beef gravy
12 eggs.

1. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees.

2. Cut the chicken livers in half, then cut the halves into three-quarter-inch cubes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste.

3. Heat the oil in a small skillet and when it is quite hot, add the chicken livers, stirring and tossing over high heat, about 45 to 60 seconds. They must not become dry. Drain in a sieve.

4. To a small saucepan add two teaspoons of the butter. Add the shallots and cook about 30 seconds, stirring. Add the wine and brown sauce. Simmer about two minutes and add the chicken livers. Swirl in two tablespoons of butter and add salt and pepper to taste.

5. Lightly grease, with remaining butter, 12 ramekins or cocottes. Sprinkle the bottoms with salt and pepper.

6. Spoon about two tablespoons, or less, of the chicken-liver mixture into the bottom of each ramekin, but reserve a small portion to use as a garnish. Keep it warm.

7. Break one egg into each ramekin and sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Arrange the ramekins in a baking dish and pour boiling water around them. This will keep them from baking too rapidly. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. When cooked, the whites should be firm and the yolks liquid or just starting to firm. Do not overcook.

8. Spoon a little of the remaining chicken-liver mixture on top of each serving. Serve two to each guest along with French bread or buttered toast.

Yield: Six servings.

LES OEUFS EN COCOTTE A LA REINE

(Eggs in ramekins with creamed chicken)

½ chicken breast with skin and bones left intact
1 carrot, scraped and sliced
1 rib celery with leaves, sliced
1 small onion, peeled and left whole
Fresh, or canned, chicken
Salt and freshly ground pepper
4 tablespoons (approximately) butter
2 tablespoons flour
Cayenne pepper to taste
¾ cup heavy cream
¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg (or to taste)
12 eggs

1. Place the chicken breast in a small saucepan and add the carrot, celery, onion, chicken broth to cover, salt and pepper to taste. Bring to the boil and simmer partly covered about 20 minutes. Let the chicken cool in the broth.

2. Remove the chicken and reserve the broth. Remove and discard the skin and bones. Cut the chicken meat into half-inch cubes or slightly smaller. Reserve.

4. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a saucepan and stir in the flour. Add one cup of the reserved chicken broth, stirring rapidly with a wire whisk. Cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Add the cayenne pepper.

5. Heat one table spoon of butter in a skillet and add the cubed chicken, salt and pepper to taste. Cook, stirring gently, about one minute. Add the sauce and stir gently, just enough to blend. Add one-quarter cup heavy cream and nutmeg and bring just to the boil. Keep warm.

6. Lightly grease with the remaining butter 12 ramekins or cocottes. Sprinkle the bottom lightly with salt and pepper.

7. Spoon about two table spoons, or less, of the chicken sauce into the bottom of each ramekin.

8. Break one egg into each ramekin and spoon about two teaspoons of heavy cream on top of each egg. Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste.

9. Arrange the ramekins in a baking dish and pour boiling water around them. This will keep them from baking too rapidly. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. When cooked, the whites should be firm and the yolks liquid or just starting to firm. Do not overcook. Serve two to a guest along with French bread or buttered toast.

Yield: Six servings.

TV Spurs On Cooking Urge

Mary Moore

Television commercials spur me to cook instead of buy.

On the screen in a spotless oven, ready-to-cook cinnamon rolls, as if by magic, were rising and bubbling. In a split second four beautiful people were eating them.

I could not do it that fast but I could do it with ingredients on hand. The base is simply my Tea Biscuits Supreme dough.

EASY CINNAMON ROLLS WITH SUNFLOWER SEEDS

Batter:

2 c., stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
4 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. cream of tartar
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. sugar
¼ c. wheat germ (optional)
1 c. hard margarine cut up
⅔ c. milk
2 tbsp. melted butter
¼ c. brown sugar
2 tsp. cinnamon

Syrupy Base:

¼ c. melted margarine
¼ c. brown sugar
½ c. sunflower OR sesame seeds

Prepare the Syrupy Base first by blending ¼ cup margarine and ¼ cup brown sugar in 9" diameter teflon-lined pan and place over very low heat to melt. Remove when melted and blended.

To make Batter, into large bowl measure flour, baking powder, cream of tartar, salt, sugar and wheat germ. Mix with spoon. Add margarine and cut in with pastry blender until size of peas. Stir in milk until dough will hold together. Roll out on lightly floured board to 13x13" square. Spread with the 2 tablespoons melted butter. Sprinkle all over with the ¼ cup brown sugar and then sprinkle with cinnamon. Roll up like a jelly roll.

To prepared pan add sunflower or sesame seeds, sprinkling all over. Now cut roll into 12 even pieces and PRESS into glaze in pan — cut side down— and fit closely together. Bake at 425 deg. F. 13 to 14 minutes. Test the roll at centre to be sure all are baked through.

Inimediately turn over on to large serving plate and allow pan to remain over for 5 minutes then lift it off. IF any seeds stick to bottom, spoon them up and spread over hot rolls at once. Serve as soon as possible.

If you have any leftover these rolls reheat satisfactorily in the toaster oven.

Frozen Dessert

2 cups whipped cream or prepared whipped topping
½ pint dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar
Fresh peaches, sliced and sweetened

Combine whipped cream or topping with sour cream and sugar. Spread in an 8-inch square pan. Freeze. Cut frozen mixture into squares to serve; top with peaches. Serves 9.

It's Really the Only Way to Fly

Transport Minister Jack Davis said Wednesday the reason government ministries are charged so little to fly on government jets is because they are billed only for operating costs.

Davis said in a written answer to a question from Conservative leader Scott Wallace that capital costs are not charged to the individual user.

The minister's answer followed a charge earlier this week from a spokesman for a B.C. air charter company that cost figures tabled by Davis were unrealistically low.

The tabled information states that a jet flight between the Okanagan Valley and Victoria carries with it a billing of from $42 to $45.

Davis explained that previous to the present Social Credit government, individual ministries were not billed for aircraft costs, with all expenses being absorbed by the transport ministry.

"Under the new system, only operating costs are charged to individual user," he said. "They include fuel and wages paid to crew members. On the average, these worked out to 22 cents a passenger mile last year.

"Capital costs including the purchase cost of aircraft, the cost of buildings, or land, are not charged to individual users, the main reason being that the aircraft in question serve other functions which, on a priority basis or first-call basis, include mercy flights, air ambulance services, air photo surveys.

"General transport has a lower priority than the three functions listed . . and no attempt has been made therefore to allocate capital costs as between these functions.

"Including depreciation, they are simply lumped together and appear as a single capital item in the budget of the provincial secretary."

Meanwhile, Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Rafe Mair said Wednesday he has not made any unnecessary flights to his home riding here of Kamloops on a government aircraft.

Figures tabled by Davis showed Mair made 67 flights on government aircraft, 47 of them to Kamloops.

Mair said the trips were strictly for government business and there was no impropriety involved.

The cost credited to Mair for each flight was $42.

Ken Plante, a pilot with Canada Lear Jet Co., said Monday it costs about $500 an hour to operate a Citation jet. A return flight from Victoria to Kamloops would take about two hours.

'Political Hack' Post Irks Cocke

Dennis Cocke (NDP — New Westminster) Wednesday accused Health Minister Bob McClelland of appointing an executive assistant solely to do constituency work.

Cocke told the legislature during debate of McClelland's budget estimates that Caroline M. Gran is a "political hack" doing nothing more than looking after political affairs in his Langley riding.

McClelland said Gran is not working out of the Victoria office of the ministry but in Langley because she is acting as a liaison with the large number of residents in the Lower Mainland and has handled many complaints related to health care.

Cocke said Gran could do that job best in the health offices of downtown Vancouver, not in the suburbs, and it was obvious that Gran is in Langley to do political work.

Cocke said that McClelland already has a constituency secretary — just as all MLAs do — and that such secretaries are paid considerably less than the $19,500 a year executive assistants receive.

He also said McClelland has an administrative assistant in Victoria, Patrick James Rogers, who receives $19,500 a year.

Phillips to Revamp 'Exotic' Subsidizing

The B.C. government has had to change its method of subsidising railway boxcars manufactured at the Railwest plant in Squamish because its too "exotic" for federal officials.

Economic Development Minister Don Phillips announced last week the government-owned Railwest plant would tender a bid for between 200 and 600 ballast cars to be ordered soon by Canadian National and Canadian Pacific in co-operation with the federal government.

Phillips said at the time that Railwest would bid and then the provincial government would offer a subsidy to guarantee that the Railwest bid was the lowest.

But Senator Ray Perrault, one of the federal officials involved in trying to help the trouble-plagued Railwest plant, said he knows of no jurisdiction anywhere that "permits that kind of exotic bidding."

"I can imagine the howls of indignation from other companies if after opening the bids, one company would say give us a minute and we can get a subsidy to improve this," he said.

Perrault said he told Phillips earlier Wednesday the method of giving the subsidy "didn't lie well here."

Phillips said later the government will put its subsidy in with the Railwest bid when it is offered, rather than after the bids are open.

Perrault, in an interview from Ottawa, said everything possible is being done to save the jobs of the 250 workers at the Railwest plant.

Even if the company gets the 200 to 600-car order, that would only keep it going to February.

Perrault said there is a problem in trying to keep the plant open on a long-term basis because there is a vast manufacturing over-capacity for railcars in Canada.

$25,000 Fines Proposed For Conflict of Interest

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson Wednesday introduced a private members' bill which would impose fines of up to $25,000 for municipal or provincial employees involved in a conflict of interest.

The bill also provides that all public officials and employees must declare their economic interests and would prohibit them from holding any job for three years after quitting the public service, in which confidential information gained in the public sector could be used to benefit a new employer.

Gibson said in the legislature Tuesday night W. R. Paulus of Vancouver was chairman of the government-owned B.C. Housing Corp. while one of his companies was involved with the corporation in financing a 53-unit housing project at Matsqui.

Gibson said Paulus was working with the Dunhill Housing Corp., forerunner of BCHC, to keep the project going while Canterbury Mortgages, holder of a mortgage on the project and a Paulus company was trying to foreclose.

But Paulus on Wednesday denied any conflict of interest.

Mortgage money provided by Canterbury to Cedarhurst Properties Ltd. was not for the same property on which Cedarhurst was building the Matsqui housing for BCHC, said Paulus, president of Bancorp Polygon.

Paulus, who resigned as BCHC chairman last November and as a director six months ago, also said his interest in Canterbury and its successor, Bancorp, "were fully disclosed to and approved by the government."

Paulus, a major shareholder in both corporations, was neither an officer nor a director of Canterbury while he served the BCHC, he said.

Williams Hopeful For Hotel Talks

Labor Minister Allan Williams said Wednesday he is optimistic a settlement can be reached in the Hotel Vancouver strike now an industrial inquiry commissioner has been appointed.

Williams told reporters the fact that both sides agreed to the appointment of Bryan Williams, of Vancouver, to help resolve the dispute indicates a willingness to end the strike.

About 475 hotel employees have been on strike since June 9. Management closed the hotel June 24, blaming their action on increasing violence on the picket lines.

The minister said the commissioner was jointly nominated by Hilton Canada Ltd., which operates the hotel, and Local 275 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers Union.

The minister told reporters he's hopeful that a report will be filed within 10 days.

A preliminary meeting was held with both sides in the dispute Wednesday and further talks were on today.

Fire Truck Passes Twice While Man, Town Waits

THICKET PORTAGE, Man. (CP) — The mayor of Thicket Portage says a firetruck bound for this small northern Manitoban community passed by twice since June 30 on a Canadian National Railways freight train.

And during the wait — attributed to railway shipping policy — four people died in a fire July 1 in a house just across from the fire station.

Mayor Bob McCleverty says he doesn't blame the railway for the deaths because the truck was loaded only 24 hours before the fire, but says the tragedy shows the need for better freight delivery.

The community of 350 once had a 24-hour express delivery from Winnipeg, but now has to wait a minimum of eight days.

Railway policy is that a train must bypass the community as it travels north to Thompson because of the make-up of the freight cars. The train then travels south to Wabowden, passing Thicket Portage again along the way. Finally, it is brought back to Thicket Portage.

McCleverty says CN wants to eliminate the stop at Thicket Portage as quickly as possible "and to hell with the consequences" and predicts the town will likely lose the station next year.

ALTA. MOPED LAW ALLOWS YOUNG DRIVER

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta moped regulations have been altered to allow 14-year-olds to drive larger power bicycles, Solicitor-General Roy Farran announced Tuesday.

Instead of restricting large mopeds to licensed drivers 16 years of age or over, Farran said a ministerial order Monday changed regulations to reduce the age limit to 14.

The young drivers will have to obtain a valid operator's licence and pay an annual $8 moped registration fee. They must also obtain insurance.

The new regulation applies only to mopeds weighing between 75 and 121 pounds, with an engine displacement of 50 cubic centimetres and a maximum speed of 31 miles an hour.

Smaller mopeds can be driven by 12-year-olds with parental consent but without insurance or registration.

Gambling Law Tightened

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta gamblers will face tighter rules for casinos, bingos and lotteries under measures announced Wednesday by the game and control section of the attorney-general's department.

A new schedule of fees for charitable organizations staging gambling activities was also announced by Ron Sheppard, chief inspector of game and control.

The new rules, effective Nov. 1, were promised during the spring section of the legislature by Attorney-General Jim Foster. The public will be invited to make submissions until Sept. 1.

Under the new rules, no fee would be charged for licensed bingos with a prize of under $500. Casino operations would be limited to eight hours a day and only charitable organizations allowed to receive a commission on a licensed lottery.

Lottery restrictions include:

—A maximum ticket price of $1 to encourage buying and increase charity profits. The restrictions would not affect Loto Canada and the provincial lottery.

—Lottery commissions will be given only to charities and not to any individual or company.

—Senior citizens groups would be excluded from a list banning organizations using gaming revenue for social events.

Lotteries under 5,000 tickets would be free but license fees would graduate in price from $50 for 5,000 to 10,000 tickets and $1,000 for 100,000 to 2000, tickets.

Rent Loophole To Be Plugged?

CALGARY (CP) — A loophole in Alberta's rent controls allowing landlords unlimited price increases if they furnish suites may soon be plugged, spokesman for the Calgary Rent Decontrol Office said Wenesday.

Dan Osborne, southern Alberta director of the office, said in an interview more than 700 city apartment dwellers have registered complaints about rent increases for newly furnished units in the last month.

He said the increases ranging from $70 a month to $150 a month are all above the nine per cent increase allowed under the Rent Decontrol Act.

Other Alberta landlords are apparently collecting an illegal rent increase as of July 1, another rent Decontrol Board official said Wednesday in Edmonton.

Bill Barry, the board's secretary-manager, said the board has received numerous complaints and inquiries about rent increases recently.

Under the provisions of the act which took effect July 1 landlords cannot charge another increase this year if they have already raised their rents nine per cent in 1977, unless they get a special exemption.

"We have not initiated any prosecution yet, because we prefer negotiation in the first instance," Barry said.

"And in the cases that have been brought to our attention all landlords have agreed to roll back their increases.

'But the number of calls we have had indicate there could be thousands of tenants paying more rent than they need to."

$1M IN DAMAGES BY HAILSTORM

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Thousands of claims with damages amounting to more than $1 million are expected following a storm Tuesday night, said John Odnokon, Saskatchewan government insurance office manager.

The Prince Albert area was hit by what the local weather office called the worst hailstorm in 20 or 30 years.

Hailstones as large as tennis balls were reported and many trees were blown down. The rain, hail and winds as fast as 84 kilometres an hour, lasted about 15 minutes.

Windows in many public buildings, private homes and automobiles were broken and glass companies reported being swamped with orders.

Lower Yield

EDMONTON (CP) — Yields of all Alberta grain crops in 1977 are expected to be lower than in 1976, forecasts the Alberta Wheat Pool.

In its weekly crop report, the pool says preliminary yield estimates are "much lower" than in 1976.

Bennett Backs MLA Intervention

Premier Bill Bennett defended Wednesday the actions of MLAs who intervene with Crown corporations on behalf of their constituents, pointing out he does it every day.

The premier also said employees of Crown corporations, intimidated by the MLAs to the point where they are not doing their job properly, should be fired.

He said he receives 1,000 letters a day and he takes "every complaint as a legitimate complaint, and each is automatically referred to the appropriate authority.

"An MLA cannot play God, it is not up to him to decide what is or is not a legitimate complaint, but he should find out the circumstances. It is an extension of the MLA's job."

To a suggestion that requests from the premier or MLAs might intimidate the Crown corporation employees, Bennett replied that "the only one who could be at fault would be the person who bends the rules — not the MLA."

If a person bends the rules, he should be fired."

McGeer, minister responsible for ICBC, was commenting on a controversy which erupted Monday when it was learned that Social Credit backbencher George Kerster (Coquitlam) had intervened in two unsettled ICBC cases.

Bennett said Kerster was merely "working actively for many of his constituents; I do it for mine."

"On any complaint that I get, I always write a letter asking for clarification whether it's to ICBC, B.C. Hydro or any other Crown corporation.

"As an MLA, I am the advocate of my constituents, and as such I ask, I demand, clarification where they feel they have been hard done by government bureaucracy."

"If you restrict MLAs from representing the people, you are denying the people the type of advocacy and representation for which they elected their members."

U.S. Diet Change Saving Lives?

WASHINGTON (WP) — The average American's cholesterol level has dropped by 5 per cent to 10 per cent since the early 1960s and this may have helped cause a sharp drop in deaths from heart and blood vessel diseases, officials of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute said Wednesday.

Cholesterol is a fatty, waxy substance in the blood that tends to clog arteries and cause heart and blood vessel ailments. In the last 30 years there has been a vast amount of publicity about the dangers of over-eating high fat and high cholesterol foods, and there have been profound changes in the average American diet.

"What we think we are seeing now are the effects of great changes in the lifestyles of men and women who have been reading and listening," Dr. Robert I. Levy, director of the Heart Institute, said in an interview.

"We can't prove to be sure yet that diet and other changes — like 25 per cent less smoking among middle-aged men — have contributed to the dramatic decrease we are seeing in cardiovascular deaths," he said.

"But it's looking very much as though this is the case, and this is very encouraging."

Levy said that "there is no doubt today" that a high blood cholesterol level is "a major risk factor" for heart disease, although it may take several years to prove beyond doubt whether lowering cholesterol levels can reduce heart attack deaths.

Also important, he said, has been a national anti-high blood pressure drive that began in 1972. Persons with high blood pressure have a high incidence of strokes and heart attacks.

Since 1972 screening campaigns have found early, previously unnoted high blood pressure in 8 million persons. There has been a 50 per cent increase in patients under treatment, with most of them now on drugs or diets to keep their blood pressure down.

Health officials first began noticing the drop in heart and stroke deaths about two years ago. In 1973 there were 1,062,000 deaths from heart and blood vessel disorders. Last year, with a larger and older population there were 975,000 such deaths.

Hurry Up With Port —Alaska

SEATTLE (AP) — Alaska Governor Jay Hammond says Washington residents should decide the site of a major oil port in the state quickly because it's costing Alaska money.

"It should appropriately be made by Washingtonians and I hope expeditiously," Hammond told a news conference Wednesday.

Hammond said the increased transportation costs of shipping oil to the United States Midwest by tankers via the Panama Canal will decrease Alaska's revenues.

"Bringing it to the west coast will reduce the adverse (financial) impact on Alaska."

Hammond said the existing Trans-Mountain Pipeline could absorb 300,000 barrels a day. That would require a port at Cherry Point, near Bellingham, a project supported by Washington Governor Dixy Lee Ray but not by the legislature.

"We believe the pipeline that would best serve Alaska and the nation would be the one that transverses the state . . ."

Reservists Parade Saturday

A parade of 500 naval reservists representing 18 divisions across Canada will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Naden Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt.

Rear Admiral T. S. Allen, chief of engineering and maintenance, National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa, will review the parade.

He will also visit the naval reserve training centre's new Patriot Division at Albert Head and see some of the trades courses in progress at Naden.

Eat Up.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

With the passage of time, it has been demonstrated that the presumed infallibility of our bridge experts is a myth. Admittedly, they commit fewer blunders than do the masses of bridge players, but at times they are quite capable of committing enormous "goofs." Today's deal is a case in point.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ◇	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇.

North's four-diamond bid was an artificial call, announcing the possession of a singleton diamond and four or more cards in responder's first-bid suit (clubs). When South subsequently bid four notrump, North misinterpreted the bid, thinking that the call was a general slam try. So he elected to pass. Actually, South intended his four-notrump bid as Blackwood, presuming that hearts (or, by inference, clubs) has been the agreed-upon trump suit.

After West had opened the diamond king, the defenders had it in their power to take the first six diamond tricks. But there's many a slip between the cup and the lip. East signaled encouragement by playing the nine. West now went into a huddle with himself. He finally concluded that East had the 0-9-x of diamonds, and that South had the J-x-x. And if such were the case, then the cashing of the diamond ace at trick two would "block" the suit; that is, the third diamond lead would be taken by East's queen, and West could never regain the lead to cash his three remaining diamonds.

And so it came to pass that a trick two West led a low diamond to East's presumed queen. A third diamond lead by East (hypothetically) would then pick up South's remaining Jack, and the defenders would make six diamond tricks.

At the conclusion of trick two West was an unhappy man. South captured the trick with the queen and, thanks to the 2-2 division of the four outstanding clubs, he ended up making 12 tricks.

When the deal was replayed, South arrived at the more normal four-heart contract, and made 12 tricks with no strain and no aggravation.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Friday, July 15

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may feel pressure of inaction, of being confined to one area. Key is patience. Older individual is checking, becoming aware of values, obtaining appraisals. You are going to benefit from this research. Cancer person figures in important way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Highlight versatility; ask questions, give full rein to intellectual curiosity. Gemini, Sagittarius persons figure prominently — so does the number "3". Take special care in traffic. Check instructions, messages, directions. Pleasant surprise comes late in day.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on details, legal procedures in connection with possessions, money, profit, ability to collect royalties. You may have to overturn orthodox methods. Rebuild on a more solid base. Plug financial loopholes. Aquarian is likely to be in picture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You're able to make contact with key people. Written word works to your advantage. Be receptive to change, travel, variety Gemini, Virgo individuals play roles in scenario. Cycle is high — you can take initiative. Display confidence. Trust your won judgment, intuition.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on domestic adjustment, home remodelling, decoration, purchase of luxury item. What occurs at cladestine conference continues to be spotlighted. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons play key roles. Yes, do make concessions to family interests. Diplomacy will pay dividends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Define terms. Avoid self-deception. Improve methods of display, communication. Romantic figure could enter your life. Friendship becomes "serious." Pisces figures prominently. Emphasis on valuable business contacts. Prestige is on upswing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on career, prestige, ability to develop affinity with those in power or authority positions. What had been misplaced can now be located. You can bring priorities into focus, can organize activities — and you can find out where you stand with love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Finish rather than begin — spread influence. Look beyond the immediate; obtain overall view. You'll be dealing with Aries, Libra person. Journey could be on agenda. Your views are sought. You might be writing, making suggestions to one who has access to the public.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec 21): Emotions dominate. New contacts, getting to heart of matters, special relationships command attention. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently and so does the number "1." One you admire will make no seret of feelings towards you. You could be overwhelmed!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be positive before making commitment of long-term legal standing. One who should know plenty could actually be in doubt. Protect your own interest — go, slow, play waiting game. Accent on responsibility, joint efforts, emotional ties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't force issues. Welcome fresh concepts, new contacts, social activity. Travel, vacaation spirit prevails. Leave details for another time. Change routine. Keep resolutions connected with recreation, hobby, getting together with those who have mutual goals.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Relationships intensify — member of opposite sex blurts out truth. Listen and learn. Get rid of superfluous material. Tighten procedures. Analyze recent "discovery." Gemini, Cancer and Virog figure in scenario.

IF JULY 15th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you have unusual voice, could teach, act — you eat too many sweets, have somewhat of a weight problem — you are charming, diplomatic and very conscious of security and money. Taurus, Libra and Scorpio persons play important roles in your life. You make new starts in new directions this year — July is a pressure-business-reward month. In August, your horizons are enlarged — you are able to dramatically illustrate beliefs, meanings. You have a new lease on life — you have left behind a "loser."

Special Treatment for Rhodos

Rhododendrons have become quite popular with home gardeners since the advent of container grown plants, but the majority of purchases still classify as impulse buying.

The rhododendron family is large, and the different types, the hundreds of named hybrids, the time of flowering, and the plants with which this family will, or will not, associate are part of the information needed by gardeners to grow these plants successfully

The botanical name describes the plants as they grow in the wild, rhodo a rose, dendron a tree, the Rose-tree, indicating the height which some species reach, yet many gardeners are surprised when their purchased plants grows to 10 or 15 feet.

In addition to the natural dwarf species, hybridizing has given us many smaller types, but the tree types are available and no amount of pruning will change their natural habit

As to the named varieties on the market today, the Rhododendron Year Book now exceeds the Daffodil Year Book in number of listings. Time of flowering extends from late winter into early summer, so it is possible to choose a variety to suit weather conditions within the garden.

In parks you may have noticed that rhododendrons are planted in beds to themselves. This is no cooincidence for it has been long known they thrive best when grouped with their own kind.

"The larger the leaves, the more shade needed," is another long standing rule for planting, and it still applies to those varieties with leaves 12 to 16 inches long.

While shade is recommended to preserve the foliage of all rhododendrons in some countries, locally we have found that several hours of sunlight each day is necessary for good flowering. We prefer to sacrifice perfect foliage for an abundance of flowers.

Rhododendrons are native to the lower levels of mountains in central Europe and in Asia, where rainfall approximates 100 inches a year. That is why they succeed so well on the north western shores of Vancouver Island.

In Victoria and district, with an average rainfall around 28 inches a year the plants need regular deep watering at the roots to make up the difference, especially during July and August when flower buds are initiated. But watering must be reduced in September to allow the season's growth to harden before frost.

Since rhododendron fertilizing is done only in March, they are not plants for the centre of a lawn that is fertilized and deweeded every month, nor on the edge of lawns where fertilizer and weed killers are picked up by the roots.

To become acquainted with the rhododendron family visit the Gorge Park and the Playfair Park (off Quadra or Tattersal Dr.) several times during the flowering season in spring an early summer, and again during late summer, fall, and winter, making written notes of those whose habit and color will suit your garden.

Then contact a rhododendron nursery, explaining where you wish to plant, the maximum allowable height, and the number of plants your intended bed will accommodate.

With your increased knowledge of the genus through observation in the parks, and the advice of the specialist grower, you will be well on your way to avoiding mistakes so easily made but so difficult to remedy.

U.S. Congress Reluctantly Accepts Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Congress has given President Carter authority to go ahead with development of controversial neutron warheads, but is retaining the power to veto any effort to put the weapons into production.

After nine hours of frequently emotional debate Wednesday night, the Senate rejected 58 to 38 a move headed by Senator Mark Hatfield (Rep—Ore.) to remove funds for the weapon contained in a public works appropriations bill.

The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference committee which must decide whether to leave in a limitation allowing Congress to reverse a presidential decision to produce the warheads designed for use by ATO forces in western Europe.

Carter has said he will decide next month whether to order production of the warheads, which kill more by highly-concentrated radiation than the explosive power of more traditional nuclear weapons.

In his unsuccessful fight to kill the neutron approhriation, Hatfield had significant Democratic support, including Senators Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Gary Hart of Colorado and Majority Whip Alan Cranston of California.

A closer vote had been expected. Hatfield lost a similar attempt by a 43 to 42 vote July 1.

One reflection of the importance placed on the issue by Carter was the presence of Vice-President Walter Mondale, who was dressed in a tuxedo and would have been called upon to break any tie votes.

Hatfield and other opponents of providing financing said there is a danger a president might be tempted to use the weapons in the false belief that they would not set off a general nuclear conflict.

Beyond that Hatfield said there is some scientific evidence that the warheads might create a radioactive hazard to civilian populations, despite the arguments of the Carter administration that the weapons' damage would be limited to a small area.

But many senators who voted with Hatfield said they were not necessarily opposed to the warhead, but instead wanted to insure the enate reserved its role in setting nuclear weapons policy and did not give the president "a blank cheque" to go ahead with production.

Both Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd and Minority Leader Howard Baker supported the neutron warhead. But in the end, Byrd and Baker proposed the compromise which passed the Senate 74 to 19 and provides that if both Houses of Congress vote to kill the weapon, a production decision by Carter would be reversed. Congress would have 45 days to act on such a proposal, and given the Senate vote on the Hatfield amendment, any congressional veto seemed unlikely.

Everybody Except The Bankers

A public meeting Wednesday night aimed at marshalling a reprieve for the 65-year-old Jones Building drew about 70 people but no one representing the Royal Bank owners.

Organized by the Hallmark Society and three other community groups, it produced a lot of talk, a little shouting and a resolution asking the bank to delay demolition until it has studied the merits of incorporating a restored Jones Building in plans for its new headquarters on Fort at Douglas.

City aldermen Bill Tindall, Ron McKenzie and John Hayes were on hand to explain council has no power to deny developers either demolition or building permits for projects which meet existing zoning requirements.

But society vice-president Stuart Stark noted today that the city of Victoria's heritage conservation report designated the Jones Building one of 133 buildings worth preserving early in 1975. The building was bought by the bank last January so aldermen had more than a year and a half to act but didn't.

Stark said the Hallmark Society will now take to the bank the drawings it has prepared showing how the Jones Building could be retained. The society will ask bank officials to undertake a feasibility study before proceeding with demolition.

Eviction of tenants in the building is slated for the end of this month.

EXECUTIVE SHOT BY GUERRILLAS

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Five gunmen in an automobile, apparently leftist guerrillas, opened fire on the home of an executive of the French auto firm Peugeot, killing a police guard and wounding the businessman and another guard, police sources reported.

The sources said the executive, Andres Gasparoux, and the wounded guard were in hospital in serious condition after the machine-gun attack near La Plata, 35 miles south of here. It was not known whether Gasparoux was a French national or an Argentinian.

BLAKENEY GETS TICKET

REGINA — Saskatchewan premier Allan Blakeney received a $40 speeding ticket Wednesday enroute to his weekly news conference here.

On arrival, the remier apologized for being 20 minutes late, saying he had run into a series of small problems while driving to the city from his cottage on Last Mountain lake about 25 miles north of Regina.

Blakeney said he had waited at a railway crossing for a train pulling a long line of boxcars. The boxcars had been backed up for two days because of a track wash-out.

The premier said he was stopped by police when he tried to make up lost time on a city street.

He is not sure whether he will pay the fine for travelling at 40 miles an hour in a 30-mile-an-hour speed zone or appear before a provincial magistrate.

Wall Protest

WEST BERLIN — A young Berliner Norbert Gustonisk began a hunger strike at the Checkpoint Charlie crossing point Wednesday to try to force the East German authorities to allow his fiancee and baby son to leave.

VANCOUVER — A North Vancouver businessman claims a dance with a mystery woman at a Vancouver nightclub cost him $35,000.

Kenneth Kay told police a woman he took out for dinner and a dance disappeared with a roll of 35 $1,000 bills he was carrying in his shirt pocket.

Kay, who recently sold his London Towne fish and chips franchise, said he picked up the woman named "Helen" in Truffles piano bar at the Hyatt Regency Hotel and took her to a restaurant on Broadway.

The pair went dancing at a nightclub, Kay said, but the woman disappeared and he returned to the Hyatt to find the money missing from his pocket.

Truffles bartender Leonard Cichecki said that Kay gave him a $1,000 bill to pay for a $300 bar tab and didn't ask for change.

Cichecki said he suspects a group who accompanied Kay to the bar and plied him with drinks was plotting to rob him.

"It made me nervous because there were all these people around."

The bartender said he tried to convince Kay, a regular customer at the bar, to put his cash in the hotel safe for the night. But Kay refused.

Cickecki said Kay waved three $1,000 bills around while he was at the bar and appeared to have some $100s, $20s and $10s in his shirt pocket.

He boasted that he was carrying more than $30,000 but never produced the cash, Cichecki said.

"I don't believe he had that much money because he likes to show everything he has and he didn't show me that much."

Beer Drinkers Get Form Chart

VANCOUVER — A University of California professor who has written a book aimed at giving beer drinkers respectability, said Wednesday that the best beer in North America is made by small breweries that try to avoid artificial additives.

Michael Weiner tested 24 brands of beer from a government liquor store and said the best two were made by Uncle Ben's Industries Ltd.

"It tended to prove that I was right all along, because the beer I chose, and I didn't know at the time, came from the smallest brewing operation in Western Canada," he said.

"All the big companies generally turn out a beer that is drinkable — barely — but its all done with computers, assembly lines, automation and fancy chemicals."

Weiner said small breweries generally make better beer because they pay attention to details, but he said there are some exceptions, mainly the big and renowned outfits such as Watney's in Britain and Heineken in Holland.

Weiner said he really enjoys beer because "there's so much to drink in ratio to the alcohol content" and hopes his book will teach people to treat beer with as much respect as they now accord fine wines.

"I'm not saying we should have beer snobs the way we have wine snobs, but let's stop putting beer down as the drink of people who can't afford anything better," he said. "Beer deserves a place of its own."

SLEEPERS BOUNCED

MONTREAL (CP) — An earth tremor shook towns throughout the Laurentians north of Montreal early today, bouncing people from their beds, rattling windows and vibrating floors.

"It was like a train passing through your room," said a spokesman from the St. Agathe weather office, 70 miles northwest of Montreal.

"It lasted a short time, but the windows were rattling and the floor was shaking,' said Yvonne Leng of St. Jerome.

The tremor, which began around 3:40 a.m., lasted about 30 seconds and was felt in a wide area between St. Agathe and St. Jerome, 40 miles north of Montreal. Police in the area reported numerous phone calls about the shake-up.

A Quebec provincial police spokesman said horns went off in parked cars in St. Agathe and a basement floor was cracked in Rawdon, several miles away.

The seismological office at College Jean de Brebeuf in Montreal said the tremor registered between 3 and 3.3 on the 10-point Richter scale and was strong enough to do minor damage to buildings.

"There have already been several minor earthquakes in the Laurentians this year," said Father Maurice Buist of the school's geology department, adding that the Laurentians, the St. Lawrence Valley and the Ottawa Valley are prone to seismological disturbances.

CALLS HIMSELF A MISFIT

Wallace Resigning From B.C. Politics

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

Tory Leader Scott Wallace, a self-styled "misfit in politics," today bid an emotional farewell to the B.C. political scene.

Wallace, declaring that his "common sense, moderation and sweet reason" are not suitable to the political climate of B.C., announced he will step down as leader of the party this fall and will not seek re-election as an MLA in the next provincial election.

The fiesty doctor-politican who first ran for the Social Credit party in his Oak Bay riding in 1969, cited personal reasons for not continuing his political career.

But he also made clear his disillusionment with politics in general, particularly in B.C., and voters who chose extremes.

"I tried to play it straight and to stick to the facts in the thinking that most voters are common-sense people," a subdued Wallace told a news conference this morning.

"That doesn't seem to be the answer."

Wallace's three-and-a-half-year term as party leader has been hot with battles, both philosophical and political, with the party brass.

His style of leadership, he said today, is not palatable to the federal arm of the party, and unsuccessful provincially.

"My style of leaership clearly is not leading to any increased support for the Progressive Conservative party in B.C.

"I only regret that Ihave not succeeded in providing the kind of leaership an charisma which attracts many new members an which are essential in building a party with the capacity to become government in this province."

The party needs more of a diplomat as leader, Wallace said, adding: "I've never been renowned as one."

Wallace has suggested in a letter to provincial party president Frank Oberle that a new leader be chosen at the party's annual meeting in Kelowna Oct. 7-10.

At that time, Wallace said, he will decide whether to step

PHILLIPS DRINKING AMNESIA MILK—NDP

Economic Development Minister Don Phillips has been taking a strange concoction called "milk of amnesia," the opposition suggested Wednesday.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver East) complained in the legislature that he has been waiting for 19 weeks for the minister to answer a question about the controversial B.C. Railway. (See other legislative stories on Page 27.)

Phillips promised an answer to the question "in due course," one of his favorite answers.

Blackout Paralyses New York

Times News Services

NEW YORK — New York City was virtually closed today, looters went to work and the biggest city in the U.S. was paralyzed by a massive, lightning-triggered blackout.

Dawn brought the first light in hours for millions of residents who endured the hot, summer night without power.

It was a long, humid night during which, police said, 2,000 persons were arrested for looting and 78 police officers were reported injured, including one who was shot.

Mayor Abraham Beame suggested city residents stay home until the emergency is resolved.

'It will not be possible to operate a normal day," he said.'

The blackout, which shut down the largest city in the United States at 9:34 Wednesday night, continued into the daylight hours as power technicians struggled to restore electricity one section at a time.

By 10:45 a.m. more than half of Con Edison's 2.8-million residential and business customers in the metropolitan area were still without power.

Officials said they hoped to have nost back in service by 2 p.m., but there was a possibility that some people might not get power for another 24 hours.

But in the heart of the city, there was barely a trickle of electricity.

"We cannot tolerate in this age of modern technology a power system that can shut down the nation's largest city," he said.

Traffic was extremely light as residents and workers apparently heeded Beame's request to stay home. Cabs and buses were operating, although no traffic signals worked.

Banks, state office buildings and off-track betting offices were closed. So were summer schools and gas station pumps.

Water was cut off in many of the city's larger buildings as electric pumps failed.

The subways were useless, most commuter railroads motionless. Wall Street was shut down, the stock market out of business for the duration.

Elevators were immobilized.

Hundreds of hotel residents slept in the lobbies rather than mount staircases to their rooms on uupper floors.

Beame said there will be no

The City Became a Jungle . . .

Times News Services

NEW YORK — On the hottest night of the summer, New York City became a jungle without lights Wednesday, crimping the lifestyle of more than eight million people.

Without electricity, New York dies quickly and the second blackout here in nearly 12 years began to do just that.

Coming out of Lincoln Tunnel into Times Square from brightly-lit New Jersay was a shock even for one who had been through the 13-hour blackout in 1965.

The New Jersey cabbie doing the driving armed himself with an eight-shot, .25-calibre revolver. "I can hit a mouse at 40 feet," he said as he drove to New York.

Going into Times Square, even in a locked taxi with an armed driver when there are no lights — except from flares, flashlights and emergency lights in a few buildings — is like entering another world.

Thousands of people milled around the streets of Times Square, staying close to the darkened buildings. The sin strip of porno shops and massage parlors, the theatre marquees touting x-rated pictures, and the rest of the seedy picture were mercifully hidden by the darkness.

But the people were there. That scared the cabbie. "I'm glad I've got my gun," he said.

When darkness hit the steel shutters and iron fences provided sequrity for some of New York's stores. However, other stores were not so fortunate.

In one small way the blackout was no different from most events here: Har-

Cycle Tryout Costly

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver youth who offered his friend the use of his powerful motorcycle for a solo tryout ride must share damages for injuries the friend suffered in a crash Mr. Justice E. Davie Fulton ruled Wednesday.

The B.C. Supreme Court judge, ruled that Gregory Monte Lawson, then 17, the owner of the 650 cubic centimetre machine, was negligent in failing to warn his friend Michael Richard Stermer, also 17, about the sudden surge of power from any substantial twist of the throttle and about the touchy nature of the tuned-up brakes.

At the same time, the judge held that Stermer was equally responsible for his own injuries by not taking responsible precautions for his own safety.

Court was told that on April 27, 1974, Lawson offered Stermer the use of his motorcycle for a trial spin, that Stermer had limited experience on small trail bikes but none on larger machines, that during the ride he lost control while applying power and crashed into a house and suffered severe injuries.

Court was told that the injured youth did not have a motorcycle licence, and also was told that in B.C. no practical test or written test. is required before a person may obtain a learner's licence.

Apolice spokesman said Constable Peter Werner, 20, has been visiting friends and was just driving off when the accident occurred, about 1 p.m.

The girl, whose name is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin, died instantly, the spokesman said.

Water Cut, Fish Die

CRANBROOK (CP) — Hundreds of fish have died because the city cut off their water supply and stored it upstream for domestic use, a British Columbia fisheries biologist said Wednesday.

Norn Ringstad, biologist for the fish and wildlife branch, said up to 1,000 yellow cutthroat and some rainbow trout are dead.

He said the fish use Joseph Creek as a spawning ground but, following this year's drought, the city impounded the water upstream at its new reservoir. The creek supplies most of Cranbrook's drinking water.

"We are virtually powerless to do anything about it," Ringstad said.

Only Alberta Won't Join Chicken Marketing Board

Provincial agriculture ministers, with the exception of Alberta, have agreed in principle to a national marketing board for chicken producers.

In a communique issued Wednesday following an annual agriculture minister's conference, they said they would take the proposed national broiler marketing plan to their respective cabinets and would let Ottawa know their final positions by Aug. 15.

The plan has been opposed by the Consumers Association of Canada, which says it will cost consumers about $87 million annually.

Under the program, broiler producers in each province would be allowed to set their own farm-gate prices based on cost-of-production formu-

The broiler plan, worked out by the Canadian Broiler Council, a producer organization, would cost about $500,000 to run. Adrian Levesque, a member of the federally-appointed National Farm Market Council and a former New Brunswick agriculture minister, said operating money would come from producers.

The plan sets production for Canada at 590 million pounds for birds weighing less than four pounds, slaugher weight and 58 million pounds for biris more than four pounds.

Alberta Agriculture Minister Marvin Moore said in an interview Alberta is against the program because producers are almost "100 per cent against joining."

He said the main reason is Alberta would lose almost 15 per cent of its present production and the national plan would not allow producers flexibility to "adjust to consumers' demands, particularly when these change quickly."

During the closed three-day conference, Alberta said it would not oppose the plan as long as the agency stays out of Alberta.

Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan told a news conference he could not force Alberta to join, but felt it should because the plan had been worked out with agreement by the majority.

The ministers also said that agricultural marketing boards should be exempt from the federal government's new Competition Act.

Officer Jumps, Disarms Gunman

A Victoria policeman spent a tense 15 minutes late Wednesday night talking to an armed man — later identified as a former mental patient — before he and two other officers jumped the man and seized a small arsenal.

Insp. Angus Stewart, head of the detective branch today had high praise for the trio — Constables Ivan Sikich, Charlie Brown and Det. Sgt. Ted James.

"It was a brave thing to do," Stewart said. "They showed a lot of guts."

The incident occurred at Gordon's Sporting Goods, 1031 Hillside.

John McCorisken, 24, of 1008 Hillside, appeared in provincial court today charged with breaking and entering. He was remanded to Friday for plea and released from custody on his own recognizance.

Police were called to the store at 11:14 p.m. when passer-by Kevin Anderson, of 2819 Fifth Street, noticed a window in the front door had been smashed and guns normally kept in a rack on the wall had been removed.

Anderson looked through the window and saw a man crouching near the back of the store with a rifle in his hands.

Stewart said Sikich, the first officer to arrive, went through the window and was crawling on the floor when he heard a rifle bolt click.

"He knew he was in trouble right then and there," Stewart said. "From what I gather he started talking just as fast as he could."

While about a dozen officers surrounded the building and cordoned off the street Sikich talked to the man who was holding the rifle against his own chest and spoke about committing suicide.

Sikich jumped him and managed to wrest the weapon away and James and Brown helped subdue him.

James received a cut in the struggle and was taken to Victoria General Hospital where he was treated and given six stitches. The man taken into custody was treated for leg cuts.

Stewart said the officers seized a .30-30 Winchester rifle with one shell in the breech and another in its clip, a loaded 12-gauge shotgun and a knife.

Stewart said the suspect has a history of mental illness and is a former patient at Eric Martin Institute.

He said the man appeared to have been drinking and possibly taking pills but was not intoxicated.

Martin Nash . . . "a magnificent obsession"

He's Charming But He Cheats

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

The long, rainy afternoons in isolated Owen Bay on Sonora Island north of Campbell River don't leave much for a kid to do so Martin Nash turned to cards.

That was 37 years ago when Martin was a restless seven-year-old. Today he is considered one of the greatest card manipulators in the world, and still practises eight to 12 hours a day seven days a week.

And as he flashes his way around a deck of cards, all those years of patient practice shows . . . uh, that is, it doesn't show.

Hence the reason behind the "Charming Cheat's" public performances and consultation with police vice squads.

Nash can't resist the temptation to show off a new trick he has mastered: a move that might prove fatal to a genuine card cheater.

"A professional cheat can't let anyone know how good he is," Nash says and grins, indictating that he can and love to.

Nash is good. To get to his level, it requires thousands of hours of practice to master jut one trick, and Nash knows dozens.

"It's an obsession admittedly," he says, "but I like to think of it as a 'magnificent obsession'," he adds, punning on the title of the famous Lloyd Dougias novel.

Rather than make a living as a professional card cheat, nash tours North America hired by clubs and organizations to give deemonstrations. He also does television shows and mall promotions.

Nash is "on call" to some 5,000 police departments around the world. In his pocket he carries a medallion emblematic of his honorary membership in the International Association of Police Chiefs — the only civilian to carry one, he says.

He also lectures college criminology classes on how to spot a card cheater.

Gambling is big business. Last year in North America gambling "handled" $600 billion, Nash says. With profits averaging 12 per cent, that's a $72 billion profit. No wonder there are cheaters.

But if you know what you are looking for, a cheater is easy to spot.

There are two main card cheating methods — marked cards and second dealing, where the dealer keeps the top card on the deck for himself — usually an ace that he sets up there — and deals the others the second card.

Even when Nash deals slowly with the observer knowing what to look for, it is difficult to spot second dealing. Fortunately not many, if any, are as good as Nash.

If a good cheater is patient and waits for the right hand, he may have to cheat only once or twice in an evening of poker to make big money.

During one hand, the cops made their move. Unfortunatly only two cops saw the sleight-of-hand and the other two missed it. The case was thrown out of court.

It's a good thing Nash can make a good living the way he does. If he had chosen a cheating career instead, he would have been formidable.

Most professional cheaters have one basic move, while Nash has perfected dozens.

Diamond rings flashing on each hand as he shoots his cuffs, the flamboyant Nash shuffles a couple of times, cuts the deck and deals eight hands of draw poker on the maroon velvet surface.

Player number one gets three queens, number three has four kings, Nash the dealer is sitting on four aces.

"I let those two play off each other," he says, pointing to one and three, "and then I move in."

It's truly amazing. The trick isn't in the cards, its in the shuffling. His feel for the deck is so good, he can place cards where he wants them during a fairly fast shuffle. And he can manipulate the cut of the deck so it doesn't foul up his careful "riffle stocking."

"How do you do it?" someone asks.

"Very well and very quickly," is his stock answer.

Straight gambling bores him, although he admits to spending $2 worth of nickels in the slot machines of Las Vegas.

Do the casino dealers cheat?

But Nash says a good poker player getting bad cards will consistantly beat a poor player getting good cards. The poor player doesn't know when to raise, when to drop out, when to bluff, so he'll still lose.

Another Nash homily: it's not true that all gamblers cheat, but is it true that no cheater ever gambles. They only bet on a sure thing.

Well, this reporter is no cheater but he'll bet on a sure thing. If you see Nash up at the Mayfair mall, you'll be impressed.

Even odds.

Abortions Reduce School Enrolment

Therapeutic abortions, cited as a major reason for declining school enrolment in Vancouver elementary schools, are also a factor in Victoria, planning director Jack Dalgleish said Wednesday.

A Vancouver school board report says therapeutic abortions in the past 10 years are a major factor in a one-third drop in elementary school enrolment.

Dalgleish said there are a number of reasons for the declining enrolment in Greater Victoria. The birth control pill and therapeutic abortions have some effect, although there is no way of knowing the exact extent, he said.

For several years in the 1960s and early 1970s the Grade 1 enrolment hovered around the 2,600 mark. But a drop of 1,000 to around 1,600 is expected, Dalgleish said.

And the fall-off compounds as each class goes through the system to where eventually there are 11,000 to 12,000 fewer students.

The drop has been fairly consistent over the years. In 1966, 3,464 first-graders registered. But the projected enrolment for 1982 (based on the 1976 birth rate) is only 1,625.

Young couples unable to find work are moving out of the city, and others are moving to the suburbs.

(Total school enrolment has dropped from a peak in 1972 of 30,878 students to a projected 21,659 10 years later in 1982.)

Although some officials feel 1982 will be the lowest point of the trend, Dalgleish said he could see no indicators that enrolment won't contine dropping.

A major planning report slated for September is expected to give school board officials an indication of measures they should take to compensate.

More school closures are a possibility, including for the first time a major junior or senior secondary school.

But planners couldn't take into account that some 100 newly-constructed homes in the area wouldn't be sold.

Negotiators Happy With Works Switch

Times Staff

A joint union-management committee has now determined which public works ministry employees will be offered jobs in the B.C. Building Corp.

The committee has also worked out options for the 800 workers whose jobs will be eliminated when the Crown corporation becomes fully operational in April, 1978.

Union committee member Don Burns said Wednesday the selection process was completed Tuesday night and will be voted on by the B.C. Government Employees Union executive Aug. 1.

If the executive accepts the package, details will be made available to the public works employees, he said.

Burns said the union members of the committee are recommending aceptance of the package which he feels is a good one from the employees' point of view.

"We are very happy with the way things have gone," he said. "It's been better than we anticipated."

The committee has been meeting for about eight weeks after being set up in May to arrange the orderly transition of employees to the new corporation and protection for those whose jobs will be scrapped.

There are about 2,100 public works employees and the corporation will employ about 1,000. Another 270 will remain with the public works ministry and 800 jobs will be eliminated.

Burns said the commiittee has worked out options which include placement elsewhere in the public service, early retirement, severance pay or in-service training for other work.

He said the BCBC jobs will be offered to the most senior employee in a particular classification. If the employee turns it down, he or she will be given the same options as the 800 and the next most senior employee will be offered the BCBC position.

Burns said there are still about 15 BCBC positions in dispute.

At issue is whether they should be part of the selection process or simply a prerogative of the corporation to fill.

The final decision will likely have to be made by the B.C. Labor Relations Board, he said.

The union agreed that some jobs were management positions and as such could be posted and filled by people the corporation feels are the most competent.

Burns said to date no BCBC position has been filled without the knowledge and consent of the union.

He said he has had a few complaints from employees that they are not being given a fair shake in winning posted jobs at BCBC but not too many.

Burns comments differ markedly with reports from the legislature earlier this month about an atmosphere of anxiety, fear and disillusionment among public works employees.

Conservative Leader Scott Wallace told the legislature he has heard of an executive secretary in the public works ministry being turned down for a similar position with BCBC and an Alberta man being hired despite the fact qualified persons within the ministry applied for the job.

Burns said three executive secretaries will be hired for BCBC and two of them are from within the ministry. He said the woman in question still has a chance at the third position but the corporation is continuing to look for someone with more qualifications.

Charles Barber (NDP—Victoria) told the legislature a safety engineer earning $1,300 will be transferred to a clerical postion in the ministry of education.

A public works interior designer will be given the job as typist in the recreation and conservation ministry, he said.

"There are hundreds and hundreds of people in this riding, whom I represent, who believe that the minister is either unwilling or unable to honor his promise to protect their jobs," Barber said.

Board Gives Big Lift To Mobile Home Park

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

Sidney will likely have the largest mobile home park on Vancouver Island after the Capital Region joined it Wednesday in a plea to remove 62 acres from the farmland freeze.

Leisure Villa Estates Ltd. wants to develop the park for about 250 mobile homes on 33 acres south of Weiler Avenue, between Canora Avenue, the Pat Bay Highway and the town boundary.

Four other property owners are also involved in the appeal to the provincial cabinet to remove a total of 62 acres from the Agricultual Land Reserve.

At the time the reserve was established four years ago Sidney and the regional board wanted the land kept out but the B.C. Land Commission overruled them.

The owners subsequently applied to have the land removed, were turned down and it is this rejection Sidney council, supported now by the region, is appealing.

Directors were told Wednesday the property is surrounded by housing, has sewer and water services and is marginal farmland at best.

Only directors Dave Hill of Central Saanich and Eve Howden of View Royal voted against removing the land although board chairman Jim Campbell also spoke against it.

Campbell said the test directors have always applied in the past on removing land from the ALR was: was the proposed use important and was there nowhere else it could be carried out?

He said he is conviced the use is important but not that there are no other suitable sites in the district.

Hill said the issue is the land's present capacity for farming and he is afraid that society will be sorry in future if chunks of land are pared from the reserve. In this case, such a move is against the region's own official planning.

Director Jerry Tregaskis, the Sidney alderman who has led the struggle for regional support, said no one will lease the land for farming.

Tregaskis said today the mobile home park will be built under a land-use contract with Sidney if the appeal is successful and density would be slightly over seven units per acre.

There would be landscaping around the entire perimeter as well as along a stream bed on the property and the architect-designed project would include two tennis courts, a swimming pool, three shuffle board layouts, activity rooms and guest rooms, he said.

Patient Comfort

Q. Does a walking club exist in Victoria? If so, whom can I contact?—G.B.

A. The Victoria Outdoor Club. Contact Alice Walker, 260 Prospect Road, 479-5055.

Q. Did Friedrick Froebel, German educator, establish the first Kindergarten? S.M.

A. He is regarded as the father of the Kindergarten movement, although other educators had established schools for educating young children before he did. He was the first to name the school a kindergarten — in 1837.

Q. Is Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. still living. If so, where is his home and what is he now doing? G.M.

A. Yes. His home is in London, England. He publishes stories and poems.

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria MLA Sam Bawlf is doing nothing to help the tourist industry and is doing the district some harm by suggesting Saanich should forget about developing a major new shopping centre, May Ed Lum said today.

The mayor was commenting on a statement by Bawlf Wednesday to Victoria Chamber of Commerce that Saanich was being penny wise and pound foolish by insisting upon having a major new shopping centre.

Bawlf, who is recreation minister, said tourists come to Victoria to shop downtown and they don't want to travel to a standard suburban shopping centre to make their purchases.

Bawlf said Saanich should forget its plan and encourage the development of a third department store in downtown Victoria.

Bawlf said he realized his remark was controversial and "a bit of an intrusion." Only about 30 people out of 250 applauded the proposal.

Lum said today Bawlf made no sense because "tourists come here to relax, not to shop."

But the main issue, Lum said, is not the tourist industry but the immediate needs of the people of Greater Victoria.

"We need a major shopping centre in Saanich right now. It is overdue. Thousands of people would rather shop in the suburbs where they can get parking. When you go downtown you have to circle several blocks before you can find a space. I seldom shop downtown for that reason."

Lum said a major Saanich shopping centre would do no harm to the tourist industry and would meet an urgent need for the peninsula.

He said his personal choice for a site is Broadmead, which is rapidly becoming the population centre for the peninsula.

"This is not a new proposal. It first came before council in 1961 and was approved by council in 1966.

"My feeling is we should proceed with Broadmead and shelve the second proposal (for a shopping centre in the Tillicum area) for about 20 years."

At the chamber meeting at The Empress attended by Victoria Mayor Mike Young and several Victoria aldermen, Bawlf said:

"People are not going to be attracted here to drive through an empty city centre to a typical suburban shopping centre for stimulation.

"Tourism and retail and restaurant services go hand-in-hand. A sophisticated shopping and dining milieu is essential to our tourism. And our hotels and services for the tourist are not going to survive without the trade of suburban Victorians to supplement their income.

"So I want to tell you that I am deeply concerned at the mounting pressure for the addition of more major shopping centres in our suburbs. This, in my view, would be a disaster," he said.

"If the services of one or both of our downtown department stores are permitted to be duplicated in the suburbs, along with dozens of national retailers, the blow to our main retail and tourist service centre would be staggering.
